Drop In Temps Proves Sleeper's Boon

No Letup In Heat Forecast

3.6-In. Downpour Floods Gordon

Lincoln sleeepers were given a rare treat Tuesday night when the mercury—which has been causing nothing but misery—dipped to the middle 70s before midnight.

While it was 92 at 5:30 p.m., the 11:30 p.m. reading showed the temperature a restful 75.

However, today's prospects aren't too bright.

Another round of widely scattered thunderstorms is expected to put a dent in the long Nebraska dry spell.

But hot, humid conditions were forecast again for the state, sending the mercury up once more to above-100 range in southwestern Nebraska.

For the extreme northeast some relief was sighted in a prediction of a high around 90 degrees.

All the points reporting in the state listed temperatures below 100 degrees but the relief was not what it could have been as the humidity soared.

The highest point reporting was Lincoln, with a top of 97 degrees. Norfolk, in the northeastern part of the state, rejoiced in a miximum of only 80 degrees.

For most points, relief was only temporary.

Above Normal

The five-day forecast calls for temperatures through Sunday averaging 5 to 10 degrees above the normal maximums of 91 in the west and 93 in the east. Precipitation probably will average .15 to .25 of an inch during the period.

Rains came to scattered parts of the state Monday night and early Tuesday.

Rainfall totaling 3.60 inches fell at Gordon, most of it in a 30 minute period, according to Mrs. Reva Evans, Gordon editor.

Force of the water backing up to the basement entrance of the Gordon hospital caused the door to open. The boiler room was almost filled with water. Some water damaged the hospital kitchen and laundry room.

The Gordon Fire Department spent considerable time pumping water from the basement of the hospital. Many basements in Gordon homes also had several inches of water.

Highway Closed

South of Gordon, downpours ranging up to four and a half to five and a half inches were reported. Highway 27 was closed for several hours by water over the road.

Valentine reported 1.05 inches of precipitation. Sidney received .39 of an inch.

In Chadron, rainfall totaled .29 of an inch. But about seven miles south of town two inches was reported.

Lightning struck a power line in Chadron and knocked out the electrical system for one hour and 50 minutes.

Holt County in the northeast had its first rainfall in several weeks. Among amounts in that area were .35 of an innch at O'Neill, .75 at Butte, .50 at Spencer and .25 at Stuart.

Ex-Sen. Moody Is Dead

Former Washington Political Writer Fails Rally From Pneumonia

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Former U. S. Sen. Blair Moody died at 3:55 p.m. Tuesday at University Hospital. He was 52. The death of the former Washington political writer came as a shock to his followers who had believed he was recovering from an attack of virus pneumonia and soon would resume his campaign for the Democratic nomination as U. S. senator in the August primary.

Blair Moody

Only a few hours before, Moody's campaign headquarters had issued a statement reporting he was recuperating from his illness. The statement criticized the policies of Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson, who is unopposed for renominaior

Moody's death left Patrick V. McNamara of Detroit unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Moody's friends had contended since the start of the primary campaign that he would be the strongest Democratic candidate to beat Ferguson.

Moody was stricken last month while campaigning at Hancock, Mich., in the Upper Peninsula. It first was reported he had suffered a heart attack but physicians later said he was suffering from virus pneumonia that caused a congestion about the heart and created symptoms similar to a coronary attack.

Suffered Reversal

Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis, head of the Department of Internal Medicine at University Hospital, said Moody "had extensive involvement of the lungs. He had been doing very satisfactorily. Then suddenly he suffered a reversal and died."

In Lansing, a spokesman for Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams said the governor was on a fishing trip and could not be notified of Moody's death.

Moody, a former Washington correspondent for the Detroit News, was appointed to the Senate by Gov. Williams in 1951 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Republican Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg. He was defeated in 1952 in his first attempt at election by Charles W. Potter, then a Republican congressman from Michigan.

Moody had parlayed a reputation as a global reporter and "man about Washington" to a seat in the United States Senate.

For more than 25 years his aggressive interest in things governmental, his probing mind and untiring coverage of Detroit, Washington and world capitals had made him one of the leaders in a select group of political correspondents who became confidantes of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

—Power Contract—

TVA Plan Vote OKd By Senate

Demos Refuse Nod On Entire 'A' Bill

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate reached agreement Tuesday night for a vote Wednesday on whether to legalize President Eisenhower's plan for a private power contract to supply the Tennessee Valley Authority at West Memphis, Ark.

GOP leader William F. Knowland announced, however, that the Democrats have refused to enter into any unamimous consent agreement for voting or limiting debate on the administrations entire atomic -energy bill, of which the power provision is a part.

Knowland warned that he may keep the Senate in session all night Wednesday night in an effort to dispose of about 20 proposed amendments and reach a vote on the atomic measure itself.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) objected that "it would be unreasonable to dispose of so important a measure in one all-night session."

The bill would end the government's monopoly of the atom, permit private atomic power plants and give more atomic information to U.S. allies.

Bills Remain

Knowland said he appreciated Gore's views, but pointed out that the farm, foreign and, unemployment, housing, taxation and other important bills remained to be disposed of. The GOP leader is still seeking adjournment about Aug. 1.

His exchange with Gore occurred just before the Senate recessed. The voting Wednesday will end an eight-day debate on the controversial issue of private power in the Tennessee Valley.

The first Senate voting will be on an amendment to make the President's plan illegal. Sen Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) has offered to legalize the private power contract, but a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) was brought up as a substitute just before the recess.

Anderson announced following a conference of those opposing the plan that an overwhelming Senate vote of approval for the disputed plan would mean a further "bitter fight on the whole bill."

Ray of Hope

The huddle of Democrats with Sen. John S. Cooper (R-Ky) and Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore) produced the first ray of hope of curtailing the extensive debate over the Atomic Energy Commission contract ordered by the president.

Earlier, Sen. William Langer (R-ND) backed up by Morse, accused Mr. Eisenhower of "selling the people down the river" in ordering AEC to negotiate the contract.

Involved is a 107-million-dollar, 25-year contract the President ordered negotiated with the Dixon-Yates utility group to furnish private power to TVA.

Murray, D'Ewart Lead In Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Montana's senior senator, Democrat James E. Murray, and veteran Republican Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart moved quickly into commanding leads Tuesday night for their party's nominations to the U.S. Senate.

The Montana primary wound up one of the state's quietest campaigns in years.

Pentagon Quizzed On 'Earnings'

Over Million Netted In Defense Housing

WASHINGTON (INS)—Clint W. Murchison Jr., testified Tuesday his firm netted more than $1,550,000 on two defense housing projects and Senate investigators demanded explanation of the earnings.

Senate banking chairman Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind), expressing surprise at the testimony of the wealthy Texan, said Congress had always been told it was impossible for builders to profit on defense housing.

Capehart called for a Defense Department explanation of the situation amid these developments in the committee's probe of scandals in the Federal Housing Administration:

1. New York builder David Muss testified that ousted assistant FHA commissioner Clyde L. Powell, named as the "key" figure in the scandals, claimed the Republican National Committee wanted Powell fired from his job to make room for a political appointee. Muss said he planned to hire Powell at $12,000 a year but disclosure of the scandals ended the deal.

Swiss Investment

2. An associate of Muss, wealthy New York builder Norman K. Winston, testified a group of Swiss citizens gave him $250,000 to invest in the U. S. and so far they have gotten back $450,000 on apartment loans.

3. Housing and Home Finance Agency officials considered what action they can take to require a large group of apartment builders to submit sworn answers to a detailed questionnaire on their operations. The questionnaires were mailed last month to 7,000 builders and were due five days ago. But industry sources charged that HHFA was using the documents as "a fishing expedition."

915 Shots Of GG Given At Broken Bow

BROKEN BOW, Neb. (AP)—An estimated 915 persons moved in steady streams Tuesday through the offices of six Broken Bow doctors to receive gamma globulin inoculations for polio.

All persons in this town of 3,396, and those within the trade area, were invited in this week for inoculation following eight new cases of polio in the vicinity over the week-end. Last Friday, Virginia Cole, 16, Broken Bow, first to be stricken, had died. The area has had a total of ten cases to date this year.

Doctors said Tuesday that those who crowded the offices were "not panicky, but just on the verge of it."

Broader Security Plan OKd

Senate Group Votes Sweeping Revisions

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate Finance Committee unanimously approved Tuesday a sweeping liberalization of the social security system, increasing the number of persons covered, the benefits they draw and the tax they pay.

The far-reaching measure, asked by President Eisenhower, is regarded as one of the biggest changes in social security since the system was adopted in the mid-1930's.

Finance Chairman Eugene Millikin (R-Colo) annouced, he expects the bill will be ready for floor action next week.

The bill brings about seven million additional persons under social security and is expected to boost the cost of the benefits next year by about 700 million dollars.

Payments under social security now are costing about three billion, 600 million dollars. Tax collections to finance them now are five billion, 200 million dollars and next year will amount to about six billion dollars.

Final action came after the committee voted to go beyond the House-passed bill in liberalizing benefits for retired persons. It did this in two ways:

1. Lowered from 75 to 72 the age at which a retired person may earn an unlimited amount of money without loss of his old-age benefits.

2. Boosted to $1,200 the ceiling on income which those from 65 to 72 may earn without any loss of pension. The present ceiling is $900.

Food Ordered Almost Tells The Temperature

"You can almost tell the temperature by the kind of food people order in restaurants" seemed to be the opinion of cafe own- The favorites, other than iced ers who commented on Lincoln's hot weather eating habits.

The favorites, other than iced tea and other cold drinks, are cold salads, sandwiches, cold meat plates and any other light food.

The restaurant men said that their patrons appetites drop off sharply when the sun kicks the mercury over the 100 degree mark. One commented that "they feel pretty punk and their appetites show it."

One food that nobody wants on a hot hot day, they agreed, is one that uses a good deal of grease, such as fried foods. The only order for such food, Harold Kelly of 2816 Jefferson said, comes from truck drivers and other late-hour workers.

Restaurant owner Joe Carter of 612 So. 37th praised the advent of air conditioning saying that "some people come in to beat the heat and end up eating quite a meal I don't know how we ever got along without such a device; it really makes a difference."

He said his customers leaned heavily toward "anything light," in ordering their meals.

Rice-Rich Delta And Hanoi Put In Reds' Hands

Viet Nam Split In Two; Laos And Cambodia To Be Free; Firing Will Halt Within 48 Hours

By KINGSBURY SMITH

GENEVA (Wednesday) (INS)—The long sought Indochina cease-fire agreement was concluded early today as Geneva conference delegates reached a settlement giving half of rich Viet Nam, including Hanoi and the Red River delta rice bowl, to the Communists.

Military representatives signed the cease-fire agreements on Viet Nam and Laos in a hall of the huge League of Nations building.

Even before the formal signing a silence fell on the jungle battleground around Hanoi as soldiers of both the French union and the Viteminh rebels, weary of seven and a half years of bitter battle, sweated out the war's end.

No cease-fire was proclaimed immediately although the military agreements were signed by the official representatives of the rival commanders-in-chief in Indochina.

Later in the day, the all-important political agreements — which the United States helped negotiate but will not sign—will be formally agreed to. Similarly, the Cambodian delegation will sign a military cease-fire agreement along the lines of that concluded for Laos.

CUT IN HALF

Viet Nam, scene of the bitterest fighting in the long war, will suffer the most under the settlement. Half of its territory and 12 million of its 22 million people will go under the Red yoke.

Last minute reluctance on the part of Cambodia stymied the wrapup ceremonies, originally set for Tuesday night. Under the agreements finally reached Laos and Cambodia will be free and undivided, although the Laotians will have to deal peacefully with rebels in their northern provinces.

The cease-fire pacts were finally signed at 3:47 a.m. (8:47 p.m., CST Tuesday) at the Palais Des Nations. Almost two hours earlier, newsmen outside the ceremonial hall were told the signing was over. This announcement was later denied.

Shortly before the actual signing was to take place photographers were permitted to enter the room. In three minutes, years of war and bargaining was ended with the signatures of the French, Laotian and Vietminh representatives on the cease-fire documents.

Final Plenary Session

The military agreements, reached a few hours after the midnight deadline set by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, were a prelude to the political settlement — affecting territory, population and future elections—set for signing later today. A final plenary session of the conference was set for this afternoon.

The war which has bled France of her troops and treasure will end shortly.

The cease-fire declaration will be relayed to all French union and Vietminh troops and the last shot in the bitter war probably will be fired within 48 hours.

Under the terms of the agreement, India, Canada and Communist Poland will appoint commissioners to supervise the truce.

MENDES-FRANCE

. . . his peace promise fulfilled three hours late

These were the highlights of the reported settlement.

1. Vietnam, site of most of the fighting which began in December, 1946 will be divided near the 17th parallel, close to the narrowest section of the seacoast country. This gives the Vietminh communists the fertile and populous Red River Delta, including Hanoi and—after a 10 months delay—the Port of Haiphong.

2. The United States, which will not agree to a formal guarantee of the settlement, will not be permitted to establish military bases in any part of free Indo-china.

3. Cambodia, far south of the demarkation line, will remain free.

4. Laos will have about the same status, although the Communist guerrilas operating there may be permitted to some say in administering a small area of the kingdom.

5. All-Viet Nam elections to re-unify the divided state will be delayed at least for a year, probably longer.

6. The people of Viet Nam will have 300 days to decide whether they wish to live under Communist or free rule.

7. Haiphong will be evacuated in 10 months and then neither side will exercise control of any area in the other's zone.

The signing of the military agreement came virtually as an anti-climax.

Throughout Tuesday night, announcements were issued one after the other setting the time for signing.

Then, apparently catching most delegates by surprise, Cambodia said it was not satisfied.

The delegates held a hectic conference at the British Headquarters finally working out a settlement agreeable to the Cambodian representatives.

Representatives of Gen. Paul Ely, French union commander in Indo-China, and Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, his Vietminh rebel opponent, initialed the pacts in the presence of the other discussion-weary delegates.

Although Viet Nam did not assent to the military compact, Chief of State Bao Dai's representatives have said they would not disrupt a settlement. The Vietnamese troops fighting in Indochina are under command of the French.

Seemingly as a token of success, the military agreement was initiated by the delegates at a large horseshoe-shaped table. Two separate documents, covering the Vietnamese and Loatian cease-fires, were formally signed by representatives of the armies in Indo-China.

Cambodia Balks

Most of the top-ranking ministers did not attend the formalities at the Palais Des Nations. They had spent most of Tuesday night trying to mollify Cambodia and ironing out the few unsettled points—all minor—in the political agreement.

At no time did U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith enter into the latter negotiations, except in an informal manner. The foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, France, the Vietminh rebels and Cambodia met with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at Eden's villa to work out the Cambodian problem.

Under the terms of the numerous agreements eventually concluded, all of rice-rich north Viet Nam, including its 12 million people, go under the Communist yoke.

Distasteful as this agreement might be to the free world, it was apparently the best that Mendes-France could get. He said he would not settle on anything but honorable terms. His success, according to reports from Paris, would make him France's hero of the hour.

Blair Moody

Only a few hours before, Moody's campaign headquarters had issued a statement reporting he was recuperating from his illness. The statement criticized the policies of Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson, who is unopposed for renomina.ior

Moody's death left Patrick V. McNamara of Detroit unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Moody's friends had contended since the start of the primary campaign that he would be the strongest Democratic candidate to beat Ferguson.

Moody was stricken last month while campaigning at Hancock, Mich., in the Upper Peninsula. It first was reported he had suffered a heart attack but physicians later said he was suffering from virus pneumonia that caused a congestion about the heart and created symptoms similar to a coronary attack.

Suffered Reversal

Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis, head of the Department of Internal Medicine at University Hospital, said Moody "had extensive involvement of the lungs. He had been doing very satisfactorily. Then suddenly he suffered a reversal and died."

In Lansing, a spokesman for Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams said the governor was on a fishing trip and could not be notified of Moody's death.

Moody, a former Washington correspondent for the Detroit News, was appointed to the Senate by Gov. Williams in 1951 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Republican Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg. He was defeated in 1952 in his first attempt at election by Charles W. Potter, then a Republican congressman from Michigan.

Moody had parlayed a reputation as a global reporter and "man about Washington" to a seat in the United States Senate.

For more than 25 years his aggressive interest in things governmental, his probing mind and untiring coverage of Detroit, Washington and world capitals had made him one of the leaders in a select group of political correspondents who became confidantes of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Pentagon Quizzed On 'Earnings'

Over Million Netted In Defense Housing

WASHINGTON (INS)—Clint W. Murchison Jr., testified Tuesday his firm netted more than $1,550,000 on two defense housing projects and Senate investigators demanded explanation of the earnings.

Senate banking chairman Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind), expressing surprise at the testimony of the wealthy Texan, said Congress had always been told it was impossible for builders to profit on defense housing.

Capehart called for a Defense Department explanation of the situation amid these developments in the committee's probe of scandals in the Federal Housing Administration:

1. New York builder David Muss testified that ousted assistant FHA commissioner Clyde L. Powell, named as the "key" figure in the scandals, claimed the Republican National Committee wanted Powell fired from his job to make room for a political appointee. Muss said he planned to hire Powell at $12,000 a year but disclosure of the scandals ended the deal.

Swiss Investment

2. An associate of Muss, wealthy New York builder Norman K. Winston, testified a group of Swiss citizens gave him $250,000 to invest in the U. S. and so far they have gotten back $450,000 on apartment loans.

3. Housing and Home Finance Agency officials considered what action they can take to require a large group of apartment builders to submit sworn answers to a detailed questionnaire on their operations. The questionnaires were mailed last month to 7,000 builders and were due five days ago. But industry sources charged that HHFA was using the documents as "a fishing expedition."

—Power Contract—

TVA Plan Vote OKd By Senate

Demos Refuse Nod On Entire 'A' Bill

WASHINGTON (INS)—The Senate reached agreement Tuesday night for a vote Wednesday on whether to legalize President Eisenhower's plan for a private power contract to supply the Tennessee Valley Authority at West Memphis, Ark.

GOP leader William F. Knowland announced, however, that the Democrats have refused to enter into any unamimous consent agreement for voting or limiting debate on the administrations entire atomic -energy bill, of which the power provision is a part.

Knowland warned that he may keep the Senate in session all night Wednesday night in an effort to dispose of about 20 proposed amendments and reach a vote on the atomic measure itself.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) objected that "it would be unreasonable to dispose of so important a measure in one all-night session."

Bills Remain

Knowland said he appreciated Gore's views, but pointed out that the farm, foreign and, unemployment, housing, taxation and other important bills remained to be disposed of. The GOP leader is still seeking adjournment about Aug. 1.

His exchange with Gore occurred just before the Senate recessed. The voting Wednesday will end an eight-day debate on the controversial issue of private power in the Tennessee Valley.

The first Senate voting will be on an amendment to make the President's plan illegal. Sen Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) has offered to legalize the private power contract, but a proposal by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM) was brought up as a substitute just before the recess.

Anderson announced following a conference of those opposing the plan that an overwhelming Senate vote of approval for the disputed plan would mean a further "bitter fight on the whole bill."

Ray of Hope

The huddle of Democrats with Sen. John S. Cooper (R-Ky) and Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore) produced the first ray of hope of curtailing the extensive debate over the Atomic Energy Commission contract ordered by the president.

Earlier, Sen. William Langer (R-ND) backed up by Morse, accused Mr. Eisenhower of "selling the people down the river" in ordering AEC to negotiate the contract.

Involved is a 107-million-dollar, 25-year contract the President ordered negotiated with the Dixon-Yates utility group to furnish private power to TVA.

Broader Security Plan OKd

Senate Group Votes Sweeping Revisions

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate Finance Committee unanimously approved Tuesday a sweeping liberalization of the social security system, increasing the number of persons covered, the benefits they draw and the tax they pay.

The far-reaching measure, asked by President Eisenhower, is regarded as one of the biggest changes in social security since the system was adopted in the mid-1930's.

Finance Chairman Eugene Millikin (R-Colo) annouced he expects the bill will be ready for floor action next week.

The bill brings about seven million additional persons under social security and is expected to boost the cost of the benefits next year by about 700 million dollars.

Payments under social security now are costing about three billion, 600 million dollars. Tax collections to finance them now are five billion, 200 million dollars and next year will amount to about six billion dollars.

Final action came after the committee voted to go beyond the House-passed bill in liberalizing benefits for retired persons. It did this in two ways:

1. Lowered from 75 to 72 the age at which a retired person may earn an unlimited amount of money without loss of his old-age benefits.

2. Boosted to $1,200 the ceiling on income which those from 65 to 72 may earn without any loss of pension. The present ceiling is $900.

Food Ordered Almost Tells The Temperature

"You can almost tell the temperature by the kind of food people order in restaurants" seemed to be the opinion of cafe own- The favorites, other than iced ers who commented on Lincoln's hot weather eating habits.

The favorites, other than iced tea and other cold drinks, are cold salads, sandwiches, cold meat plates and any other light food.

The restaurant men said that their patrons appetites drop off sharply when the sun kicks the mercury over the 100 degree mark. One commented that "they feel pretty punk and their appetites show it."

One food that nobody wants on a hot hot day, they agreed, is one that uses a good deal of grease, such as fried foods. The only order for such food, Harold Kelly of 2816 Jefferson said, comes from truck drivers and other late-hour workers.

Restaurant owner Joe Carter of 612 So. 37th praised the advent of air conditioning saying that "some people come in to beat the heat and end up eating quite a meal. I don't know how we ever got along without such a device; it really makes a difference."

He said his customers leaned heavily toward "anything light," in ordering their meals.

Rice-Rich Delta And Hanoi Put In Reds' Hands

Viet Nam Split In Two; Laos And Cambodia To Be Free; Firing Will Halt Within 48 Hours

By KINGSBURY SMITH

GENEVA (Wednesday) (INS)—The long sought Indochina cease-fire agreement was concluded early today as Geneva conference delegates reached a settlement giving half of rich Viet Nam, including Hanoi and the Red River delta rice bowl, to the Communists.

Military representatives signed the cease-fire agreements on Viet Nam and Laos in a hall of the huge League of Nations building.

Even before the formal signing a silence fell on the jungle battleground around Hanoi as soldiers of both the French union and the Viteminh rebels, weary of seven and a half years of bitter battle, sweated out the war's end.

No cease-fire was proclaimed immediately although the military agreements were signed by the official representatives of the rival commanders-in-chief in Indochina.

Later in the day, the all-important political agreements — which the United States helped negotiate but will not sign—will be formally agreed to. Similarly, the Cambodian delegation will sign a military cease-fire agreement along the lines of that concluded for Laos.

CUT IN HALF

Viet Nam, scene of the bitterest fighting in the long war, will suffer the most under the settlement. Half of its territory and 12 million of its 22 million people will go under the Red yoke.

Last minute reluctance on the part of Cambodia stymied the wrapup ceremonies, originally set for Tuesday night. Under the agreements finally reached Laos and Cambodia will be free and undivided, although the Laotians will have to deal peacefully with rebels in their northern provinces.

The cease-fire pacts were finally signed at 3:47 a.m. (8:47 p.m., CST Tuesday) at the Palais Des Nations. Almost two hours earlier, newsmen outside the ceremonial hall were told the signing was over. This announcement was later denied.

Shortly before the actual signing was to take place photographers were permitted to enter the room. In three minutes, years of war and bargaining was ended with the signatures of the French, Laotian and Vietminh representatives on the cease-fire documents.

Final Plenary Session

The military agreements, reached a few hours after the midnight deadline set by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, were a prelude to the political settlement — affecting territory, population and future elections—set for signing later today. A final plenary session of the conference was set for this afternoon.

The war which has bled France of her troops and treasure will end shortly.

The cease-fire declaration will be relayed to all French union and Vietminh troops and the last shot in the bitter war probably will be fired within 48 hours.

Under the terms of the agreement, India, Canada and Communist Poland will appoint commissioners to supervise the truce.

MENDES-FRANCE

. . . his peace promise fulfilled three hours late

These were the highlights of the reported settlement.

1. Vietnam, site of most of the fighting which began in December, 1946 will be divided near the 17th parallel, close to the narrowest section of the seacoast country. This gives the Vietminh communists the fertile and populous Red River Delta, including Hanoi and—after a 10 months delay—the Port of Haiphong.

2. The United States, which will not agree to a formal guarantee of the settlement, will not be permitted to establish military bases in any part of free Indochina.

3. Cambodia, far south of the demarkation line, will remain free.

4 Laos will have about the same status, although the Communist guerrilas operating there may be permitted to some say in administering a small area of the kingdom.

5. All-Viet Nam elections to re-unify the divided state will be delayed at least for a year, probably longer.

6. The people of Viet Nam will have 300 days to decide whether they wish to live under Communist or free rule.

7. Haiphong will be evacuated in 10 months and then neither side will exercise control of any area in the other's zone.

The signing of the military agreement came virtually as an anti-climax.

Throughout Tuesday night, announcements were issued one after the other setting the time for signing.

Then, apparently catching most delegates by surprise, Cambodia said it was not satisfied.

The delegates held a hectic conference at the British Headquarters finally working out a settlement agreeable to the Cambodian representatives.

Representatives of Gen. Paul Ely, French union commander in Indo-China, and Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, his Vietminh rebel opponent, initialed the pacts in the presence of the other discussion-weary delegates.

Although Viet Nam did not assent to the military compact, Chief of State Bao Dai's representatives have said they would not disrupt a settlement. The Vietnamese troops fighting in Indochina are under command of the French.

Seemingly as a token of success, the military agreement was initiated by the delegates at a large horseshoe-shaped table. Two separate documents, covering the Vietnamese and Loatian cease-fires, were formally signed by representatives of the armies in Indo-China.

Cambodia Balks

Most of the top-ranking ministers did not attend the formalities at the Palais Des Nations. They had spent most of Tuesday night trying to mollify Cambodia and ironing out the few unsettled points—all minor—in the political agreement.

At no time did U.S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith enter into the latter negotiations, except in an informal manner. The foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, France, the Vietminh rebels and Cambodia met with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at Eden's villa to work out the Cambodian problem.

Under the terms of the numerous agreements eventually concluded, all of rice-rich north Viet Nam, including its 12 million people, go under the Communist yoke.

Distasteful as this agreement might be to the free world, it was apparently the best that Mendes-France could get. He said he would not settle on anything but honorable terms. His success, according to reports from Paris, would make him France's hero of the hour.

Viet Nam Tragedy Doesn't Mean Much To Peasant

He'll Continue Working, Not Understanding The Stakes

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

No matter what happens now in Indochina, the Vietnamese peasant will continue to shoulder his bamboo yoke and accomplish his daily round of hard labor at his peculiar, mincing trot.

It doesn't mean much to him that the free world took a disastrous beating in his country at the hands of the Communists. He knows next to nothing about that. He has no understanding of the stakes.

He will not be concerned with the idea that conquest of more than half his country poises the victorious Communist colossus at the gateway to all of rich Southeast Asia. He will be slow to realize that 15 million of his brethren, more than half the population of Viet Nam, are being handed over to communism.

Mistakes Of Centuries

How did the tragedy of Viet Nam come about? Some of the mistakes are buried in the mists of centures. Some were committed in recent yesterdays.

In the 170 years since the first French missionaries ventured into Indochina, there has been practically no change in the peasant's life. There were great changes in the cities, but the peasant farmed in the primitive, wasteful way of his forefathers, drove his plodding water buffalo through saturated paddies, existing on the rice he grew.

It was that way in 1787 when, in the name of Louis XVI, a French missionary signed a treaty with the king of Cochin China in southern Indochina. The French Revolution halted that phase of French penetration and for the next half century Indochina's contact with the outside was largely limited to missionaries. But in 1858, angered by a slaughter of missionaries, the French arrived in force, captured Tourane, the port of the imperial city of Hue on the coast. By 1862 all Cochin China was conquered and colonization was under way in earnest.

Subsequent French expeditions made little difference to the peasants, though it meant a rich harvest for France, the foundation of many a Paris fortune. The bubble burst in 1940 with World War II and Japanese invasion.

Relax! Lincoln Is Still The Place To Get That Good 5c Candy Bar

Sweet-tooth-equipped Lincolnites can breathe a sigh of relief. The five-cent candy bar will remain priced at just five cents.

With the three major chocolate companies in the county raising prices effective Tuesday, many localities announced the advent of the six-cent bar.

One Lincoln candy and tobacco wholesaler said, "The increased costs here will undoubtedly be absorbed by the distributing channels and the merchants in the majority of cases. You just can't get six cents for a candy bar."

Early Casualty

The Lincoln wholesaler added that perhaps the earliest casualty of the increased chocolate price would be the "three-for-a-dime" candy bar sales. "Retailers selling candy bars three for a dime probably will not continue the practice." he predicted.

There were no fears expressed that the nickel cany bar would retain its price but decrease its size.

"The bar now is so small that it's an impossibility to make it any smaller," the wholesaler said. "If they did, it would be too fragile to handle."

Price Doubles

The cocoa bean price has doubled within the last year—an unprecedented occurance in the industry. Increased consumption and demand, plus recent crop failures on Africa's Gold Coast (where most of the cocoa beans are grown) and South America account for the shortage and price hike.

Cany bar vending machines will probably offer 10-cent bars exclusively, the wholesaler said, and added that a "big push" will be made to sell the dime bars.

Water, Power Situation Arouses Deep Concern

Early Morning North Reservoir Level Only 8 Feet, South 10-4

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

City officials have expressed concern over both power and water demands which have exceeded the available supply.

According to A Street Plant Superintendent Fred Blumer, the power load or demand hit an all-time record high Monday night. Blumer reported he was convinced the air conditioning load, both commercial and residential, was the big factor.

On top of that, the water demand hit 33,317,500 gallons on Monday in the face of a maximum average daily supply of 32 million. This demand left the city's water reservoirs four feet below normal Tuesday morning

The situation was even darker early Wednesday morning with the report that the north reservoir level was a mere eight feet, and the south 10 feet, four inches

Well Below Normal

This means that the north reservoir was seven feet below normal and the south four feet, six inches below normal.

On the basis of recovery from midnight Monday to Tuesday morning, the Wednesday morning level should be below the Tuesday morning level — meaning more ground was lost during the night and making the situation even more critical.

During the day Tuesday when no sprinkling was allowed other water uses keep the reservoirs down with even a slight loss experienced. When sprinkling started at 5 p. m., the demand shot up, according to Blumer.

The whole Tuesday picture will not be known until all charts and figures are checked on Wednesday.

Besides the big demand for water, pumps on local water wells had to be shut down for a time Monday night to compensate for the high power load. According to Blumer, there was just too big a load to run the pumps.

Fingers Crossed

And while the water table is going down on the local wells, Blumer said he is keeping his fingers crossed on that point. The wells, which supply about 10 million gallons of water per day, could turn salty if pumped to long without a let up.

If conditions continue like this, Blumer said, something else will have to be done to cut power and water use. Water restrictions now in effect permit lawn and garden watering on opposite sides of the streets on alternate days and between the hours of 5 p.m. to 12 midnight only.

North 14th Property Owner Protests Construction Of Four-Lane Highway

Another North 14th property owner has appeared before the Lancaster County Board to discuss the effects of a four-lane stretch of paving the county has under construction there.

Jacob Busch of 1711 No 14th, said he believed "the county should set my house back a safe distance" because jarring effects of buses and trucks on North 14th is damaging the foundation of his house.

When told the highway is being constructed well within the county's right-of-way, Busch replied that "maybe the road's not on my property, but I have a right to live like a human being."

He said "my house was built before the road was ever built there—and now a four-lane highway is going in."

42-Foot Paving

County Engineer Louis Weaver said a 42-foot paving is being constructed on a 66-foot right-of-way, still leaving 12-foot of county property on each side of the pavement.

Set-back of Busch's house was estimates at about 15 feet from the property line and 27 feet from the curb.

While pointing out that nothing could be done to change construction plans, the board referred the matter to the county engineer for investigation and report.

In other action, the commissioners approved vacation of blocks 85 and 86 at the northwest corner of 48th and Cornhusker Highway.

'Stub End'

The attorney for Abel Investment Company, which asked the vacation of the property, said the board's action "finishes out of the stub end of a plat which was vacated a number of years ago."

County Engineer Louis Weaver recommended vacation of the property and there was no opposition at a hearing.

Viet Nam Tragedy Doesn't Mean Much To Peasant

He'll Continue Working, Not Understanding The Stakes

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

No matter what happens now in Indochina, the Vietnamese peasant will continue to shoulder his bamboo yoke and accomplish his daily round of hard labor at his peculiar, mincing trot.

It doesn't mean much to him that the free world took a disastrous beating in his country at the hands of the Communists. He knows next to nothing about that. He has no understanding of the stakes.

He will not be concerned with the idea that conquest of more than half his country poises the victorious Communist colossus at the gateway to all of rich Southeast Asia. He will be slow to realize that 15 million of his brethren, more than half the population of Viet Nam, are being handed over to communism.

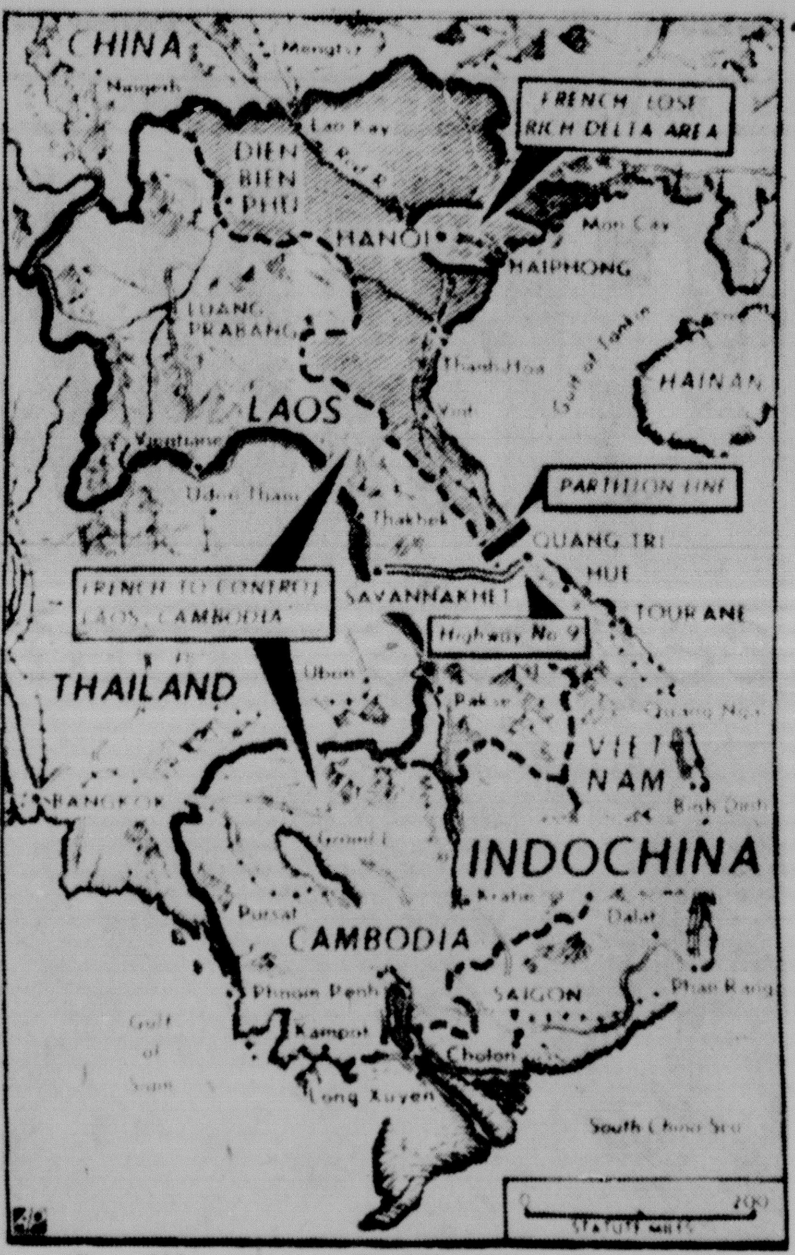
Mistakes Of Centuries

How did the tragedy of Viet Nam come about? Some of the mistakes are buried in the mists of centures. Some were committed in recent yesterdays.

In the 170 years since the first French missionaries ventured into Indochina, there has been practically no change in the peasant's life. There were great changes in the cities, but the peasant farmed in the primitive, wasteful way of his forefathers, drove his plodding water buffalo through saturated paddies, existing on the rice he grew.

It was that way in 1787 when, in the name of Louis XVI, a French missionary signed a treaty with the king of Cochin China in southern Indochina. The French Revolution halted that phase of French penetration and for the next half century Indochina's contact with the outside was largely limited to missionaries. But in 1858, angered by a slaughter of missionaries, the French arrived in force, captured Tourane, the port of the imperial city of Hue on the coast. By 1862 all Cochin China was conquered and colonization was under way in earnest.

Subsequent French expeditions made little difference to the peasants, though it meant a rich harvest for France, the foundation of many a Paris fortune. The bubble burst in 1940 with World War II and Japanese invasion.



East-West Agree To Viet Nam Partition

Agreement to end the eight-year war in Indo-Chinna was reached at Geneva Tuesday, with the partitioning of Viet Nam along a line running about 12 miles north of Highway No. 9 leading from Quang Tri on coastal road to Savannakhet in Laos. Cease fire pact gives North Viet Nam to Vietminh, shaded area. South Viet Nam goes to French-sponsored Viet Nam. French will control Laos and Cambodia. (AP Wirephoto Map.)

'No Clearance'

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del), said Tuesday that during the Truman administration an associate of Frank Costello and other underworld figures won a large war contract and that a colleague was given a defense job without FBI clearance.

Williams, in a Senate speech, charged that the firm headed by Louis I. Pokrass, obtained the seven-million-dollar Korean War order despite the fact his bid was 20 per cent higher than competing firms.

Held In Basement

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Police took a 5-year-old deaf mute from a filthy, fly-infested basement room of a 10-room home in a middle-class residential section.

Walter Barnewolt, state's attorney investigator, said the boy was cooped up in a dirty, 8-by-10-foot room which had been kept locked.

Edwin Nevin, 56, owner of the house, and his wife Edna had housed the boy for a year as a ward of the Catholic Social Service, Barnewolt said.

Relax! Lincoln Is Still The Place To Get That Good 5c Candy Bar

Sweet-tooth-equipped Lincolnites can breathe a sigh of relief. The five-cent candy bar will remain priced at just five cents.

With the three major chocolate companies in the county raising prices effective Tuesday, many localities announced the advent of the six-cent bar.

One Lincoln candy and tobacco wholesaler said, "The increased costs here will undoubtedly be absorbed by the distributing channels and the merchants in the majority of cases. You just can't get six cents for a candy bar."

Early Casualty

The Lincoln wholesaler added that perhaps the earliest casualty of the increased chocolate price would be the "three-for-a-dime" candy bar sales. "Retailers selling candy bars three for a dime probably will not continue the practice," he predicted.

There were no fears expressed that the nickel cany bar would retain its price but decrease its size.

"The bar now is so small that it's an impossibility to make it any smaller," the wholesaler said. "If they did, it would be too fragile to handle."

Price Doubles

The cocoa bean price has doubled within the last year—an unprecedented occurance in the industry. Increased consumption and demand, plus recent crop failures on Africa's Gold Coast (where most of the cocoa beans are grown) and South America account for the shortage and price hike.

Cany bar vending machines will probably offer 10-cent bars exclusively, the wholesaler said, and added that a "big push" will be made to sell the dime bars.

Eddie Phillips Shows Gain

MIDDLETOWN, O. (AP)—Six-year-old Eddie Phillips showed some signs of gain Tuesday in his fight to live.

The lad, afflicted with a deficiency of some kind in his blood, has been bleeding almost constantly since he had his tonsils removed on July 6. He has had more than a score of transfusions.

Physicians reported at mid-afternoon the boy had not needed a transfusion since 2 o'clock Tuesday morning and they expressed hope he might be able to do without any more if he continued to gain strength.

His doctor added Eddie still is "a very, very sick boy."

Attaches at the hospital said Eddie was able to ask for his mother Tuesday morning when a tube in his throat was changed.

He was a charter member of Havelock Christian Church and had been a member of East Lincoln Christian Church for the last 28 years.

Surviving are his wife, Lillie M.; a daughter, Mrs. Iona F. Paul of Lincoln; a sister in Sweden; two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Methodist Group To Give Play Friday

Christopher Fry's delightful and fun-giving play set in 10th Century England, "The Boy With a Cart," will be presented at Pinewood Bowl under auspices of the Methodist City Union of Lincoln Friday night at 8 p.m.

There will be no admission charge.

The play will be presented by the Bishop's Company, which after playing in churches of the southwest since January, 1953, is now breaking ground nationally as the first major denominational effort to bring professional drama back into the services of the church.

Kennedy Responsible

Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles, former pastor of St. Paul Methodist Church in Lincoln, is responsible for formation of the Bishop's Company, now en route to Evanston, Ill., to play before the World Council of Churches.

"There are tremendous implications for good in this uniting of the interest of the theatre and the church," Dr. Kennedy declares. "It has the possibility of being a great ministry, of opening new vistas for seeing God, of discovering new ways of serving God."

Rural Teacher Shortage Over

Shortage of rural school teachers which has plagued the state department of education for several years is being fully met this year, according to F. B. Decker, state superintendent.

Decker said that the only shortage apparent at the present time is qualified teachers for elementary grades in city schools.

North 14th Property Owner Protests Construction Of Four-Lane Highway

Another North 14th property owner has appeared before the Lancaster County Board to discuss the effects of a four-lane stretch of paving the county has under construction there.

Jacob Busch of 1711 No. 14th, said he believed "the county should set my house back a safe distance" because jarring effects of buses and trucks on North 14th is damaging the foundation of his house.

When told the highway is being constructed well within the county's right-of-way, Busch replied that "maybe the road's not on my property, but I have a right to live like a human being."

He said "my house was built before the road was ever built there—and now a four-lane highway is going in."

42-Foot Paving

County Engineer Louis Weaver said a 42-foot paving is being constructed on a 66-foot right-of-way, still leaving 12-foot of county property on each side of the pavement.

Set-back of Busch's house was estimates at about 15 feet from the property line and 27 feet from the curb.

While pointing out that nothing could be done to change construction plans, the board referred the matter to the county engineer for investigation and report.

In other action, the commissioners approved vacation of blocks 85 and 86 at the northwest corner of 48th and Cornhusker Highway.

'Stub End'

The attorney for Abel Investment Company, which asked the vacation of the property, said the board's action "finishes out of the stub end of a plat which was vacated a number of years ago."

County Engineer Louis Weaver recommended vacation of the property and there was no opposition at a hearing.

Water, Power Situation Arouses Deep Concern

Early Morning North Reservoir Level Only 8 Feet, South 10-4

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

City officials have expressed concern over both power and water demands which have exceeded the available supply.

According to A Street Plant Superintendent Fred Blumer, the power load or demand hit an all-time record high Monday night. Blumer reported he was convinced the air conditioning load, both commercial and residential, was the big factor.

City Engineer D. L. Erickson agreed that persons probably left their air conditioners on most of the night.

On top of that, the water demand hit 33,317,500 gallons on Monday in the face of a maximum average daily supply of 32 million. This demand left the city's water reservoirs four feet below normal Tuesday morning.

The situation was even darker early Wednesday morning with the report that the north reservoir level was a mere eight feet, and the south 10 feet, four inches.

Well Below Normal

This means that the north reservoir was seven feet below normal and the south four feet, six inches below normal.

On the basis of recovery from midnight Monday to Tuesday morning, the Wednesday morning level should be below the Tuesday morning level—meaning more ground was lost during the night and making the situation even more critical.

During the day Tuesday when no sprinkling was allowed other water uses keep the reservoirs down with even a slight loss experienced. When sprinkling started at 5 p. m., the demand shot up, according to Blumer.

The whole Tuesday picture will not be known until all charts and figures are checked on Wednesday.

Besides the big demand for water, pumps on local water wells had to be shut down for a time Monday night to compensate for the high power load. According to Blumer, there was just too big a load to run the pumps.

Fingers Crossed

And while the water table is going down on the local wells, Blumer said he is keeping his fingers crossed on that point. The wells, which supply about 10 million gallons of water per day, could turn salty if pumped to long without a let up.

If conditions continue like this, Blumer said, something else will have to be done to cut power and water use. Water restrictions now in effect permit lawn and garden watering on opposite sides of the streets on alternate days and between the hours of 5 p.m. to 12 midnight only.

Edward R. Paulus, Employe Of State, Dies At Age Of 54

Edward R. Paules, shop foreman for the State Department of Roads and Irrigation, died Tuesday evening at a local hospital. He was 54.

Mr. Paules, who lived at 2945 South, was born in Harvard, Neb., and had lived in Lincoln two years. He was a member of Lincoln Lodge No. 19, AF & AM, the Eastern Star, and the Congregational Church at Harvard.

Surviving are his wife Clara; a daughter, Mrs. Donna Ward, Columbus, O., his mother, Mrs. Bertha Paulus, Hastings; a sister, Mrs. Ervin Spencer, Clay Center, and a brother, Elmer Paulus, Harvard.

McCarthy Accepts Cohn Resignation, Shifts Surine

Showdown Is Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) Tuesday reluctantly accepted the resignation of Roy Cohn as Chief counsel of the Senate Investigating subcommittee and transferred Donald A. Surine, another aid who has been under fire.

The moves came in advance of a showdown session of the subcommittee, a majority of whose members had demanded a staff "house-cleaning."

Surine, a former FBI agent, was one of two McCarthy subcommittee assistants who have been refused clearance by the Defense Department to handle secret mattrs. The other, Thomas Lavenia, was kept in his post, at least temporarily.

McCarthy announced that Surine was being transferred from the post of assistant subcommittee counsel to McCarthy's Senate office payroll.

'White Slaver'

Praising Surine in a statement, McCarthy accused an unnamed Democratic committeeman of using an affidavit of "a jailed white slaver in an attempt to discredit Mr. Surine." No details were given.

This maneuvering beat to the punch members of McCarthy's subcommittee bent on a staff shakeup. The upshot was that when six of the seven subcommittee members met over a steak lunch in the old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol building there was nothing that could be done about firing Cohn or Surine. And a decision on Lavenia was put off until a report comes in from the Defense Department regarding its refusal to grant him security clearance for handling secret correspondence.

McCarthy confirmed to reporters that both Surine and Lavenia have been refused such clearance. He said he has asked Secretary of Defense Wilson for the reasons the two men were not cleared. He added that he plans to seek Surine's return to the subcommittee staff when a reply comes in.

However, a spokesman at the Pentagon said the Defense Department would not give McCarthy any reasons for denying the clearances. The spokesman said Wilson has written McCarthy a letter explaining that the Defense Department's stand is based on confidential information.

Blowoff Fails

Aside from Cohn, Surine and Lavenia, all the other 22 men and women on the staff were confirmed in their jobs by the subcommittee, including Chief of Staff Francis P. Carr. There had been reports Carr also was on the way out.

McCarthy said all the votes today were unanimous. So the big blowoff over the staff failed to come off. Now, McCarthy said, he is going to continue an investigation of alleged Communists in defense plants.

Whatever lay behind Cohn's resignation, there was some cheering about it from one of McCarthy's chief foes, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt).

"So far so good," Flanders said in a statement.

"This of course does not reach the heart of the problem presented by the junior senator from Wisconsin."

The Vermont senator took the Senate floor later with his already-published speech urging support of his resolution to censure McCarthy for what he calls conduct unbecoming a senator as chairman of the subcommittee.

Flanders originally had planned to call for a vote on the resolution Tuesday but now plans to do so July 30. Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) assured Flanders of "my wholehearted support."

Government Beef Buying Program Urged By Miller

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) Tuesday urged secretary of Agriculture Benson to consider another government beef buying program if the drought in the Western states continues. Benson put on a beef buying program last year when drought swept the cattle growing areas.

"I fear that if this drought doesn't end soon it will result in a disastrous situation for cattlemen," Miller wrote Benson.

Candidate's Signs Pulled Down

Marshall Stahnke, Republican candidate for nomination as county commissioner in the 2nd district, has reported to the sheriff's office what he describes as "malicious destruction" of private property. In the past several weeks, Stahnke said a number of his two feet by four feet wooden political signs have been destroyed. The "last straw" so far as Stahnke was concerned was the ripping up of a number of smaller cardboard signs and throwing them on his front lawn. (Star Staff Photo.)

Elkhorn Farm Will Become Benedictine Monastery Soon

Lincoln Star Special

ELKHORN, Neb. — A $1 million Benedictine monastary and seminary will be constructed on a farm northwest of Elkhorn.

The work will start late this fall. A chapel and three wings, built to house 200 men, will be included in the initial construction.

Mt. Michael Monastary will house 20 monks and have provisions for 120 young men studying for the priesthood. It will be a "minor seminary" a school for students of high school age.

Mt. Michael's will be operated by the Benedictine order which has its mother house at Conception, Mo. Like other Benedictine institutions it will be largely self-supporting with the monks doing the farming. Seven monks are currently residing at the farm.

The 280-acre farm, three miles north and two miles west of Elkhorn, was donated to the order by Rex Olson of Omaha in 1952. Construction of the new buildings is expected to be completed within a year.

Future plans call for inclusion of a college program, offering two years of instruction, in the seminary.

The Rt. Rev. Abbot Stephen Schappler, superior at Conception, is directing the Mt. Michael project. The Rev. Henry Huber has been appointed superior of Mt. Michael and the Rev. Edgar Probstsfield, business managef.

Centralized Penal Authority Urged

The state should consider getting every state function relative to crime and delinquency under one authority.

That was the opinion expressed by Supt. George Morris of the Men's Reformatory in a talk Tuesday at a luncheon meeting on "State Needs In Correctional Institutions."

Morris advanced the recommendation of the American Prison Association that each state have a department of corrections which would control the correctional institutions, parole and probation.

"This would create a board which could deal with one problem rather than several different ones," he said. Morris emphasized that he had no dispute with Nebraska's Board of Control but said he felt the suggested department would be a more effective system.

Permanent Injunction Is Sought

Attorney General C. S. Beck said Tuesday that his office will seek to have made permanent the temporary injunction granted against the Crete American Legion post to prevent them from conducting any kind of raffle or lottery.

He explained that at the time of seeking the temporary injunction attorneys for the Legion post introduced evidence that the raffle has been an annual event.

Claude Van Landingham, commander of the post, said Tuesday, "I have never told anyone that we gave a car away Sunday night." This was in answer to reports in some newspapers that a car had been given away in violation of state lottery laws.

"I have a lot of respect for the attorney general," he continued. "In view of the notoriety we have received, I don't wish to make any further comment."

Saline County Sheriff John Tesar said nothing illegal took place at the park Sunday night.

"I was in the park and the jubilee was as clean as a schoolgirl's complexion," he commented.

Francis W. Roeca Dies At Age Of 92

Francis William Roeca, 92, of 3012 So. 17th, died at his home Tuesday.

A native of Raden, Germany, he had lived in Lincoln 50 years. He was a mercantile tailor. He was a member of Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church.

Surviving are his wife, Gertrude M.; two sons, Frank and William, both of Washington, D. C.; six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Ruling On School Attachment Given

The Nebraska attorney general's office held in an opinion Tuesday that when a new area is attached to a school district, the attachment remains even should the attached area lose all its children of school age.

The opinion was asked by Joseph J. Divis of Thedford, Thomas county attorney.

Divis also asked: "Must the land owned by all of the petitioning freeholders actually adjoin the Thomas County high school district at the present time, or may those whose lands abut adjoining landowners file with the adjoining landowners in order to have a territory owned by all attached as a block?"

In reply, the attorney general's office said: "The lands of one or more of the petitioning landowners must abut the Thomas County high school district, and all of the land sought to be attached to the district must be contiguous thereto."

McCarthy Accepts Cohn Resignation, Shifts Surine

Showdown Is Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) Tuesday reluctantly accepted the resignation of Roy Cohn as Chief counsel of the Senate Investigating subcommittee and transferred Donald A. Surine, another aid who has been under fire.

The moves came in advance of a showdown session of the subcommittee, a majority of whose members had demanded a staff "housecleaning."

Surine, a former FBI agent, was one of two McCarthy subcommittee assistants who have been refused clearance by the Defense Department to handle secret mattrs. The other, Thomas Lavenia, was kept in his post, at least temporarily.

McCarthy announced that Surine was being transferred from the post of assistant subcommittee counsel to McCarthy's Senate office payroll.

'White Slaver'

Praising Surine in a statement, McCarthy accused an unnamed Democratic committeeman of using an affidavit of "a jailed white slaver in an attempt to discredit Mr. Surine." No details were given.

This maneuvering beat to the punch members of McCarthy's subcommittee bent on a staff shakeup. The upshot was that when six of the seven subcommittee members met over a steak lunch in the old Supreme Court chamber in the Capitol building there was nothing that could be done about firing Cohn or Surine. And a decision on Lavenia was put off until a report comes in from the Defense Department regarding its refusal to grant him security clearance for handling secret correspondence.

McCarthy confirmed to reporters that both Surine and Lavenia have been refused such clearance. He said he has asked Secretary of Defense Wilson for the reasons the two men were not cleared. He added that he plans to seek Surine's return to the subcommittee staff when a reply comes in.

However, a spokesman at the Pentagon said the Defense Department would not give McCarthy any reasons for denying the clearances. The spokesman said Wilson has written McCarthy a letter explaining that the Defense Department's stand is based on confidential information.

Blowoff Fails

Aside from Cohn, Surine and Lavenia, all the other 22 men and women on the staff were confirmed in their jobs by the subcommittee, including Chief of Staff Francis P. Carr. There had been reports Carr also was on the way out.

McCarthy said all the votes today were unanimous. So the big blowoff over the staff failed to come off. Now, McCarthy said, he is going to continue an investigation of alleged Communists in defense plants.

Whatever lay behind Cohn's resignation, there was some cheering about it from one of McCarthy's chief foes, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt).

"So far so good," Flanders said in a statement.

"This of course does not reach the heart of the problem presented by the junior senator from Wisconsin."

The Vermont senator took the Senate floor later with his already-published speech urging support of his resolution to censure McCarthy for what he calls conduct unbecoming a senator as chairman of the subcommittee.

Flanders originally had planned to call for a vote on the resolution Tuesday but now plans to do so July 30. Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) assured Flanders of "my wholehearted support."

Government Beef Buying Program Urged By Miller

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) Tuesday urged secretary of Agriculture Benson to consider another government beef buying program if the drought in the Western states continues. Benson put on a beef buying program last year when drought swept the cattle growing areas.

"I fear that if this drought doesn't end soon it will result in a disastrous situation for cattlemen," Miller wrote Benson.

Candidate's Signs Pulled Down

Marshall Stahnke, Republican candidate for nomination as county commissioner in the 2nd district, has reported to the sheriff's office what he describes as "malicious destruction" of private property. In the past several weeks, Stahnke said a number of his two feet by four feet wooden political signs have been destroyed. The "last straw" so far as Stahnke was concerned was the ripping up of a number of smaller cardboard signs and throwing them on his front lawn. (Star Staff Photo.)

Elkhorn Farm Will Become Benedictine Monastery Soon

Lincoln Star Special

ELKHORN, Neb. — A $1 million Benedictine monastary and seminary will be constructed on a farm northwest of Elkhorn.

The work will start late this fall. A chapel and three wings, built to house 200 men, will be included in the initial construction.

Mt. Michael Monastary will house 20 monks and have provisions for 120 young men studying for the priesthood. It will be a "minor seminary" a school for students of high school age.

Mt. Michael's will be operated by the Benedictine order which has its mother house at Conception, Mo. Like other Benedictine institutions it will be largely self-supporting with the monks doing the farming. Seven monks are currently residing at the farm.

The 280-acre farm, three miles north and two miles west of Elkhorn, was donated to the order by Rex Olson of Omaha in 1952. Construction of the new buildings is expected to be completed within a year.

Future plans call for inclusion of a college program, offering two years of instruction, in the seminary.

The Rt. Rev. Abbot Stephen Schappler, superior at Conception, is directing the Mt. Michael project. The Rev. Henry Huber has been appointed superior of Mt. Michael and the Rev. Edgar Probstsfield, business manager.

Centralized Penal Authority Urged

The state should consider getting every state function relative to crime and delinquency under one authority.

That was the opinion expressed by Supt. George Morris of the Men's Reformatory in a talk Tuesday at a luncheon meeting on "State Needs In Correctional Institutions."

Morris advanced the recommendation of the American Prison Association that each state have a department of corrections which would control the correctional institutions, parole and probation.

"This would create a board which could deal with one problem rather than several different ones," he said. Morris emphasized that he had no dispute with Nebraska's Board of Control but said he felt the suggested department would be a more effective system.

Permanent Injunction Is Sought

Attorney General C. S. Beck said Tuesday that his office will seek to have made permanent the temporary injunction granted against the Crete American Legion post to prevent them from conducting any kind of raffle or lottery.

He explained that at the time of seeking the temporary injunction attorneys for the Legion post introduced evidence that the raffle has been an annual event.

Claude Van Landingham, commander of the post, said Tuesday, "I have never told anyone that we gave a car away Sunday night." This was in answer to reports in some newspapers that a car had been given away in violation of state lottery laws.

"I have a lot of respect for the attorney general," he continued. "In view of the notoriety we have received, I don't wish to make any further comment."

Saline County Sheriff John Tesar said nothing illegal took place at the park Sunday night.

"I was in the park and the jubilee was as clean as a schoolgirl's complexion," he commented.

Francis W. Roeca Dies At Age Of 92

Francis William Roeca, 92, of 3012 So. 17th, died at his home Tuesday.

A native of Raden, Germany, he had lived in Lincoln 50 years. He was a mercantile tailor. He was a member of Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church.

Surviving are his wife, Gertrude M.; two sons, Frank and William, both of Washington, D. C.; six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Ruling On School Attachment Given

The Nebraska attorney general's office held in an opinion Tuesday that when a new area is attached to a school district, the attachment remains even should the attached area lose all its children of school age.

The opinion was asked by Joseph J. Divis of Thedford, Thomas county attorney.

Divis also asked: "Must the land owned by all of the petitioning freeholders actually adjoin the Thomas County high school district at the present time, or may those whose lands abut adjoining landowners file with the adjoining landowners in order to have a territory owned by all attached as a block?"

In reply, the attorney general's office said: "The lands of one or more of the petitioning landowners must abut the Thomas County high school district, and all of the land sought to be attached to the district must be contiguous thereto."

No Test For Potter

Michigan's youthful war veteran Senator Potter stood up to the McCarthy group and won his ground.

He was the one Republican member of the Senate investigations subcommittee who ignored party restraints and told his Wisconsin colleague to clean up and clean out his office staff. He stood with the three Democratic members of the committee, Senators McClellan, Symington and Jackson. In such a position he was the make-difference because Senators Mundt, Dworshak and Dirksen, all Republicans, sided with McCarthy.

Results are coming rapidly. Spoiled Boy Roy Cohn has resigned. Most of his staff associates have already placed their resignations in McCarthy's hands.

Although Potter is taking a lacing from the background forces supporting McCarthy who are calling him a party renegade, most of us will agree that Potter did the Republican party a world of good. Cohn and some of his smart-talking, fast-working associates are not quite the kind of boys one would like to cuddle on his lap. If they were anything they were an embarrassment to the party and not much help in spy chasing. Their removal will give the public one less thing to complain about.

Perhaps it took courage for one man to do what quite a large number of Republican senators shrank from doing. But we imagine that Potter didn't consider it much of a test. A man such as he who served his country in combat and now serves it on the stumps of legs that were shot away would not be one to consider either McCarthy or Cohn or those angry, shadowy powers behind them as much of a danger.

Drought To The West

All is not bread and honey and kisses in the Rocky Mountain empire to the west of us. Subnormal rainfall for many months now is beginning to take its toll both in terms of frayed pocketbooks and frayed tempers.

Cattlemen with sere pastures foresee the necessity of dumping herds on the market —not a good thing either for the industry nor for the price of beef. Business men see in the threat to the agricultural and livestock industries a reflection of a darker future for themselves. One can understand the anxiety out west. Nebraska, itself, with a greatly better average annual rainfall is doing a little worrying of its own these days.

Latest flare-up centers in northern New Mexico which is experiencing the worst drought in years. The war is on against the cloud seeders, the rainmakers.

The Colfax County Water Resources Board has started a drive against Dr. Irving P. Krick, Denver, head of the Water Resources Development Board and sponsor of several attempts in southeast Colorado late last winter to end the drought and dust storms by cloud seeding. Dr. Krick's men were also active in some localities in northern New Mexico.

Whatever Krick's immediate successes were, the fact remains that the area is still dry—tragically dry. If modern rain-making caused a few showers it did not relieve the drought.

But the New Mexicans assert that those cloud seeding adventures did nothing more than change the weather pattern and can be mainly charged with making things so bad in New Mexico. They would like to have all sky tinkering stopped both in the Rocky Mountain region and in areas farther west at least until more is known about it and certain regulations are adopted.

Dr. Krick is holding his ground. He claims that cloud seeding is not the villain. It does not create moisture or disrupt normal weather pattern. It merely increases the amount of precipitation.

We hope that the dispute is settled in the best possible way, namely by the onset of natural abundant rain. That is the real need of that always semi-arid region. Without it there is not going to be much to argue about.

But it reminds Nebraska, eastern Nebraska especially, that anxiety over drought here is not the same as that in New Mexico. If Nebraska loses a painful share of its 1954 corn crop it will not be because the area was not visited by ample rainfall. It will be because that rainfall was not properly conserved. Much of it flooded and eroded the land and washed out young crops. Then it went roaring down the river channels as a total loss.

Eastern Nebraska always has an answer to drought. It is water conservation and management.

Fortunately Nebraskans are becoming increasingly aware of this. More crops will be saved through July irrigation this year than any. And the worries of this current dry spell is serving to speed up the day of total security.

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

PALOS VERDES, Calif. — Picture of the Year Department: Closeup of Rep. Carl Curtis of Nebraska reading account of Gov. Bob Crosby's offer at governor's conference on behalf of "rich" Nebraska to come to the assistance of "poore lil' states even remotely considering acceptance of federal-aid funds.

Curtis Gets His Break

That could be the "break" for which Curtis has been waiting . . . If he is half the politician we thought we knew, he will make the most of it . . . It must be wonderful to give voice to noble thoughts . . . On second thought, they do not build highways, however . . . California's Gov. Knight was back in sunny California after attending the same conference . . . Nothing to say publicly as to how much his "poore lil' state can use . . . It seems to be doing all right if its press and its chambers of commerce are to be believed . . . Building in Southern California for the first half of '54 amounted to more than a billion and a half . . . More than raucous 1953 and still roaring ahead full steam . . . Had a look at a minor nearby housing development calling for a mere 5,000 units . . . And that is only a patchin' to some of the more ambitious developments under way out here . . . If picture of Curtis is not available, suggest that shot of Governors Knight, Dewey and Fine of the 'poore' states of California, New York and Pennsylvania in a backroom huddle over Crosby's offer might serve as an acceptable substitute.

★

If Bob's desk is not piled high with wires, then take it for granted that the wires are down . . . Hearst's Examiner here is in paradise . . . That 50-billion highway program covering a 10-year period is what it has been advocating, lo these long years . . . But the suggestion that states should reject federal aid funds is not in the line of its thinking . . . California has drawn heavily on Nebraska for new citizens in recent years . . . The "poore lil" seaboard states bled it (Nebraska) white for years . . . All Brother Bob proposes is that some of the poor relation be permitted to pick the bones.

Crusade Against 'Skin Divers'

Confess that in the beginning we took more than a casual interest in one of the many crusades out here to save Californians from themselves. No, Brother, you are wrong . . . this particular crusade aimed at lessening the dangers or hazards of "skin diving" has nothing to do with the activities of ever-growing nudists' colonies . . . Skin diving", if you are interested, grows out of the adventuresome spirit which seeks to uncover the secrets of the ocean depths . . . Standard equipment calls for fins on the feet, the better to dive deeper below the kelp beds—goggles which will insure full vision far beneath the waves—and finally a tank of oxygen strapped to the back to enable the diver to remain under longer . . . The more foolhardy, we learned, sometimes reach depths where the pressure becomes dangerous and upon their return to the surface are subject to the "bends" . . . They describe the hazards of skin diving with a straight face; whether it be the spirit of deviltry or just plain damn foolishness, it has been giving the life guards something to do beyond just merely taking in the sights . . . After four days of a sizzling sun more than a half-million crowded the beaches each day during the week end . . . And if they were not at the beaches, a lot of the gals had on just as little as the law allows.

★

We have a personal theory about what produces the bright crimson and scarlet of California's geraniums, roses, and many varieties of flowers not found inland . . . After all some of them (we mean the flowers) do seem to be modest . . . Before too long now we will be returning home . . . It has been so quiet, so peaceful and so cool high on these hills where every day one can look out upon the Pacific to Catalina, or up the coast many miles . . . We have been happy to escape much of California's highly touted attractions.

Trick With Mirrors

Treasury Secretary Humphrey is reported to be practicing up a neat financial trick at home. If he masters it he is apt to spring it on the country.

Creeping close to the $275 billion debt limit and facing a touchy congress which would rather not raise the limit at this tense political moment the treasury is giving thought to declare federal securities held in government trust funds to be "out of bounds" so far as debt ceilings are concerned. Doing that to bonds held in the social security fund, for instance, would have the effect of raising the debt limit $42 billion. Or in the current float of tax anticipation bills were taken out of the debt column $15 billion would be sprung from the debt limit.

Such devices remind one of the financing brillance during the Coolidge-Hoover days when the budget was neatly balanced one day by putting the unbalancing items into a second budget which was called "extra-ordinary."

In the present case it would be better to attempt no tricks with mirrors. Reclassifying debts won't reduce them and the only purpose of doing so would be to make way for additional debt without calling upon Congress to raise the limit. It would be better to face the matter candidly and do the practical thing.

The Centennial Car

Nebraska's Centennial car, carrying historical exhibits in an outstate visitation in the interest of Nebraska's 100th territorial anniversary, attracted 22,000 Nebraskans in its first month on the road. This is a satisfying response proving at the very outset the value of this piece of centennial enterprize. It shows how deeply, too, Nebraska people value their homeland and how keen they are to delve into its fine history.

Sharp Senate Fight Grows In Delaware

WASHINGTON — More facts about Governor Dewey's important conference with Sen. Ives of New York have now leaked out. If what Dewey told Ives can be taken seriously, the turbulent, much spotlighted, efficient governor of New York really wants to retire to private life. And it looks as if Dewey is serious.

For Dewey gave Ives a long and vigorous lecture on why he, Ives, should run for governor. From the tone of Dewey's voice and the vigor of his arguments he really meant business. He told Ives that the Republican party needed a strong candidate and that Ives was the strongest on deck. He intimated that the last thing the Republicans could afford was to see another Roosevelt occupy the executive mansion in Albany and get a leg up on the White House. This must be blocked at all costs, and Ives had the political prestige and know-how to do it.

The senator from New York, however, was not at all responsive. He reminded Dewey that he had served about half his life in the New York legislature, and had fulfilled his obligation to the party. He pointed out that he hadn't wanted to run for the Senate the last time, and that he had every expectation of withdrawing from public life entirely at the end of his present term.

Dewey argued further, but got nowhere. Finally the governor of New York concluded the lengthy talk with this remark:

"We'll see."

"Yes, we'll see," replied Ives. But the tone of Ives' voice made it plain that his mind was made up and would not be changed no matter how much "seeing" Dewey did.

Note—Republican leaders agree that Sen. Ives would be the best shot to defeat Frnaklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Ives having run more than a million votes ahead of Eisenhower in 1952. If Ives sticks to his guns, betting is that Dewey will run again, especially if Eisenhower makes a special request, which is more than likely.

BIG BATTLE IN LITTLE STATE

A mighty political battle is brewing in Delaware, the second tiniest state in the union and sometimes called the duchy of the Du Ponts. Upon its outcome will in part depend who controls the Senate in the narrow-margined race this fall.

Delaware is a state where the Du Pont family, which controls General Motors, Du Pont Chemicals, United States Rubber, operates an H-bomb plant, and owns half a dozen other industries, exercises a paternal, sometimes ducal hand. And today it's alleged that the Du Ponts are well satisfied with the likable little Democratic senator, Allen Frear, who seeks re-election, though less satisfied with the rambunctious, uncontrollable Republican Senator John Williams, re-elected last year.

Regardless of Du Pont satisfaction, however, some of the Democrats who have to renominate Frear are not satisfied. Frear, one of the nicest and least cantakerous members of the Senate, has attracted little attention in congress, except for voting republican on certain issues and winning the accolade of the "pay-toilet senator."

This was because, during price-control days, Frear introduced a bill permitting railroads to raise the price of pay-toilets from a nickel to 10 cents, after the Office of Price Stabilization had ruled that they could not. The New York Central was abiding by the OPS rule, but the Pennsylvania had changed the pay mechanism on its toilets—after the OPS ruling was made—and got slapped with a $385.245 fine as a result. So the obliging senator from Delaware introduced the pay-toilet bill not only permitting the increase to 10 cents but letting the Pennsylvania out of its $385.245 fine.

For this and other reasons, Delaware Democrats have been busy drafting Justice James Tunnell Jr., of the Deleware supreme court to run in place of Frear. Tunnell, son of a distinguished Democratic Senator who served in FDR's days, is in a judicial position where he can't engage in politics, but is willing to accept a draft. And a draft is strongly in the works.

There are only three counties in the state of Delaware and so far two of them have endorsed Judge Tunnell. Only one county, Kent, the smallest, home of Sen. Frear, has endorsed him.

However, a lot of money is pouring into Delaware to back Frear and there should be a hot battle when the Democratic convention date, August 10, rolls around.

Note—Republicans are certain to nominate Congressman Herbert Warburton for the Senate, a liberal Eisenhower Republican and former president of the National Young Republican Federation. Conservative Republicans don't like him either.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Mendes-France Sees Peace, Some Less Sure

GENEVA—A cliff-hanging act is going on here that promises to continue until the very last moment. The fate of Premier Mendes-France is at stake, but, far more important, the future of his country and of the Western alliance turn on this curious trial by suspension.

The French premier who gave himself 30 days in which to achieve peace in Indo-China believes he will succeed. He has been confident ever since he talked with Chou En-Lai in Berne two weeks ago. In that talk the Chinese premier assured Mendes, first, that the Communists would respect the independence of Laos and Cambodia and, second, he took what appeared to be a reasonable line on the partition of Viet-Nam somewhere between the 18th and 16th parallels.

But there are others here who are much less confident than Mendes. The doubters point out that, while Chou talks a good peace, when it comes to translating his words in detailed negotiations, there is simply no action.

The best guess is for a cease-fire on terms Mendes can accept, with details to be worked out at a political conference to follow. That conference either will never be held or it will go on for futile month after month, as did Panmunjom.

☆ ☆ ☆

As Mendes has understood all along, the realities are grim enough. The French, it can be said authoritatively, have no intention of trying to hold Hanoi and the rich delta around it. The most they hope for is a peace that will make an orderly withdrawal possible. As part of this withdrawal they mean to try to get the Communists to allow them to use the port facilities at Haiphong for six months. That's essential to remove French civilians and to undertake the transfer of loyal Viet-Namese to "Free Vietnam." It is also essential if the millions of dollars in American military material in Haiphong is not to fall to the Communists, as so much already has.

One thing is certain, and that is that if Secretary Dulles had not flown to Paris and had not approved the participation of Undersecretary Smith, the Western Alliance would have been damaged perhaps beyond repair. What is puzzling is why the relationship so vital to the security of the West had to go to a point of almost complete deterioration before the last-minute move by Dulles.

For many months Mendes has been saying bluntly that France could not go on fighting and therefore the choice lay between a respectable peace arrived at with the support of Britain and the United States and a debacle with loss of French troops and civilians to the overwhelming force of the Vietminh. This harsh realism has not been easy for Dulles to accept, which in turn may explain his reluctance to meet the premier in a showdown talk. But finally Mendes sent word through the American embassy that a boycott of the Geneva talks would be a disaster of incalculable consequences and Dulles yielded.

Returning after an interval of a month, Undersecretary Smith has an unwelcome task. He must try to keep the peace terms within limits that America can approve. Suffering for years from a stomach disorder, Dulles' deputy also has a case of lumbago so painful that it was only after considerable hesitation that his chief asked him to fly to Geneva to represent the U.S.

Mendes-France has emerged as a result of his forthright approach to the peace as a stronger figure than France has seen since the end of World War II with the exception of General de Gaulle in his incarnation as a national hero. For the first time the French seem willing to take a politician seriously.

This last is in a sense a reflection on American diplomats and policy-makers who have tended to write Mendes off as an appeaser and a neutralist. All the time these same policy-makers were working to prop up governments that followed one after the other with gloomy futility.

Perhaps a new start has now been made. In the talks in Paris Mendes made a strong impression on Dulles, who was ready at the end to recast entirely his impressions. For one thing, the 47-year-old premier speaks English fluently, relying on his knowledge of the language even in delicate diplomatic conversations. He has an unmistakeable earnestness and directness of manner quite unlike the language of diplomacy that has for so long been a French specialty.

The day when Dulles toward the end of the Berlin conference in February agreed under French pressure to meet with the Chinese Communists to try to get peace in Indo-China now seems a long way off. That agreement brought angry repercussions among Republicans in the Senate in Washington, with Sen. Knowland immediately raising the cry of Munich.

Ever since that time America's power to influence the course of world events seems to have diminished. It may be possible to build back that power when this wrangle is at last ended. The answer may lie in what Dulles has so doggedly and determinedly continued to believe in and work for—a Southeast Asia alliance to keep back Communist aggression. If and when that alliance comes into being it may be that Dulles will look back on the vicissitudes of the past three months as merely minor episodes on the road to security.

Changing The Constitution

Editor's Note: Jerome K. Kerwin, University of Chicago, writing in The Commonweal, discusses as follows the Butler amendment which would freeze membership of the U.S. Supreme Court to nine members and provide for retirement at age 75.

The American passion for the written law as a solution to any problem lives on. From Aristotle to the present, great political philosophers have emphasized the importance of the customs and disposition of the people as fundamental determinants in any commonwealth. Better a spirit of law-abidingness than a proliferation of laws—that has been their message.

In place of these elements, which should be almost instinctive in a democratic citizenry, we often put our faith in the inflexible, detailed regulations of the statute books. But our weakness for solution by the detailed law goes beyond even this and extends to fundamental, or constitutional, law, and this is dangerous.

One of the first doctrines of constitutional law is that it is a kind of law that sets down general principles upon which all other laws and all governmental institutions are erected. It provides for conditions in the long run. In so doing, constitutional law must have the character of flexibility to meet changing conditions as they develop in the history of states.

Most of our state constitutions illustrate the dangers which flow from our penchant for confusing constitutional law with statute law. These documents take hundreds of pages to list hundreds of diverse provisions: their framers have taken nothing for granted. Our modern complicated social, political, and economic life is written on every page.

Our Federal Constitution, by contrast, has been a model for wise statesmen to contemplate and imitate. Outside of the first 10 amendments, which for all practical purposes may be considered part of the original document, there have been 12 amendments in the 165 years of the life of the Constitution. One of these provided for the adoption of the "noble experiment" of Prohibition, and another provided for its hasty and unlamented departure.

With the exception of this lapse into the bizarre, the amendments for the most part fall whithin the legitimate bounds of the subject matter of constitutional law.

The temptation to multiply details in the provisions of the Constitution has always been with us, as witness the thousands of proposed amendments submitted to Congress since 1789. In recent years the temptation has taken a political turn—everything done by the previous Adminstration that one dislikes should be prohibited forever after. If this becomes a national habit, we are in for a form of constitutional debauch.

Already one restrictive amendment has been adopted providing that no President may serve more than two terms, no matter what may be his qualifications, the circumstances of the times, or the popular will. Recently we have been treated to "the great debate" on the Bricker amendment.

Now another ill-begotten child is laid on our doorsteps: the Butler amendment. With a speed not common in the United States Senate, this amendment received a two-thirds majority before most people were aware of its existence, with the vote in the end 58 in favor to 19 against. Before being placed before the legislatures of the states, the proposal must receive a two-thirds majority in the House.

This latest effort to amend the fundamental law has its roots in the late President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the Supreme Court by legislative act, something which lies within the competence of Congress.

Senator John Marshall Butler's amendments to the Constitution provide that:

1. The number of justices on the Supreme Court be fixed at the present number of nine.
2. That judges shall be compelled to retire at the age of 75.
3. That Congress shall not have the power of limiting the appellate power of the Supreme Court in matters ordinarily coming within the jurisdiction of that Court.

The proposed amendment seeks to set limits to the Congressional power as it affects the appellate jurisdiction of the Court. Here is a case where flexibility is definitely required.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Constitution leaves the size of the Supreme Court to the discretion of Congress. The size of the high court was originally set at six and has been fixed at nine since the Grant Administration. The framers knew that it would be folly to set a fixed figure, for no one could tell how much business the Court might be called upon to handle in the future. Senator Butler, moved by fear of "court-packing" and the ghost of a former President, has decided that no matter how much business the already over-burdened Court might have in the future, nine men will have to handle it.

This fear of discretionary power has been the prime factor behind the over loading of our state constitutions. Considering the number of places in the Federal Constitution about which similar fears might be entertained, every good citizen might well pray that the fear-complex does not take up permanent residence in Washington.

Air-Conditioning

Lincoln, Neb.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: I have sent the following letter the mayor concerning the restriction on the use of water:

"The growth of Lincoln as well as technological progress have put ever greater strain on our natural resources, the most precious of which is water. Industry and business, of course, must go ahead; so everything has to be done to encourage that which makes for prosperity and progress.

"Admittedly air-conditioning has decisively contributed to the excessive demand on the city's water supply. No one could have forseen this. Consequently no one should be blamed for the present extreme situation. Unlimited use of water cannot be tolerated in a crisis. You and your committee had to call for regulation. However, the rules violate a basic principle: the equality of sacrifice by all citizens in a common emergency. The present water restrictions are not only harmful to lawns, trees and gardens, but are discriminatory in application.

"People using water for air-conditioning units utilize this water for their lawns, trees, and gardens without limitation whatsoever! In fact, they are under obligation to do so. People without air-conditioning can use water only every other day between the hours of 5:00 p. m. and midnight, a regulation designed to discourage this practice, since it is evident that after a hard day's work, few people can make full use of these late hours, not to mention the handicap of darkness.

"Because this is not 'equality before the law' and discrimintory in nature, the regulations should be modified. I believe industry and business must continue in the free use of air-conditioning, but the domestic use of water has to be put on an impartial basis. Water for air-conditioning should be permitted only at those times when all citizens are permitted to make unrestricted use of the water. Air-conditioning is a convenience but it is not a necessity. Everybody must share equally in the restraint that conditions impose; any deviation from this principle is intolerable if there is 'freedom and justice for all'."

Happy For Surpluses

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: With the vote on price support in behalf of the American farmer now pending in the U.S. Senate, interest is centered in Nebraska on the two senatorial votes to be cast by Bob Crosby's appointees. That they will support the Benson formula of a sliding scale, we all know, but will their votes put the Benson proposal across? If so, then to Bob Crosby will belong the credit. He will be the man the farmers of this state will hold responsible. Therefore the Republican primary election becomes a major issue affecting the farming interests of the United States. The issue, then, is that of a 90 per cent parity or one with a flexible downward scale with all its uncertainties. It is behind this downward scale that Crosby stands.

The candidacy of Crosby for a seat in the Senate therefore puts him squarely opposed to the old 90 per cent parity. But the farmers know that that parity lifted them out of the valley of despair to the mountain top of a better way of life. And now the governor has done his best to take that 90 per cent parity away from them. He so to speak "stuffed" the senatorial ballot with two senatorial votes. So the farmers of this state will have a day of reckoning at the Republican primary, and if not then, at the general election. A man who dared not trust facing a second term gubernatorial candidacy will find less comfort in a senatorial race.

With the weather forecast of 30 days more of the kind of weather we have been having covering the entire bread-basket of the United States from the Rockies to the Alleghenies, how foolish the wail of Benson about excessive surpluses! Not only a threatening drought but ultimately an open break with Communist China in the offing should make everybody happy that we have great surpluses.

Thought And Action

Alexandria, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We tax a farm much higher if it is improved than if it is unimproved. Why? Do we really want to see our countryside quite bare of people living in nice homes?

Obviously our tax system is in need of improvement. We should not immediately, however, tax the unimproved quarter higher than the improved one. We should just see than any change we make is in the right direction. In thought, we should be radical —in action, conservative.

No Test For Potter

Michigan's youthful war veteran Senator Potter stood up to the McCarthy group and won his ground.

He was the one Republican member of the Senate investigations subcommittee who ignored party restraints and told his Wisconsin colleague to clean up and clean out his office staff. He stood with the three Democratic members of the committee, Senators McClellan, Symington and Jackson. In such a position he was the make-difference because Senators Mundt, Dworshak and Dirksen, all Republicans, sided with McCarthy.

Results are coming rapidly. Spoiled Boy Roy Cohn has resigned. Most of his staff associates have already placed their resignations in McCarthy's hands.

Although Potter is taking a lacing from the background forces supporting McCarthy who are calling him a party renegade, most of us will agree that Potter did the Republican party a world of good. Cohn and some of his smart-talking, fast-working associates are not quite the kind of boys one would like to cuddle on his lap. If they were anything they were an embarrassment to the party and not much help in spy chasing. Their removal will give the public one less thing to complain about.

Perhaps it took courage for one man to do what quite a large number of Republican senators shrank from doing. But we imagine that Potter didn't consider it much of a test. A man such as he who served his country in combat and now serves it on the stumps of legs that were shot-away would not be one to consider either McCarthy or Cohn or those angry, shadowy powers behind them as much of a danger.

Drought To The West

All is not bread and honey and kisses in the Rocky Mountain empire to the west of us. Subnormal rainfall for many months now is beginning to take its toll both in terms of frayed pocketbooks and frayed tempers.

Cattlemen with sere pastures foresee the necessity of dumping herds on the market—not a good thing either for the industry nor for the price of beef. Business men see in the threat to the agricultural and livestock industries a reflection of a darker future for themselves. One can understand the anxiety out west. Nebraska, itself, with a greatly better average annual rainfall is doing a little worrying of its own these days.

Latest flare-up centers in northern New Mexico which is experiencing the worst drought in years. The war is on against the cloud seeders, the rainmakers.

The Colfax County Water Resources Board has started a drive against Dr. Irving P. Krick, Denver, head of the Water Resources Development Board and sponsor of several attempts in southeast Colorado late last winter to end the drought and dust storms by cloud seeding. Dr. Krick's men were also active in some localities in northern New Mexico.

Whatever Krick's immediate successes were, the fact remains that the area is still dry—tragically dry. If modern rain-making caused a few showers it did not relieve the drought.

But the New Mexicans assert that those cloud seeding adventures did nothing more than change the weather pattern and can be mainly charged with making things so bad in New Mexico. They would like to have all sky tinkering stopped both in the Rocky Mountain region and in areas farther west at least until more is known about it and certain regulations are adopted.

Dr. Krick is holding his ground. He claims that cloud seeding is not the villain. It does not create moisture or disrupt normal weather pattern. It merely increases the amount of precipitation.

We hope that the dispute is settled in the best possible way, namely by the onset of natural abundant rain. That is the real need of that always semi-arid region. Without it there is not going to be much to argue about.

But it reminds Nebraska, eastern Nebraska especially, that anxiety over drought here is not the same as that in New Mexico. If Nebraska loses a painful share of its 1954 corn crop it will not be because the area was not visited by ample rainfall. It will be because that rainfall was not properly conserved. Much of it flooded and eroded the land and washed out young crops. Then it went roaring down the river channels as a total loss.

Eastern Nebraska always has an answer to drought. It is water conservation and management.

Fortunately Nebraskans are becoming increasingly aware of this. More crops will be saved through July irrigation this year than any. And the worries of this current dry spell is serving to speed up the day of total security.

Of Men And Things

PALOS VERDES, Calif. — Picture of the Year Department: Closeup of Rep. Carl Curtis of Nebraska reading account of Gov. Bob Crosby's offer at governor's conference on behalf of "rich" Nebraska to come to the assistance of "poore lil' states even remotely considering acceptance of federal-aid funds.

Curtis Gets His Break

That could be the "break" for which Curtis has been waiting . . . If he is half the politician we thought we knew, he will make the most of it . . . It must be wonderful to give voice to noble thoughts . . . On second thought, they do not build highways, however . . . California's Gov. Knight was back in sunny California after attending the same conference . . . Nothing to say publicly as to how much his "poore lil' state can use . . . It seems to be doing all right if its press and its chambers of commerce are to be believed . . . Building in Southern California for the first half of '54 amounted to more than a billion and a half . . . More than raucous 1953 and still roaring ahead full steam . . . Had a look at a minor nearby housing development calling for a mere 5,000 units . . . And that is only a patchin' to some of the more ambitious developments under way out here . . . If picture of Curtis is not available, suggest that shot of Governors Knight, Dewey and Fine of the 'poore' states of California, New York and Pennsylvania in a backroom huddle over Crosby's offer might serve as an acceptable substitute.

★

If Bob's desk is not piled high with wires, then take it for granted that the wires are down . . . Hearst's Examiner here is in paradise . . . That 50-billion highway program covering a 10-year period is what it has been advocating, lo these long years . . . But the suggestion that states should reject federal aid funds is not in the line of its thinking . . . California has drawn heavily on Nebraska for new citizens in recent years . . . The "poore lil" seaboard states bled it (Nebraska) white for years . . . All Brother Bob proposes is that some of the poor relation be permitted to pick the bones.

Crusade Against 'Skin Divers'

Confess that in the beginning we took more than a casual interest in one of the many crusades out here to save Californians from themselves. No, Brother, you are wrong . . . this particular crusade aimed at lessening the dangers or hazards of "skin diving" has nothing to do with the activities of ever-growing nudists' colonies . . . Skin diving", if you are interested, grows out of the adventuresome spirit which seeks to uncover the secrets of the ocean depths . . . Standard equipment calls for fins on the feet, the better to dive deeper below the kelp beds—goggles which will insure full vision far beneath the waves—and finally a tank of oxygen strapped to the back to enable the diver to remain under longer . . . The more foolhardy, we learned, sometimes reach depths where the pressure becomes dangerous and upon their return to the surface are subject to the "bends" . . . They describe the hazards of skin diving with a straight face; whether it be the spirit of deviltry or just plain damn foolishness, it has been giving the life guards something to do beyond just merely taking in the sights . . . After four days of a sizzling sun more than a half-million crowded the beaches each day during the week end . . . And if they were not at the beaches, a lot of the gals had on just as little as the law allows.

★

We have a personal theory about what produces the bright crimson and scarlet of California's geraniums, roses, and many varieties of flowers not found inland . . . After all some of them (we mean the flowers) do seem to be modest . . . Before too long now we will be returning home . . . It has been so quiet, so peaceful and so cool high on these hills where every day one can look out upon the Pacific to Catalina, or up the coast many miles . . . We have been happy to escape much of California's highly touted attractions.

Trick With Mirrors

Treasury Secretary Humphrey is reported to be practicing up a neat financial trick at home. If he masters it he is apt to spring it on the country.

Creeping close to the $275 billion debt limit and facing a touchy congress which would rather not raise the limit at this tense political moment the treasury is giving thought to declare federal securities held in government trust funds to be "out of bounds" so far as debt ceilings are concerned. Doing that to bonds held in the social security fund, for instance, would have the effect of raising the debt limit $42 billion. Or in the current float of tax anticipation bills were taken out of the debt column $15 billion would be sprung from the debt limit.

Such devices remind one of the financing brillance during the Coolidge-Hoover days when the budget was neatly balanced one day by putting the unbalancing items into a second budget which was called "extraordinary."

In the present case it would be better to attempt no tricks with mirrors. Reclassifying debts won't reduce them and the only purpose of doing so would be to make way for additional debt without calling upon Congress to raise the limit. It would be better to face the matter candidly and do the practical thing.

The Centennial Car

Nebraska's Centennial car, carrying historical exhibits in an outstate visitation in the interest of Nebraska's 100th territorial anniversary, attracted 22,000 Nebraskans in its first month on the road. This is a satisfying response proving at the very outset the value of this piece of centennial enterprize. It shows how deeply, too, Nebraska people value their homeland and how keen they are to delve into its fine history.

Sharp Senate Fight Grows In Delaware

WASHINGTON — More facts about Governor Dewey's important conference with Sen. Ives of New York have new leaked out. If what Dewey told Ives can be taken seriously, the turbulent, much spotlighted, efficient governor of New York really wants to retire to private life. And it looks as if Dewey is serious.

For Dewey gave Ives a long and vigorous lecture on why he, Ives, should run for governor. From the tone of Dewey's voice and the vigor of his arguments he really meant business. He told Ives that the Republican party needed a strong candidate and that Ives was the strongest on deck. He intimated that the last thing the Republicans could afford was to see another Roosevelt occupy the executive mansion in Albany and get a leg up on the White House. This must be blocked at all costs, and Ives had the political prestige and know-how to do it.

The senator from New York, however, was not at all responsive. He reminded Dewey that he had served about half his life in the New York legislature, and had fulfilled his obligation to the party. He pointed out that he hadn't wanted to run for the Senate the last time, and that he had every expectation of withdrawing from public life entirely at the end of his present term.

Dewey argued further, but got nowhere. Finally the governor of New York concluded the lengthy talk with this remark:

"We'll see."

"Yes, we'll see," replied Ives. But the tone of Ives' voice made it plain that his mind was made up and would not be changed no matter how much "seeing" Dewey did.

Note—Republican leaders agree that Sen. Ives would be the best shot to defeat Frnaklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Ives having run more than a million votes ahead of Eisenhower in 1952. If Ives sticks to his guns, betting is that Dewey will run again, especially if Eisenhower makes a special request, which is more than likely.

BIG BATTLE IN LITTLE STATE

A mighty political battle is brewing in Delaware, the second tiniest state in the union and sometimes called the duchy of the Du Ponts. Upon its outcome will in part depend who controls the Senate in the narrow-margined race this fall.

Delaware is a state where the Du Pont family, which controls General Motors, Du Pont Chemicals, United States Rubber, operates an H-bomb plant, and owns half a dozen other industries, exercises a paternal, sometimes ducal hand. And today it's alleged that the Du Ponts are well satisfied with the likable little Democratic senator, Allen Frear, who seeks re-election, though less satisfied with the rambunctious, uncontrollable Republican Sen. John Williams, re-elected last year.

Regardless of Du Pont satisfaction, however, some of the Democrats who have to renominate Frear are not satisfied. Frear, one of the nicest and least cantakerous members of the Senate, has attracted little attention in congress, except for voting republican on certain issues and winning the accolade of the "pay-toilet senator."

This was because, during price-control days, Frear introduced a bill permitting railroads to raise the price of pay-toilets from a nickel to 10 cents, after the Office of Price Stabilization had ruled that they could not. The New York Central was abiding by the OPS rule, but the Pennsylvania had changed the pay mechanism on its toilets—after the OPS ruling was made—and got slapped with a $385,245 fine as a result. So the obliging senator from Delaware introduced the pay-toilet bill not only permitting the increase to 10 cents but letting the Pennsylvania out of its $385,245 fine.

For this and other reasons, Delaware Democrats have been busy drafting Justice James Tunnell Jr., of the Deleware supreme court to run in place of Frear. Tunnell, son of a distinguished Democratic Senator who served in FDR's days, is in a judicial position where he can't engage in politics, but is willing to accept a draft. And a draft is strongly in the works.

There are only three counties in the state of Delaware and so far two of them have endorsed Judge Tunnell. Only one county, Kent, the smallest, home of Sen. Frear, has endorsed him.

However, a lot of money is pouring into Delaware to back Frear and there should be a hot battle when the Democratic convention date, August 10, rolls around.

Note—Republicans are certain to nominate Congressman Herbert Warburton for the Senate, a liberal Eisenhower Republican and former president of the National Young Republican Federation. Conservative Republicans don't like him either.

Mendes-France Sees Peace, Some Less Sure

GENEVA—A cliff-hanging act is going on here that promises to continue until the very last moment. The fate of Premier Mendes-France is at stake, but, far more important, the future of his country and of the Western alliance turn on this curious trial by suspension.

The French premier who gave himself 30 days in which to achieve peace in Indo-China believes he will succeed. He has been confident ever since he talked with Chou En-Lai in Berne two weeks ago. In that talk the Chinese premier assured Mendes, first, that the Communists would respect the independence of Laos and Cambodia and, second, he took what appeared to be a reasonable line on the partition of Viet-Nam somewhere between the 18th and 16th parallels.

But there are others here who are much less confident than Mendes. The doubters point out that, while Chou talks a good peace, when it comes to translating his words in detailed negotiations, there is simply no action.

The best guess is for a cease-fire on terms Mendes can accept, with details to be worked out at a political conference to follow. That conference either will never be held or it will go on for futile month after month, as did Panmunjom.

☆ ☆ ☆

As Mendes has understood all along, the realities are grim enough. The French, it can be said authoritatively, have no intention of trying to hold Hanoi and the rich delta around it. The most they hope for is a peace that will make an orderly withdrawal possible. As part of this withdrawal they mean to try to get the Communists to allow them to use the port facilities at Haiphong for six months. That's essential to remove French civilians and to undertake the transfer of loyal Viet-Namese to "Free Vietnam." It is also essential if the millions of dollars in American military material in Haiphong is not to fall to the Communists, as so much already has.

One thing is certain, and that is that if Secretary Dulles had not flown to Paris and had not approved the participation of Undersecretary Smith, the Western Alliance would have been damaged perhaps beyond repair. What is puzzling is why the relationship so vital to the security of the West had to go to a point of almost complete deterioration before the last-minute move by Dulles.

For many months Mendes has been saying bluntly that France could not go on fighting and therefore the choice lay between a respectable peace arrived at with the support of Britain and the United States and a debacle with loss of French troops and civilians to the overwhelming force of the Vietminh. This harsh realism has not been easy for Dulles to accept, which in turn may explain his reluctance to meet the premier in a showdown talk. But finally Mendes sent word through the American embassy that a boycott of the Geneva talks would be a disaster of incalculable consequences and Dulles yielded.

Returning after an interval of a month, Undersecretary Smith has an unwelcome task. He must try to keep the peace terms within limits that America can approve. Suffering for years from a stomach disorder, Dulles' deputy also has a case of lumbago so painful that it was only after considerable hesitation that his chief asked him to fly to Geneva to represent the U.S.

Mendes-France has emerged as a result of his forthright approach to the peace as a stronger figure than France has seen since the end of World War II with the exception of General de Gaulle in his incarnation as a national hero. For the first time the French seem willing to take a politician seriously.

This last is in a sense a reflection on American diplomats and policy-makers who have tended to write Mendes off as an appeaser and a neutralist. All the time these same policy-makers were working to prop up governments that followed one after the other with gloomy futility.

Perhaps a new start has now been made. In the talks in Paris Mendes made a strong impression on Dulles, who was ready at the end to recast entirely his impressions. For one thing, the 47-year-old premier speaks English fluently, relying on his knowledge of the language even in delicate diplomatic conversations. He has an unmistakeable earnestness and directness of manner quite unlike the language of diplomacy that has for so long been a French specialty.

☆ ☆ ☆

The day when Dulles toward the end of the Berlin conference in February agreed under French pressure to meet with the Chinese Communists to try to get peace in Indo-China now seems a long way off. That agreement brought angry repercussions among Republicans in the Senate in Washington, with Sen. Knowland immediately raising the cry of Munich.

Ever since that time America's power to influence the course of world events seems to have diminished. It may be possible to build back that power when this wrangle is at last ended. The answer may lie in what Dulles has so doggedly and determinedly continued to believe in and work for—a Southeast Asia alliance to keep back Communist aggression. If and when that alliance comes into being it may be that Dulles will look back on the vicissitudes of the past three months as merely minor episodes on the road to security.

Changing The Constitution

Editor's Note: Jerome K. Kerwin, University of Chicago, writing in The Commonweal, discusses as follows the Butler ammendment which would freeze membership of the U.S. Supreme Court to nine members and provide for retirement at age 75.

The American passion for the written law as a solution to any problem lives on. From Aristotle to the present, great political philosophers have emphasized the importance of the customs and disposition of the people as fundamental determinants in any commonwealth. Better a spirit of law-abidingness than a proliferation of laws—that has been their message.

In place of these elements, which should be almost instinctive in a democratic citizenry, we often put our faith in the inflexible, detailed regulations of the statute books. But our weakness for solution by the detailed law goes beyond even this and extends to fundamental, or constitutional, law, and this is dangerous.

One of the first doctrines of constitutional law is that it is a kind of law that sets down general principles upon which all other laws and all governmental institutions are erected. It provides for conditions in the long run. In so doing, constitutional law must have the character of flexibility to meet changing conditions as they develop in the history of states.

Most of our state constitutions illustrate the dangers which flow from our penchant for confusing constitutional law with statute law. These documents take hundreds of pages to list hundreds of diverse provisions; their framers have taken nothing for granted. Our modern complicated social, political, and economic life is written on every page.

Our Federal Constitution, by contrast, has been a model for wise statesmen to contemplate and imitate. Outside of the first 10 amendments, which for all practical purposes may be considered part of the original document, there have been 12 amendments in the 165 years of the life of the Constitution. One of these provided for the adoption of the "noble experiment" of Prohibition, and another provided for its hasty and unlamented departure.

With the exception of this lapse into the bizarre, the amendments for the most part fall whithin the legitimate bounds of the subject matter of constitutional law.

The temptation to multiply details in the provisions of the Constitution has always been with us, as witness the thousands of proposed amendments submitted to Congress since 1789. In recent years the temptation has taken a political turn—everything done by the previous Adminstration that one dislikes should be prohibited forever after. If this becomes a national habit, we are in for a form of constitutional debauch.

Already one restrictive amendment has been adopted providing that no President may serve more than two terms, no matter what may be his qualifications, the circumstances of the times, or the popular will. Recently we have been treated to "the great debate" on the Bricker amendment.

Now another ill-begotten child is laid on our doorsteps: the Butler amendment. With a speed not common in the United States Senate, this amendment received a two-thirds majority before most people were aware of its existence, with the vote in the end 58 in favor to 19 against. Before being placed before the legislatures of the states, the proposal must receive a two-thirds majority in the House.

This latest effort to amend the fundamental law has its roots in the late President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the Supreme Court by legislative act, something which lies within the competence of Congress.

Senator John Marshall Butler's amendments to the Constitution provide that:

1. The number of justices on the Supreme Court be fixed at the present number of nine.
2. That judges shall be compelled to retire at the age of 75.
3. That Congress shall not have the power of limiting the appellate power of the Supreme Court in matters ordinarily coming within the jurisdiction of that Court.

The proposed amendment seeks to set limits to the Congressional power as it affects the appellate jurisdiction of the Court. Here is a case where flexibility is definitely required.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Constitution leaves the size of the Supreme Court to the discretion of Congress. The size of the high court was originally set at six and has been fixed at nine since the Grant Administration. The framers knew that it would be folly to set a fixed figure, for no one could tell how much business the Court might be called upon to handle in the future. Senator Butler, moved by fear of "court-packing" and the ghost of a former President, has decided that no matter how much business the already over-burdened Court might have in the future, nine men will have to handle it.

This fear of discretionary power has been the prime factor behind the over loading of our state constitutions. Considering the number of places in the Federal Constitution about which similar fears might be entertained, every good citizen might well pray that the fear-complex does not take up permanent residence in Washington.

Air-Conditioning

Lincoln, Neb.

To the Editor of The Lincoln Star: I have sent the following letter the mayor concerning the restriction on the use of water:

"The growth of Lincoln as well as technological progress have put ever greater strain on our natural resources, the most precious of which is water. Industry and business, of course, must go ahead; so everything has to be done to encourage that which makes for prosperity and progress.

"Admittedly air-conditioning has decisively contributed to the excessive demand on the city's water supply. No one could have forseen this. Consequently no one should be blamed for the present extreme situation. Unlimited use of water cannot be tolerated in a crisis. You and your committee had to call for regulation. However, the rules violate a basic principle: the equality of sacrifice by all citizens in a common emergency. The present water restrictions are not only harmful to lawns, trees and gardens, but are discriminatory in application.

"People using water for air-conditioning units utilize this water for their lawns, trees, and gardens without limitation whatsoever! In fact, they are under obligation to do so. People without air-conditioning can use water only every other day between the hours of 5:00 p. m. and midnight, a regulation designed to discourage this practice, since it is evident that after a hard day's work, few people can make full use of these late hours, not to mention the handicap of darkness.

"Because this is not 'equality before the law' and discrimintory in nature, the regulations should be modified. I believe industry and business must continue in the free use of air-conditioning, but the domestic use of water has to be put on an impartial basis. Water for air-conditioning should be permitted only at those times when all citizens are permitted to make unrestricted use of the water. Air-conditioning is a convenience but it is not a necessity. Everybody must share equally in the restraint that conditions impose; any deviation from this principle is intolerable if there is 'freedom and justice for all'."

Happy For Surpluses

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: With the vote on price support in behalf of the American farmer now pending in the U.S. Senate, interest is centered in Nebraska on the two senatorial votes to be cast by Bob Crosby's appointees. That they will support the Benson formula of a sliding scale, we all know, but will their votes put the Benson proposal across? If so, then to Bob Crosby will belong the credit. He will be the man the farmers of this state will hold responsible. Therefore the Republican primary election becomes a major issue affecting the farming interests of the United States. The issue, then, is that of a 90 per cent parity or one with a flexible downward scale with all its uncertainties. It is behind this downward scale that Crosby stands.

The candidacy of Crosby for a seat in the Senate therefore puts him squarely opposed to the old 90 per cent parity. But the farmers know that that parity lifted them out of the valley of despair to the mountain top of a better way of life. And now the governor has done his best to take that 90 per cent parity away from them. He so to speak "stuffed" the senatorial ballot with two senatorial votes. So the farmers of this state will have a day of reckoning at the Republican primary, and if not then, at the general election. A man who dared not trust facing a second term gubernatorial candidacy will find less comfort in a senatorial race.

With the weather forecast of 30 days more of the kind of weather we have been having covering the entire bread-basket of the United States from the Rockies to the Alleghenies, how foolish the wail of Benson about excessive surpluses! Not only a threatening drought but ultimately an open break with Communist China in the offing should make everybody happy that we have great surpluses.

Thought And Action

Alexandria, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We tax a farm much higher if it is improved than if it is unimproved. Why? Do we really want to see our countryside quite bare of people living in nice homes?

Obviously our tax system is in need of improvement. We should not immediately, however, tax the unimproved quarter higher than the improved one. We should just see than any change we make is in the right direction. In thought, we should be radical—in action, conservative.

It could be we are fashioned weak
That we may strength and courage seek
And out of mortal sin and strife
Grow fit to gain eternal life.

Man seeks for strength 'til life is done.
'Tis from the clay and from the tomb
The soul eternal comes to bloom.

Red China's Chou Asks Pan-Asian Security Bloc

Five-Point Peace Plan Advocated

LONDON (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China called Tuesday night for a pan-Asian security bloc "to safeguard the collective peace of Asia."

Chou said in an interview with Morgan Phillips, British Labor party secretary, recorded in Geneva, that Asian nations should consult among themselves and assume "obligations mutually and respectively."

Chou aimed plainly at the grandstand in India with references to an "area of peace," a term often used by Prime Minister Nehru. He advocated a five-point Asian peace plan paralleling exactly the five points in the India-China pact on Tibet signed April 29.

Chou's statement was aired by the British Broadcasting Corp.

World Security

"I am of the opinion that the countries of Asia should consult among themselves to safeguard the collective peace peace of Asia by assuming obligations mutually and respectively," Chou said, adding:

"It is my firm belief that, once expansion of such areas of peace will be possible, thereby leading to the consolidation of the peace and security of the whole world."

The Chou statements on the Geneva conference and Asian problems followed remarks on Chinese-British relations. Phillips is a member of an official Labor party delegation from Britain which has been invited to tour Red China next month.

Relations Improved

Chou had begun the interview by saying relations between China and Britain had improved as a result of the recent agreement whereby his country agreed to send a charge d'affaires to London. Britain recognized Red China soon after the Peiping regime was consolidated but until recently Chou's government ignored the action.

Chou in the interview said his government was "sincerely desirous of further improving Sino-British relations on the existing basis" and said China was willing to make joint efforts with the British government and people "to develop the economic and cultural interchange between our two countries so that the friendly relations between the two peoples may be strengthened."

He said China attaches great importance to developing and expanding industrial and commercial connections with Britain and added the Chinese charge d'affaires in London will do his best in this respect.

There was no mention in the interview of the Soviet Union, the United States or France.

The company gave lack of business as its reason for wanting to discontinue the run.

Tentative County Budget $3.7 Million

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The 1954-55 tentative budget for Lancaster County totals $3,727,036.26, according to County Clerk J. B. Morgan. Public hearings before the County Board on the budget will begin next Wednesday, July 28.

Morgan said the tentative budget would require $911,699.40 to be raised by taxation with an estimated 4.74 mill-levy based on 1953 valuation of $192,335,980.

While this 4.74 levy compares with the 1953 tentative levy of 4.752 for 1953, the actual 1953 levy was only 3.997 mills following budget cuts by the county board and adjustment of assessed valuation by the state board of equalization.

Requirements Compared

Additional to the $911,699.40 by taxation, the estimated miscellaneous revenue to the county, including motor vehicle taxes and state gas tax funds, totals $1,355,293.90, Morgan said. Cash balance on hand is $1,459,977.48.

Tentative 1954 budget requirements total $2,915,527.80 as compared with 1953 requirements of $2,648,641.39, Morgan said. The general fund of $918,794.82 compares with $863,153.80 for last year.

In addition to $2,915,527.80 for requirements the county has $138,834.03 in outstanding warrants and maintains a statutory reserve of $671,674.43. These three figures make up the $3,727,036.26 total for the 1954 tentative budget.

Morgan said the inheritance tax has a $179,833.98 balance. Last year, the county board appropriated $60,000 from this tax fund to the special medical fund and $35,000 for a special road fund. These appropriates help cut the amount which would have had to be raised by general taxation.

A comparison table of tentative budget requirements for 1954 and 1953 follows:

Requirements	1954	1953
General	$918,794.82	$863,153.80
Bridge	301,526.63	300,511.80
Highway	789,373.81	723,130.27
Relief	168,552.40	163,544.20
Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief	35,000.00	30,000.00
Special Medical	300,000.00	225,000.00
Mothers' Pension		756.89
Special Mail Route	296,181.38	307,244.43
Inheritance Tax Road Fund	65.43	35,000.00
Total	$2,915,527.80	$2,648,641.39

Dilemma Ends; Miss Greece No. 2 Fades Out

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The Miss Universe committee found itself in a Hellenic predicament Tuesday—until one of its two Greek entrants withdrew.

Effie Ardoulakakis announced that she will step aside in favor of Rika Dialina, now en route here.

"I'm glad of her coming," said Miss Ardoulakakis, runner-up in the Grecian contest to Miss Dialina, who had visa troubles. "When she comes I'll be the first to greet her. POSTCARD

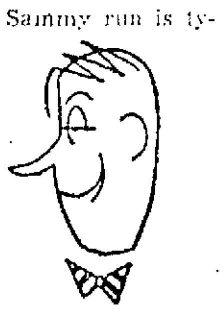
Ah me, comes the day when all good men must come to the good doctor for what makes Sammy run.



What makes Sammy run is typhoid shots. Every six months. And the medics greet me with cries of delight. For I am an old and valued target.

"This won't hurt a bit," he says filling the needle.

And I believe this is true. For it does not seem to hurt him at all.

* * *

I have been standing still for these "booster" shots for some years. They reached their height of popularity during the war.

At one point I was loaded by the Navy with a regiment of active duty germs. And a few months later, having business with the Army, had the Army do it all over again. It was at this point I came out for unification of the services.

"You don't think we take the Navy's word for it, do you?" said the Army doctor, stabbing me in both arms.

* * *

Now as I understand it, the theory of these injections is to keep you well and healthy. For they put into your arms just enough bugs to set your defenses in action.

What I would like to point out to the medical men is that I do not believe my defenses are putting up the fight they used to.

When alerted that the needle is coming, they simply dig foxholes and get out of the way. Consequently, whole divisions of typhoid, cholera and tetanus bugs march up and down me unopposed. Quartering themselves in an unconstitutional way upon the people. And committing all manner of atrocities.

* * *

I blame most of this condition upon the Army. It is my opinion that Army doctors were armed with sharp needles and turned loose upon 12,000,000 young Americans. And now and then they find it complsory to needle civilians. Much as other veterans feel a complsion to march in parades.

They look upon my scarred arms as old campaigners used to visit Gettysburg.

"That's old Hill 401," they say. "Remember it well. There he was a-shakin' and a-shiverin'. And I just reach for that ol' needle and wham! Let him have it right up to the hilt."

At least that is the way I think they talk. The reserve officer medics.

I have made a great study of military history. And am well acquainted with the works of Clausewitz and what Julius Caesar said to the Gauls and the Von Schlieffen theory for the invasion of France. And it comes to my mind that Napoleon said an Army travels on its stomach. It is my opinion that the present Army travels on needles.

There seems to be some thought in the medical business that since I travel too. I should be fueled with anti-everything vaccines.

I don't know who started all this. Possibly Florence Nightengale. I read in history that people went around for many years without knowing a needle was good for anything but putting a patch on pants.

Easy on that arm now, Doc. You are handling an old campaigner. A 75 per cent disability case. Kindly treat that arm with caution. A Purple Heart veteran. Consideration is the word.

Caution. Tenderness. Take care now. Ouch! And thank you. I'm sure it didn't hurt you a bit.

Gruenther Says Peace May Permit French Arms Shift

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Gen. Alfred Gruenther said Tuesday a peace in Indochina may free French arms for use elsewhere, but he warned, "We should not remove resources from one part of the world to another unless it helps the global situation."

The supreme commander of Allied Powers in Europe, returning from a day at sea in which he saw a demonstration of the U.S. 6th Fleet air power, told a news conference:

"I am sure the condition of peace in Indochina would release French resources committed there, provided, of course, the terms of peace were satisfactory. From our standpoint in NATO, we find France heavily strained by the requirements of the Indochina war."

High Temps, Dry Weather Place Corn In Jeopardy

'Good Crop Still Possible'

Nebraska's siege of 100-plus temperatures, and lack of rain, have put the state's corn crop in jeopardy, government crop observers indicated Tuesday.

A good crop is still possible but rain and cooler weather are needed soon to stem the "considerable deterioration' reported last week.

The number of "white caps" has increased, and heavy curling and some firing has developed in local areas, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Growth Stunted

Growth has been stunted in drier localities and corn is becoming bushy, the weekly report noted.

Much of Nebraska's corn crop is now in its critical stage of development.

With rain and lower temperatures this week, the state still could produce a good crop, the report said.

About 8 per cent of the corn had tasseled in the eastern third of the state by the close of last week, with a few tassels appearing on early corn in the central portion.

Corn needs rain badly, the report noted.

Continued drought with high temperatures could soon ruin the crop.

Temperatures averaged 4 to 6 degrees above normal over the state last week. Moderate to locally heavy rains fell over the southern portion of the Panhandle, but there was none of consequence elsewhere.

Rainfall maps show that most corn counties got a soaking during the week ending June 18. Northeastern and north central counties received a good rain the week ending June 25. There were a few local heavy rains in the ensuing week and a few southeastern counties received fairly substantial rains for the week ending June 9.

The wheat harvest is virtually completed, the crop report said. Yields continue to vary with some indication of lower returns.

Good Oats, Barley

Oats and barley harvest also is near its end except in the northern half of the state. Yields vary but there are many high yields and the average is "very good."

Heat and drought have been hard on alfalfa and pastures, and the third crop of alfalfa is standing still. Many pastures in southern Nebraska have turned brown.

Sorghum crops are curling but undamaged so far. Some Sudan grass has started to burn.

Irrigation Water Shortage

A 1.18 inch rain at Scottsbluff brought some relief but crops are threatened with a shortage of irrigation water.

Water for irrigation is being released rapidly from the Kingsley reservoir but the stream flow from the Platte River "is almost nil," the report said. Irrigation pumps are running "full blast."

New Oil Pool Possibility Is Seen In West

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP)—Possibility loomed of a new oil pool in western Cheyenne County Tuesday after sources reported a show of oil in the J sand of the Lee Haemeister No. 1.

The Hagemeister, a wildcat well is in the heretofore unproductive area 5½ miles east of Potter. The closest oil production is 7 miles distant.

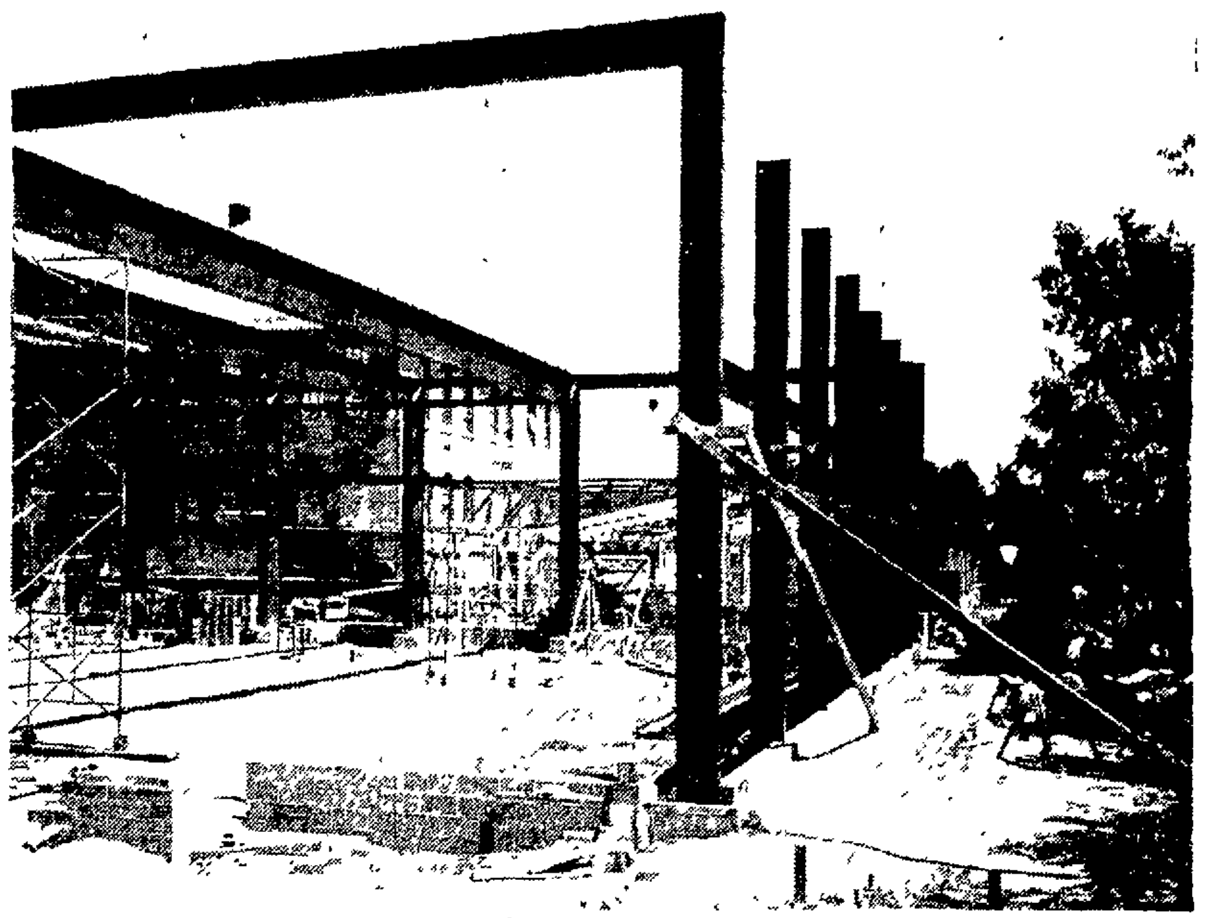
The Tri-State Drilling Co. of Denver is drilling the well on a farmout from Magnolia Petroleum.

A Magnolia spokesman in Scottsbluff would neither confirm or deny the report of oil shows, but he did say Magnolia has a large block of leases in the vicinity and if the Hagemeister No. 1 can be brought in as a commercial oiler, the firm will do additional drilling.

Ohio Oil Co. announced its intention of completing the Nicola No. 1 in Kimball County as an oil well. A drill stem test at 5,979 to 6,005 feet produced 230 feet of oil and 130 feet of fresh water in 90 minutes. Workmen were running tubing down the well.

$367 Estate Tax

Nebraska has received state estate tax in the amount of $367.86 from the estate of August Kai of Beemer, Neb., who died last Dec. 15, the state tax commissioner's office reported. The gross estate was reported as $151,786.04.



Shickley School Addition Rises

Heavy beams and framework rise around the Shickley school building, left background. The construction will bring about a drastic increase to the school class capacity. The beams in the foreground outline the auditorium-gymnasium which will join the older building on the west. Another addition is rising on the east and south of the structure and will add five classrooms to the school, as well as an office, rest rooms, a kitchen and teachers lounge. The project also includes addition of a shop and storage space. The building was also remodeled on the interior to add one more classroom. The expansion to the school building was brought about by a consolidation of school districts around Shickley. (Star Staff Photo)

Stretch Drive Brings Demo Tensions

Ritchie, Heaton On Opposite Sides

By the Associated Press

Nebraska Democrats this week were in need of oil for slightly troubled political waters.

The ripple may me attributable to tensions of the stretch drive into the Aug. 10 primary, or it may be the natural consequence of having more than one candidate for a nomination. At any rate, since last week-end the controversy has been bubbling and there was no indication of an early end to it.

Boyle In Middle

Arrayed on opposite sides are rivals for the nomination for governor—William Ritchie of Omaha and P. J. Heaton of Sidney. Unwillingly in the middle is national Committeemen Bernard J. Boyle of Omaha, whose difficult job it is to keep the political drums beating with equal vigor in all Democratic camps.

The embroilment started last week-end when Ritchie accused Boyle of lining up wholesale liquor interests to back Heaton. He also accused Heaton of giving away baseball tickets.

Tom Ingoldsby, publicity man for Heaton, replied that Heaton received the tickets after he had purchased radio advertising time on the same basis that the tickets were given to other advertisers.

'No Preference'

Boyle countered that he didn't even represent the liquor interests—that they were in fact represented by "a staunch Republican" and that he hadn't expressed a preference "in any of the primary contests among Democratic candidates."

He promised that if Ritchie is nominated "he will receive my whole-hearted support. and I will, to the best of my ability, exert all efforts to secure his election."

Heaton, at Kearney Tuesday, said he regretted "the necessity of answering Bill Ritchie's attack on Bernard J. Boyle," but that Ritchie's attack "is a continuation of his 25 years of continual fighting the Democratic party and its leaders, even to the point of campaigning for two Republicans for president—Landon and Wilkie.

"It is my belief that the candidates for Governor should not be engaged in personalities," Heaton said. "They should be pointing out to the voters of Nebraska the mistakes of 14 years of Republican mis-rule in Nebraska.

"We should call attention to the fact that under the Republicans our tax bill has risen from 29 million dollars in 1940 to 197 million dollars in 1953, a raise of 290 per cent. We should discuss the gross mismanagement of our multi-million dollar state institutions by the Board of Control and the disgraceful handling of our road program.

Phipps Is Said Ineligible For Sheriff Race

TEKAMAH, Neb. (AP) — Two district judges have ruled that Lawrence G. Phipps is ineligible to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Burt County.

Judges Arthur C. Thomsen and Jackson B. Chase, in their decision, upheld an earlier decision of County Clerk Charles A Rogers who rejected the filing because of non-residence.

The district court action, filed by attorneys for Phipps, was heard by the two judges last Wednesday and Thursday.

A petition filing was made for Phipps June 15. Walter Dean, present sheriff and also a Republican, protested on grounds that Phipps was not a resident of the county.

Former Sheriff

Phipps left Tekamah for Fresno Calif., in November of 1952 and returned recently. He is a former sheriff of Burt County.

The judges ruled that Phipps lost his Nebraska residence by "his establishing a residence in California, his activities there, the length of his stay, and all other facts and circumstances in evidence relating to his intentions at the time and after his removal from the state of Nebraska."

Benson's Policies Will Hurt Small Towns, Luther Predicts

Lincoln Star Special

HOOPER, Neb. — Nebraska's small towns will be economically pinched by the farm policies Secretary of Agriculture Benson is pushing in Congress, it was charged here by Ernie Luther, Democratic Candidate for Congress in the Third district.

In rural communities, Luther pointed out, thousands of merchants, professional men, mechanics and clerks are dependent upon farm families for their sales of goods and services.

Luther said newspapers recently carried a statement by Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse that "farmers and all those who sell to farmers are in for a tough time financially until the farm surpluses are brought under control."

"Less Profits"

"There will be less profit for farmers," Morse emphasized. "All those who sell to, or serve farmers, will transact less business—sell less farm machinery, fertilizer, chemicals, gas and oil and all other supplies and services that are required to keep farms in full production." Morse also warned "there will be less for labor to do."

Rural areas should not be forced to carry the entire burden of any change in national farm policy, Luther said. "It just doesn't make sense to deliberately foster a rural depression."

Luther would take the food surpluses or reserves off of the backs of farmers and small town business and professional men, he said, by throwing them into the fight against Communism. "Alleviation of hunger over the world will constitute a major weapon against the Reds. We can and should use food to replace boys on foreign battlefields."

The Democratic candidate said some time ago he wrote Secretary Benson urging the use of food surpluses to more adequately meet the needs of the undernourished at home and abroad.

Stretch Drive Brings Demo Tensions

Ritchie, Heaton On Opposite Sides

By the Associated Press

Nebraska Democrats this week were in need of oil for slightly troubled political waters.

The ripple may me attributable to tensions of the stretch drive into the Aug. 10 primary, or it may be the natural consequence of having more than one candidate for a nomination. At any rate, since last week-end the controversy has been bubbling and there was no indication of an early end to it.

Boyle In Middle

Arrayed on opposite sides are rivals for the nomination for governor—William Ritchie of Omaha and P. J. Heaton of Sidney. Unwillingly in the middle is national Committeemen Bernard J. Boyle of Omaha, whose difficult job it is to keep the political drums beating with equal vigor in all Democratic camps.

The embroilment started last week-end when Ritchie accused Boyle of lining up wholesale liquor interests to back Heaton. He also accused Heaton of giving away baseball tickets.

Tom Ingoldsby, publicity man for Heaton, replied that Heaton received the tickets after he had purchased radio advertising time on the same basis that the tickets were given to other advertisers.

'No Preference'

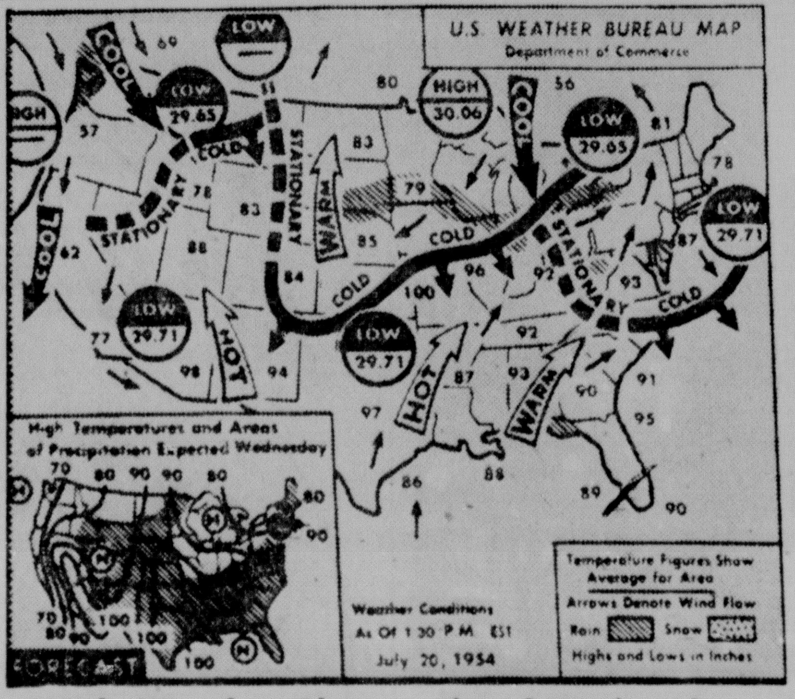
Boyle countered that he didn't even represent the liquor interests—that they were in fact represented by "a staunch Republican" and that he hadn't expressed a preference "in any of the primary contests among Democratic candidates."

He promised that if Ritchie is nominated "he will receive my whole-hearted support, and I will, to the best of my ability, exert all efforts to secure his election."

Heaton, at Kearney Tuesday, said he regretted "the necessity of answering Bill Ritchie's attack on Bernard J. Boyle," but that Ritchie's attack "is a continuation of his 25 years of continual fighting the Democratic party and its leaders, even to the point of campaigning for two Republicans for president—Landon and Wilkie.

"It is my belief that the candidates for Governor should not be engaged in personalities," Heaton said. "They should be pointing out to the voters of Nebraska the mistakes of 14 years of Republican mis-rule in Nebraska.

"We should call attention to the fact that under the Republicans our tax bill has risen from 29 million dollars in 1940 to 197 million dollars in 1953, a raise of 290 per cent. We should discuss the gross mismanagement of our multi-million dollar state institutions by the Board of Control and the disgraceful handling of our road program.



Little Weather Change Slated Wednesday

There will be little change Wednesday anywhere in the country from the weather of the past few days. Isolated showers and thunderstorms will take place in most of the southern states and the Atlantic coastal states and the Rocky Mountain area. The hot and humid weather will stay in the central Mississippi valley and the southern Plains. A warm tendency will be noted in the west coast states and the lakes area. It will turn cooler in Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and northern Colorado. (AP Wirephoto.)

Phipps Is Said Ineligible For Sheriff Race

TEKAMAH, Neb. (AP) — Two district judges have ruled that Lawrence G. Phipps is ineligible to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Burt County.

Judges Arthur C. Thomsen and Jackson B. Chase, in their decision, upheld an earlier decision of County Clerk Charles A. Rogers who rejected the filing because of non-residence.

The district court action, filed by attorneys for Phipps, was heard by the two judges last Wednesday and Thursday.

A petition filing was made for Phipps June 15. Walter Dean, present sheriff and also a Republican, protested on grounds that Phipps was not a resident of the county.

Former Sheriff

Phipps left Tekamah for Fresno, Calif., in November of 1952 and returned recently. He is a former sheriff of Burt County.

The judges ruled that Phipps lost his Nebraska residence by "his establishing a residence in California, his activities there, the length of his stay, and all other facts and circumstances in evidence relating to his intentions at the time and after his removal from the state of Nebraska."

Benson's Policies Will Hurt Small Towns, Luther Predicts

Lincoln Star Special

HOOPER, Neb. — Nebraska's small towns will be economically pinched by the farm policies Secretary of Agriculture Benson is pushing in Congress, it was charged here by Ernie Luther, Democratic Candidate for Congress in the Third district.

In rural communities, Luther pointed out, thousands of merchants, professional men, mechanics and clerks are dependent upon farm families for their sales of goods and services.

Luther said newspapers recently carried a statement by Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse that "farmers and all those who sell to farmers are in for a tough time financially until the farm surpluses are brought under control."

"Less Profits"

"There will be less profit for farmers," Morse emphasized. "All those who sell to, or serve farmers, will transact less business—sell less farm machinery, fertilizer, chemicals, gas and oil and all other supplies and services that are required to keep farms in full production." Morse also warned "there will be less for labor to do."

Rural areas should not be forced to carry the entire burden of any change in national farm policy, Luther said. "It just doesn't make sense to deliberately foster a rural depression."

Luther would take the food surpluses or reserves off of the backs of farmers and small town business and professional men, he said, by throwing them into the fight against Communism. "Alleviation of hunger over the world will constitute a major weapon against the Reds. We can and should use food to replace boys on foreign battlefields."

The Democratic candidate said some time ago he wrote Secretary Benson urging the use of food surpluses to more adequately meet the needs of the undernourished at home and abroad.

Assessment Figures For 52 Counties To Stand

. . . Tax Board Orders Hearings For 32

The State Board of Equalization Tuesday was sending notices to about one-third of Nebraska's counties to be represented at hearings here next week and show cause why their tax assessment valuations should not be either raised or lowered.

The action was approved by the board at an evening session.

Thirty-two of the state's 93 counties are involved in the hearing orders. Another nine counties have asked for hearings.

That leaves 52 counties whose assessment figures as reported to the state board will stand.

Counties ordered to show cause why farm land valuations should not be increased are Box Butte Chase, Dawes, Dawson, Grant, Hayes, Hitchcock, Polk, Kimball, Red Willow, Richardson, Sioux and Washington.

Counties ordered to show cause why town lot valuations should not be increased are Box Butte, Buffalo, Burt, Butler, Chase, Cuming, Dawes, Dawson, Dundy, Franklin, Hayes, Hitchcock, Polk Howard, Keith, Nemaha, Platte, Red Willow, Richardson and Washington.

Seven counties were ordered to show why farm land valuations should not be decreased. They are Dixon, Johnson, Morrill, Nance, Pawnee, Sarpy and Wayne.

Three counties—Deuel, Harlan and Thurston—were ordered to show why their valuations on town lots should not be decreased.

The hearings will start at 8:30 a.m. Monday and are expected to last at least four days.

Counties along the eastern border will be heard the first day. Counties in the west will be heard the fourth day, as each day's group of counties involved in the hearings moves westward.

Gov. Robert Crosby, member of the equalization board, said Tuesday the board has not "prejudged" any of the counties up for hearings.

He said that wherever "an earnest local effort at equalization has been made," the county has not been called up for hearing.

"Considering the radical adjustment required by the Supreme Court last year, the counties in Nebraska have done a wonderful job of handling this assessment situation," he added.

In contrast to last year, no changes in the reported personal property valuations are contemplated under the state board's action.

Last year, adjustments of one kind or another were made for all Nebraska counties.

Among the more populous Nebraska counties not involved in the hearing orders are Douglas (Omaha), Adams (Hastings), Dodge (Fremont), Gage (Beatrice), Jefferson (Fairbury), Lancaster (Lincoln), Lincoln (North Platte), Madison (Norfolk), Platte (Columbus), and Scottsbluff.

Counties which had asked for hearings are Blaine, Boyd, Brown, Cherry, Custer, Frontier, Hall, Otoe and Pierce.

Henpecked Eagles Flying Club Files

The "Henpecked Eagles Flying Club" of Omaha, a non-profit group, filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state Tuesday.

Purposes of the club are to provide recreational and social facilities for members and "to encourage, promote and instruct in the flying of airplanes," the papers said.

Incorporators are Fred B. Hanson, Robert L. Hanson, Thomas A. Bjorge, Adrian H. Schipper and Frank J. Given, all of Omaha.

The Midwest Irrigation Co., Henderson, Neb., filed articles of incorporation to deal in irrigation, equipment with an authorized capitalization of $50,000. Incorporators are Gustav Thiezen, D. P. Ratzlaff and Paul Friesen, all of York County.

Harry B. Cohen and G. Steinert, both of Omaha, filed articles incorporating the Myron Co., Omaha, to deal in a variety of activities, including real estate and loans. Authorized capitalization is $150,000.

Weather Ahead

Extended forecast for Nebraska:

Temperatures will average 5 to 10 degrees above normal with no important changes expected during the period. Normal highs are in the low 90s and normal lows range from 60 in the west to 68 in the southeast. Precipitation will average .10 to 25 of an inch, occuring as scattered late afternoon and night time thundershowers.

Senate Group To Reconsider Belden Line

Gov. Robert Crosby reported Tuesday that the Senate Appropriations Committee has agreed to reconsider the requested $450,000 appropriation for construction of a transmission line from Gavins Point Dam to Belden, Neb.

The governor said the word was relayed by Nebraska's senators, Eva Bowring and Sam Reynolds.

"This is our last hope in the present session of Congress," Crosby said, "and it is particularly gratifying in view of the unrelenting opposition which blocked a final report for favorable consideration in the House of Representatives."

Key Members To Try

The governor was told that key members of the Senate committee have promised to try to include the Belden line funds in the final supplemental appropriation bill which will be before the Senate committee in the next few days.

Gov. Crosby and members of the Nebraska congressional delegation conferred in Washington last Tuesday with Rep. Ben Jensen (R-Iowa) about the matter. Jensen, ranking member of the House Appropriations Committee, had opposed the appropriation in committee and could not be induced to change his mind, the governor said.

"We are not certain that the Senate committee effort will succeed, but if the Senate will once more include the appropriation, we will at least have a chance to carry the fight into a conference with opposing House members," Crosby said.

FDR KNOWLEDGE OF JAP ATTACK 'RIDICULOUS'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says it's ridiculous to contend that her late husband knew in advance of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Adm. Robert A. Theobald, in his recent book, "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor," wrote that President Roosevelt knew of the attack and failed to notify military commanders in Hawaii.

In her regular column in McCall's magazine, which is on the newsstands Wednesday, Mrs. Roosevelt writes:

"I am quite certain my husband did not know about Pearl Harbor in advance.

"Notification to the people in the field would have come from the military generals anyway, and not directly from my husband. But to suppose that he knew and deliberately withheld such information from the people in command is simply ridiculous, and many people who saw him the day of the attack will corroborate my statements that he was shocked and horrified, as well as surprised."

Services At Columbus For Mrs. Nickolite, 89

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Tony Sloan of Columbus and Mrs. Hubert Clark of Chicago, and five sons, Edward of Lincoln, chief inspector for the State Liquor Commission, Michael, Charles and Lou, all of Columbus and Anton of Ewing.

Assessment Figures For 52 Counties To Stand

. . . Tax Board Orders Hearings For 32

The State Board of Equalization Tuesday was sending notices to about one-third of Nebraska's counties to be represented at hearings here next week and show cause why their tax assessment valuations should not be either raised or lowered.

The action was approved by the board at an evening session.

Thirty-two of the state's 93 counties are involved in the hearing orders. Another nine counties have asked for hearings.

That leaves 52 counties whose assessment figures as reported to the state board will stand.

Counties ordered to show cause why farm land valuations should not be increased are Box Butte, Chase, Dawes, Dawson, Grant, Hayes, Hitchcock, Polk, Kimball, Red Willow, Richardson, Sioux and Washington.

Counties ordered to show cause why town lot valuations should not be increased are Box Butte, Buffalo, Burt, Butler, Chase, Cuming, Dawes, Dawson, Dundy, Franklin, Hayes, Hitchcock, Polk Howard, Keith, Nemaha, Platte, Red Willow, Richardson and Washington.

Seven counties were ordered to show why farm land valuations should not be decreased. They are Dixon, Johnson, Morrill, Nance, Pawnee, Sarpy and Wayne.

Three counties—Deuel, Harlan and Thurston—were ordered to show why their valuations on town lots should not be decreased.

The hearings will start at 8:30 a.m. Monday and are expected to last at least four days.

Counties along the eastern border will be heard the first day. Counties in the west will be heard the fourth day, as each day's group of counties involved in the hearings moves westward.

Gov. Robert Crosby, member of the equalization board, said Tuesday the board has not "prejudged" any of the counties up for hearings.

He said that wherever "an earnest local effort at equalization has been made," the county has not been called up for hearing.

"Considering the radical adjustment required by the Supreme Court last year, the counties in Nebraska have done a wonderful job of handling this assessment situation," he added.

In contrast to last year, no changes in the reported personal property valuations are contemplated under the state board's action.

Last year, adjustments of one kind or another were made for all Nebraska counties.

Among the more populous Nebraska counties not involved in the hearing orders are Douglas (Omaha), Adams (Hastings), Dodge (Fremont), Gage (Beatrice), Jefferson (Fairbury), Lancaster (Lincoln), Lincoln (North Platte), Madison (Norfolk), Platte (Columbus), and Scottsbluff.

Counties which had asked for hearings are Blaine, Boyd, Brown, Cherry, Custer, Frontier, Hall, Otoe and Pierce.

Henpecked Eagles Flying Club Files

The "Henpecked Eagles Flying Club" of Omaha, a non-profit group, filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state Tuesday.

Purposes of the club are to provide recreational and social facilities for members and "to encourage, promote and instruct in the flying of airplanes," the papers said.

Incorporators are Fred B. Hanson, Robert L. Hanson, Thomas A. Bjorge, Adrian H. Schipper and Frank J. Given, all of Omaha.

The Midwest Irrigation Co., Henderson, Neb., filed articles of incorporation to deal in irrigation, equipment with an authorized capitatization of $50,000. Incorporators are Gustav Thiezen, D. P. Ratzlaff and Paul Friesen, all of York County.

Harry B. Cohen and G. Steinert, both of Omaha, filed articles incorporating the Myron Co., Omaha, to deal in a variety of activities, including real estate and loans. Authorized capitalization is $150,000.

Weather Ahead

Extended forecast for Nebraska:

Temperatures will average 5 to 10 degrees above normal with no important changes expected during the period. Normal highs are in the low 90s and normal lows range from 60 in the west to 68 in the southeast. Precipitation will average .10 to .25 of an inch, occuring as scattered late afternoon and night time thundershowers.

Senate Group To Reconsider Belden Line

Gov. Robert Crosby reported Tuesday that the Senate Appropriations Committee has agreed to reconsider the requested $450,000 appropriation for construction of a transmission line from Gavins Point Dam to Belden, Neb.

The governor said the word was relayed by Nebraska's senators, Eva Bowring and Sam Reynolds.

"This is our last hope in the present session of Congress," Crosby said, "and it is particularly gratifying in view of the unrelenting opposition which blocked a final report for favorable consideration in the House of Representatives."

Key Members To Try

The governor was told that key members of the Senate committee have promised to try to include the Belden line funds in the final supplemental appropriation bill which will be before the Senate committee in the next few days.

Gov. Crosby and members of the Nebraska congressional delegation conferred in Washington last Tuesday with Rep. Ben Jensen (R-Iowa) about the matter. Jensen, ranking member of the House Appropriations Committee, had opposed the appropriation in committee and could not be induced to change his mind, the governor said.

"We are not certain that the Senate committee effort will succeed, but if the Senate will once more include the appropriation, we will at least have a chance to carry the fight into a conference with opposing House members," Crosby said.

FDR KNOWLEDGE OF JAP ATTACK 'RIDICULOUS'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says it's ridiculous to contend that her late husband knew in advance of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Adm. Robert A. Theobald, in his recent book, "The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor," wrote that President Roosevelt knew of the attack and failed to notify military commanders in Hawaii.

In her regular column in McCall's magazine, which is on the newsstands Wednesday, Mrs. Roosevelt writes:

"I am quite certain my husband did not know about Pearl Harbor in advance.

"Notification to the people in the field would have come from the military generals anyway, and not directly from my husband. But to suppose that he knew and deliberately withheld such information from the people in command is simply ridiculous, and many people who saw him the day of the attack will corroborate my statements that he was shocked and horrified, as well as surprised."

The Talk Around Town

TOWN TALK has it that no one is sitting around twiddling her thumbs, for everyone, it seems, has at least one iron in the fire with respect to activity. Travelers and guests seem to be the main impetus for keeping the social ball rolling, but we must give some credit to the brides-elect and various informal affairs.

* * *

UNDERSTAND THAT there is quite a large group of Lincoln people in the vicinity of Longville, Alexandria, Hackensack and Pequot Lakes, Minn. Early last week, for instance, Mrs. E. J. Faulkner, Mrs. Arnott Folsom and Mrs. Bert Reed visited Mr. and Mrs. George Cook at Woman Lake. Then the men in the families, Mr. Faulkner, Mr. Folsom and Mr. Reed traveled to Minnesota for the week-end and the celebration of Mr. Cook's birthday and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stuart's anniversary, both of which were Saturday, July 17.

* * *

OTHERS IN the vicinity are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynie, who are at Woman Lake, and who joined the Saturday evening celebration, and Mr. and Mrs. William Newens of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, who are the guests of the Charles Stuarts at Pleasant Lake.

* * *

THEN AT Pelican Lake, last week, was Mrs. M. G. Volz who was the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Junge at their cottage.

* * *

AND NOW back to Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hunt who are visiting Mr. and Harold Hoppe, at their summer home. Understand that the Hunts will leave Alexandria to go to Hackensack where they will pick up their daughter, Susie, who has been the houseguest for a week of Kit Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stuart.

* * *

ALSO NEAR Hackensack are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson and their son and daughter, Stanley and Sally Sue.

* * *

DID YOU know that Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hoppe returned recently from a three-month tour of Europe? Although the travelers liked Europe as a whole, their favorite country was Italy, and its delightful food.

* * *

LET'S TURN for the moment to some houseguests, first from Michigan and then from California. The guest from Detroit is Miss Halle Drake who is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Drake. Miss Drake will remain in Lincoln until about August 7 when her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ellet H. Drake pick her up en route from a vacation in Wisconsin. The young visitor's parents will remain in Lincoln about a week.

* * *

HEARD TOO of visitors from Compton, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kirkwood, who arrived in Lincoln Tuesday after visits in St. Louis and Des Moines, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sayre.

* * *

OFF TO camp Lincoln at Lake Hubert, Minn., on Tuesday was Billy Mowbray, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Mowbray, who drove their son to camp to board the special train going to camp. The Mowbrays will visit their son on visitors' day later in the summer.

* * *

HOME, permanently perhaps, is Miss Nancy Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Benjamin, who has been careering in Denver, Colo. Miss Benjamin, a graduate of the University of University of Nebraska, is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

* * *

BACK IN town after a three-weeks holiday in Cheyenne, Reno, Las Vegas, Los Angeles and San Francisco is Miss Jo Jen Loder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Loder. Miss Loder, who was accompanied on the trip by Miss Joan Norsworthy of Gothenburg, Miss Marilyn Legge of Fremont, and Miss Frances Parrish of Raleigh, N. C., returned Monday night.

* * *

OFF TO Manhattan, Mont., Monday, were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Turner and their son John, who will spend two weeks there.

The Men In Our Lives--Their Hobbies

Guns have always fascinated Burkett Van Kirk, and he displays his impressive collection in this handsome case at his home, 2440 A. Mr. Van Kirk started his career with firearms like any youngster. . .with a .22 rifle, which he still uses for target practice.

When his father, Rolla C. Van Kirk, was a colonel with the United States Army in Italy immediately following World War II, Mr. Van Kirk acquired the coveted German Luger pistol. Although many imitations of the famous Luger, the only weapon carried by German army officers, are made, few are manufactured with the high quality metal possessed by the one Mr. Van Kirk has. Since 1942, materials of secondary value have been used extensively in its construction. The Europeans use this precision pistol also for duck and boar hunting.

Others included in his collection are a .410 shotgun, with which he bagged his share of duck in Italy; a pistol carried by a Union Cavalry officer in the Civil War, which Mr. Van Kirk has renovated; and a gleaming Browning automatic shotgun brought from Belgium by his wife's grandfather.

According to this young attorney, the care and feeding of his hobby is negligible . . . that is, unless he buys bullets! The guns need cleaning and oiling only after use, but Mr. Van Kirk can't resist gilding the lily now and then and giving them the true military spit and polish. They do not take much storage room, for the case is almost flush with the wall, or the arms can be attractively mounted on the new perforated fiber board.

The Star Welcomes

From Boston, Mass., comes Mrs. K. L. Dole and her sons, James, 10 years old, and 5-year-old Greg, who are making their home in Lincoln with Col. and Mrs. Joseph Stenglein, at 1645 Woodsview. Mrs. Dole hooks and braids rugs in her spare time, which will be a treasured thing, since she hopes to find employment in Lincoln. She and her family are native Bostonians.

☆ ☆ ☆

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Alexander B. Currie and their son, Alexander Jr., commonly known as Andy, 7, arrived in Lincoln recently from College Station, Tex. Col. Currie is now in Tucson helping to escort the first bomber wing of the 98th squadron back home to Lincoln.

The Curries lived in Texas almost five years during which time the Colonel taught air science at Texas A&M. They are natives of Manchester, N.H., and alumni of the University of New Hampshire. Mrs. Currie also attended Elmira (N.Y.) College, and taught senior high school English and dramatics. Before his entry into the service, Col. Currie taught agriculture. He just returned to the states from a tour of duty in Japan, and the Curries are residing at 1268 So. 20th.

☆ ☆ ☆

Rrecent graduates of Union College have returned to Lincoln to live. Mr. and Mrs. Mardian J. Blair have established residence at 4318 Sheridan, to enable Mr. Blair to do graduate work in business at the University of Nebraska. They lived formerly in Fruita, Colo.

TAKE A BOW

MRS. C. M. STEWART

Proud of her ability as a "clock-watcher" is Mrs. C. M. Stewart, one of Lincoln's most active participants in civic and club organizations, who long ago learned that if her days were to come out "even" with all duties accomplished in the allotted time there must be no wasted minutes in her schedule.

Well-known for her dependability and her talent for organization, Mrs. Stewart has served as the charter president of several groups in Lincoln. First president and instrumental in founding the the Soroptimist Clubs of Lincoln in 1953, she was reelected to a second term of office last spring at which time she also was named the first lieutenant-governor of the north central region of the organization. In this capacity, she attended the 13th biennial convention of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs held recently at Banff Springs, Alberta, Canada.

A charter president of Fidelia Lyceum, a local study group for business women, which was organized in 1948 with an invitational membership of 30, Mrs. Stewart recently has completed her second term as president for the club. She also is charter president of the Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council for which she currently is serving as secretary.

A member of the Chamber of Commerce women's division and a life member of the YWCA, Mrs. Stewart also has been active in the Better Films Council, for which she is serving her second term as president. A six year member of the Lincoln Woman's Club board of trustees, she is program director of the club's American home department. She has served as the club's first public affairs chairman, and for four years was the films chairman for the state Federation of Women's Clubs.

As treasurer and part owner of a transport service, Mrs. Stewart is hard pressed to find the time to enjoy the new home she and Mr. Stewart moved into almost two years ago. Although she refers to herself as a "week end cook," she enjoys preparing food for informal guest affairs and admits that she can always find time for the hot breads and cookies which her family call her specialty.

With little time to pursue her hobby of traveling, Mrs. Stewart does the next best thing and has turned her rare moments of relaxation into reading and research on the history of the many cities and lands she would love to visit.

MRS. RICHARD KING DENNIS

Bride On Tuesday

Clusters of white cathedral candles burning in floor candelabra appointed the chancel of St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed Church Tuesday afternoon, July 20, for the marriage of Joan Schacht, daughter of Mrs. Louis H. Schacht, to Richard King Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam K. Dennis of Kansas City, Mo. The lines of the early afternoon ceremony were read by the Rev. Lorene Schacht, sister of the bride, and pastor of the Elsdon Methodist Church in Chicago, Ill.

As the wedding guests and members of the family assembled, Mrs. Henry Sengsake presented a prelude of organ music. Mrs. Sengstake also played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Janice Wagner as she saig "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The matron of honor and her sister's only attendant was Mrs. Nicholas J. Bronzan of Cook, who wore a frock of cameo pink lace over satin designed in the ballerina mode. She carried a nosegay of pink carnatins and stephanotis.

Robert Smart of Kansas City, served Mr. Dennis as best man.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white Chantilly-type lace smoothed over satin. The fitted bodice was accented by a rounded neckline and long sleeves, and the wide skirt flared into waltz length. A small cap of the lace-over-satin held her illusion veil, and she carried a modern Colonial bouquet of white orchids and forget-me-nots.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 175 guests was held in the church parlors. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Estes Park, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will reside in Kansas City.

A hostess for Braniff Airlines last year, the bride is a graduate of Baker University, Baldwin, Kan., where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. She also attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and is a member of Willard sorority. A former student at Kemper Military Academy, Mr. Dennis is a graduate of the University of Kansas and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Parker of Shenandoah, Ia., spent last week in Lincoln as the guests of Mrs. Parker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Mahaffey. Also guests at the Mahaffey residence for several weeks were John and Scott Lee of Sidney, whose parents arrived in Lincoln Monday and the children returned home with them.

An Old Favorite

Another way to beat the high cost to the human soul of cooking in the summer heatwaves is to prepare this delicate-looking molded dessert. The secret is our old friend, the doughnut, used in the manner of lady fingers. Thinly sliced, crosswise, the doughnuts make stand-up circles around your pan.

Doughnut Strawberry Bavarian

6 cake doughnuts
1½ cups sliced strawberries, fresh or frozen
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt.
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons (2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
¾ cup cold water
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Cut each doughnut into 3 slices. Oil a 9¼x5¼x2¾ inch loaf pan lightly. Stand outer slices of doughnuts around edges of pan, placing 3 slices along each side and 1 slice at each end. Place 3 slices on bottom of pan. Combine strawberries and lemon juice. Sprinkle salt over egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Soften gelatin in the water about 5 minutes. Place over hot water until gelatine is melted. Cool until syrupy. Beat until frothy. Fold in strawberries, egg white and whipped cream. Carefully pour half of mixture into doughnut lined mold. Lay 3 doughnut slices over strawberry mixture. Add remaining gelatin mixture and cover with 3 more slices of doughnut.

Cover with waxed paper and refrigerate several hours or overnight.

(Note: If fresh strawberries are used, combine with 1 cup confectioners' sugar before adding lemon juice. If using frozen strawberries, defrost and have at room temperature before folding into gelatin mixiure.)

Underneath It All--

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

There are right and wrong ways to almost everything. Dressing is no exception. Careless treatment of an apparel results in split seams, torn fabrics—and a dent in your cloths budget.

The Powers Girls, who must make many quick changes during a fashion show, have found "best" ways to don every garment. If you take two minutes now to learn a few of their secrets on how to dress, you'll save yourself several dollars later.

Since foundation garments fit more snugly than the rest of your clothing, more care is required in putting them on. My models advise donning a brassiere this way, for proper fit and to avoid breaking a strap when about to face an audience:

Slide the straps over your shoulders and bend forward from the waist to fit the figure to the brassiere. After the garment is on, give the elastic band across the back a slight downward tug, holding the band down in front so it won't "ride up." Finally, adjust the straps so they lie flat.

The Girls make a point of wearing a girdle, for they know how much better any dress looks when thus "underlined." They say there's no trick to dressing quickly when you put on a girdle this way: Fold the top halfway to the lower edge. Step into the girdle and draw it into position on your body, then roll the top to the waistline. If the foundation is boned, pull it above wearing position, adjust the fastenings, then ease it downward. This method eliminates tugging. These warm days, my experts add, you'll find it easier to don a girdle if you dust your body first with powder.

Between wearings, the Girls protect their stocking from snags by keeping them in hosiery bags. Plastic bags from the five-and-ten will serve the purpose nicely, they tell me.

The Men In Our Lives--Their Hobbies

Guns have always fascinated Burkett Van Kirk, and he displays his impressive collection in this handsome case at his home, 2440 A. Mr. Van Kirk started his career with firearms like any youngster. . .with a .22 rifle, which he still uses for target practice.

When his father, Rolla C. Van Kirk, was a colonel with the United States Army in Italy immediately following World War II, Mr. Van Kirk acquired the coveted German Luger pistol. Although many imitations of the famous Luger, the only weapon carried by German army officers, are made, few are manufactured with the high quality metal possessed by the one Mr. Van Kirk has. Since 1942, materials of secondary value have been used extensively in its construction. The Europeans use this precision pistol also for duck and boar hunting.

Others included in his collection are a .410 shotgun, with which he bagged his share of duck in Italy; a pistol carried by a Union Cavalry officer in the Civil War, which Mr. Van Kirk has renovated; and a gleaming Browning automatic shotgun brought from Belgium by his wife's grandfather.

According to this young attorney, the care and feeding of his hobby is negligible . . . that is, unless he buys bullets! The guns need cleaning and oiling only after use, but Mr. Van Kirk can't resist gilding the lily now and then and giving them the true military spit and polish. They do not take much storage room, for the case is almost flush with the wall, or the arms can be attractively mounted on the new perforated fiber board.

The Talk Around Town

TOWN TALK has it that no one is sitting around twiddling her thumbs, for everyone, it seems, has at least one iron in the fire with respect to activity. Travelers and guests seem to be the main impetus for keeping the social ball rolling, but we must give some credit to the brides-elect and various informal affairs.

MRS. C. M. STEWART

Proud of her ability as a "clock-watcher" is Mrs. C. M. Stewart, one of Lincoln's most active participants in civic and club organizations, who long ago learned that if her days were to come out "even" with all duties accomplished in the allotted time there must be no wasted minutes in her schedule.

Well-known for her dependability and her talent for organization, Mrs. Stewart has served as the charter president of several groups in Lincoln. First president and instrumental in founding the the Soroptimist Clubs of Lincoln in 1953, she was reelected to a second term of office last spring at which time she also was named the first lieutenant-governor of the north central region of the organization. In this capacity, she attended the 13th biennial convention of the American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs held recently at Banff Springs, Alberta, Canada.

A charter president of Fidelia Lyceum, a local study group for business women which was organized in 1948 with an invitational membership of 30, Mrs. Stewart recently has completed her second term as president for the club. She also is charter president of the Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council for which she currently is serving as secretary.

A member of the Chamber of Commerce women's division and a life member of the YWCA, Mrs. Stewart also has been active in the Better Films Council, for which she is serving her second term as president. A six year member of the Lincoln Woman's Club board of trustees, she is program director of the club's American home department. She has served as the club's first public affairs chairman, and for four years was the films chairman for the state Federation of Women's Clubs.

As treasurer and part owner of a transport service, Mrs. Stewart is hard pressed to find the time to enjoy the new home she and Mr. Stewart moved into almost two years ago. Although she refers to herself as a "week end cook," she enjoys preparing food for informal guest affairs and admits that she can always find time for the hot breads and cookies which her family call her specialty.

With little time to pursue her hobby of traveling, Mrs. Stewart does the next best thing and has turned her rare moments of relaxation into reading and research on the history of the many cities and lands she would love to visit.

MRS. RICHARD KING DENN'S

Bride On Tuesday

Clusters of white cathedral candles burning in floor candelabra appointed the chancel of St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed Church Tuesday afternoon, July 20, for the marriage of Joan Schacht, daughter of Mrs. Louis H. Schacht, to Richard King Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam K. Dennis of Kansas City, Mo. The lines of the early afternoon ceremony were read by the Rev. Lorene Schacht, sister of the bride, and pastor of the Elsdon Methodist Church in Chicago, Ill.

As the wedding guests and members of the family assembled, Mrs. Henry Sengsake presented a prelude of organ music. Mrs. Sengstake also played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Janice Wagner as she saig "O Perfect Love," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The matron of honor and her sister's only attendant was Mrs. Nicholas J. Bronzan of Cook, who wore a frock of cameo pink lace over satin designed in the ballerina mode. She carried a nosegay of pink carnatins and stephanotis.

Robert Smart of Kansas City, served Mr. Dennis as best man.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white Chantilly-type lace smoothed over satin. The fitted bodice was accented by a rounded neckline and long sleeves, and the wide skirt flared into waltz length. A small cap of the lace-over-satin held her illusion veil, and she carried a modern Colonial bouquet of white orchids and forget-me-nots.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 175 guests was held in the church parlors. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Estes Park, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will reside in Kansas City.

A hostess for Braniff Airlines last year, the bride is graduate of Baker University, Baldwin, Kan., where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. She also attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and is a member of Willard sorority. A former student at Kemper Military Academy, Mr. Dennis is a graduate of the University of Kansas and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

House Passes Compromise Housing Bill

Ike Plan Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Tuesday passed a compromise general housing bill after defeating a final Democratic effort to restore President Eisenhower's proposal to build 140,000 public housing units in four years.

The bill would permit a much more restricted public housing program—a maximum of 68,000 of the low-rent units over the next two years

It would lower down payments on FHA loans and try to prevent further "windfall" profits such as disclosed in the recent housing investigation.

It would make many other changes which Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) said would encourage a building industry boom and provide for private construction of 1,250,000 to 1,400,000 new houses a year.

'Lingering' Death

Wolcott, chairman of the House Banking Committee and sponsor of the bill, said it would give President Eisenower 95 per cent of his housing recommendations.

But Rep. Garmatz (D-Md) said the bill, a compromise between earlier versions passed by the House and Senate, meant only a "lingering, agonizing" death for public housing.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky), senior Democrat on the Banking Committee, said it did nothing to end misery in slums. He predicted Democrats would be returned to power in Congress for the next 20 years because of the House action.

The compromise permits construction of 33,000 public housing units on which commitments already have been made for this fiscal year, which started last July 1. For the next year, it authorizes 35,000 units—but only where needed to house persons displaced by public slum clearance projects.

A motion by Spence to restore the President's full program was beaten, 234-156. Republicans lined up 136-50 against the move. Democrats voted 105-98 for it, with many Southerners opposing the program. Rep. Reams (Ind-Ohio) supported the move.

The bill then was passed 358-30. The Senate still must act on the compromise.

'TOUGH GUY' JR. CALLED ROBBER

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Edward G. Robinson Jr., jailed earlier Tuesday on suspicion of armed robbery, was released Tuesday afternoon on $10,000 bail posted by his illustrious movie "tough guy" father. He immediately labeled his arrest "fantastic—a case of mistaken identity."

The junior Robinson was seized during the wee hours after two taxicab drivers identified him as the youth who slugged and robbed them of $3.

Young Robinson, in and out of trouble with the law for the past several years, denied the holdups. The 21-year-old screen actor's son told police he was hard-pressed for money, but insisted it was a mistake.

The veteran actor wept when he was informed of his son's arrest. Said Robinson Sr.: "I don't know how my boy could get so involved."

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies Tuesday night seized a 40-year-old former mental hospital inmate in connection with the slaying of a pretty brunette high school girl.

The body of 18-year-old Doris Bogart was found early Tuesday in an abandoned car in a lonely Lovers Lane north of the city. She had been shot twice.

Sheriff Roy Doerfler identified the seized man as Anthony John Stefanich, a Joliet factory worker. He was charged with murder.

Deputies nabbed Stefanich as he tried to hide in a rubbish pit adjacent to the city. He was sought for questioning after the abandoned car was found to belong to him.

Bullet Wound

Coroner Willard Blood said the Bogart girl died of a bullet wound in the lower right lung and heart region. He reported that she also had been shot in the left shoulder and that there was evidence she had been strangled.

Scratches and bruises on the body and the disarray of Miss Bogart's blue jeans and underclothing led officers to speculate that she was killed while resisting sexual advances.

The sheriff said a friend of the girl, Carol Bishop, related Miss Bogart and Stefanich had been dating for about two years.

New Claims Cripple Blue Water Supply

Demand for water by irrigators pumping from the Big Blue River and Shell Creek has been so great that complaints of shortage have been received from some farmers with early priorities.

Dan S. Jones, director of the bureau of irrigation, said Tuesday that he will make an investigation to determine whether some of the water is being improperly withdrawn from the stream.

Some of the complaints have come from around Harvard and Lushton and near Shell Creek. The state is being asked by some farmers with older rights to shut off others with newer water claims.

She added: "I think they still have."

Air Guardsmen Training In Cool Wyoming Weather

Lincoln Star Special

CASPER, Wyo.—Nebraska Air National Guardsmen now beginning their two-week summer training activities at Casper, Wyo., are likely congratulating themselves on being so lucky.

While Nebraskans sizzle in the broiling heat the Air Guard is located at the base of a mountain range. The humidity is low, the air clear and the nights are cool.

The main body of the unit arrived last Saturday and spent the weekend setting up for operations and getting acquainted with the locale. An advance echelon under the command of Capt. John C. DePutron had arrived earlier to ready the base.

The area, rich in oil, abounds with places for fishing. In addition to the mountain streams near Casper, there are well-stocked lakes behind Pathfinder, Seminole, and Alcova dams.

The serious business of training gets under way at the Natrona County Airport early this week.

Education Group Confines Backing To Objectives Only

Steering committee of the Governor's Conference on Education decided Tuesday to confine recommendations to a platform of objectives rather than specific legislative bills.

The second session of the conference will be held some time this fall before the next session of the Legislature.

Archer Burnham of the Nebraska State Education Association pointed out that legislative enactments involve many technical details which it is hard for a large working group to prepare.

Charles Marshall, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, explained that legislation always involves compromises and that modification of bills is often necessary to get them introduced, let alone passed.

Rev. Carroll Lemon said some conference members might ask for something more specific, but State Supt. F. B. Decker said certain groups might oppose certain specific items and leave the impression of dissension on the entire question.

House Passes Compromise Housing Bill

Ike Plan Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Tuesday passed a compromise general housing bill after defeating a final Democratic effort to restore President Eisenhower's proposal to build 140,000 public housing units in four years.

The bill would permit a much more restricted public housing program—a maximum of 68,000 of the low-rent units over the next two years.

It would lower down payments on FHA loans and try to prevent further "windfall" profits such as disclosed in the recent housing investigation.

It would make many other changes which Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) said would encourage a building industry boom and provide for private construction of 1,250,000 to 1,400,000 new houses a year.

'Lingering' Death

Wolcott, chairman of the House Banking Committee and sponsor of the bill, said it would give President Eisenower 95 per cent of his housing recommendations.

But Rep. Garmatz (D-Md) said the bill, a compromise between earlier versions passed by the House and Senate, meant only a "lingering, agonizing" death for public housing.

Rep. Spence (D-Ky), senior Democrat on the Banking Committee, said it did nothing to end misery in slums. He predicted Democrats would be returned to power in Congress for the next 20 years because of the House action.

The compromise permits construction of 33,000 public housing units on which commitments already have been made for this fiscal year, which started last July 1. For the next year, it authorizes 35,000 units—but only where needed to house persons displaced by public slum clearance projects.

A motion by Spence to restore the President's full program was beaten, 234-156. Republicans lined up 136-50 against the move. Democrats voted 105-98 for it, with many Southerners opposing the program. Rep. Reams (Ind-Ohio) supported the move.

The bill then was passed 358-30. The Senate still must act on the compromise.

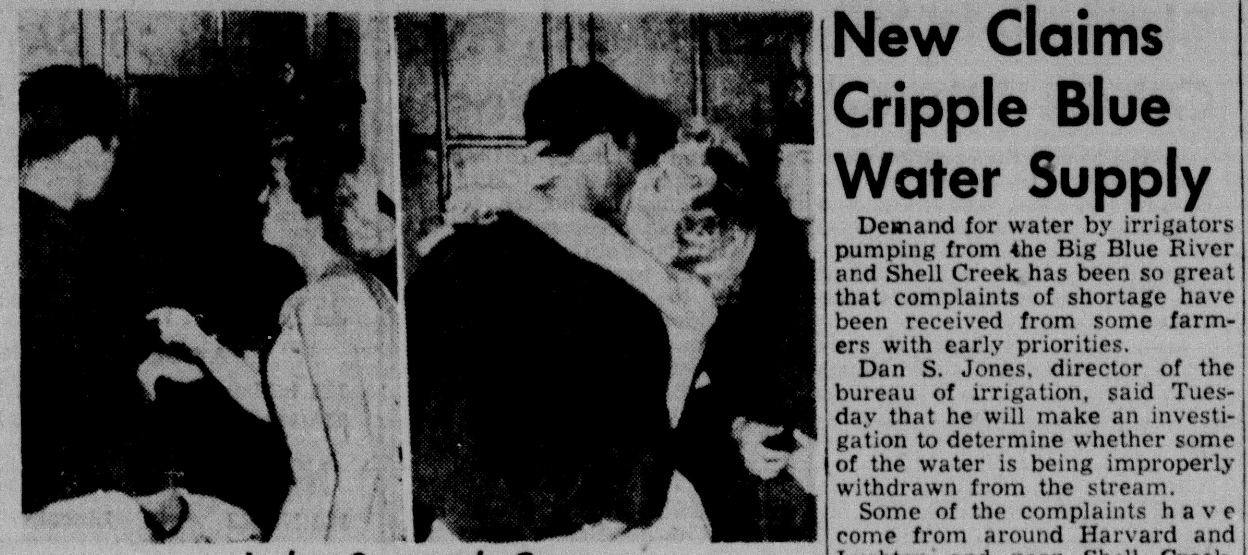
'TOUGH GUY' JR. CALLED ROBBER

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Edward G. Robinson Jr., jailed earlier Tuesday on suspicion of armed robbery, was released Tuesday afternoon on $10,000 bail posted by his illustrious movie "tough guy" father. He immediately labeled his arrest "fantastic—a case of mistaken identity."

The junior Robinson was seized during the wee hours after two taxicab drivers identified him as the youth who slugged and robbed them of $3.

Young Robinson, in and out of trouble with the law for the past several years, denied the holdups. The 21-year-old screen actor's son told police he was hard-pressed for money, but insisted it was a mistake.

The veteran actor wept when he was informed of his son's arrest. Said Robinson Sr.: "I don't know how my boy could get so involved."



Judge Suspends Case

Thomas and Virginia Conway faced each other in Los Angeles Domestic Court in an alimony hearing. Thomas is serving a term for forgery and his wife is in for a year for assault for an attempt to run her husband down with the family car. Judge Doyle said "This is one case where reconcillation seems impossible." Enroute back to their cells, Virginia continually bereted Thomas (left photo) but about to separate at the elevator, she kissed him (right photo). In view of circumstances, the judge has indefinitely suspended the case. (UP Telephoto.)

Man Nabbed In Slaying Of Teen-Ager

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies Tuesday night seized a 40-year-old former mental hospital inmate in connection with the slaying of a pretty brunette high school girl.

The body of 18-year-old Doris Bogart was found early Tuesday in an abandoned car in a lonely Lovers Lane north of the city. She had been shot twice.

Sheriff Roy Doerfler identified the seized man as Anthony John Stefanich, a Joliet factory worker. He was charged with murder.

Deputies nabbed Stefanich as he tried to hide in a rubbish pit adjacent to the city. He was sought for questioning after the abandoned car was found to belong to him.

Bullet Wound

Coroner Willard Blood said the Bogart girl died of a bullet wound in the lower right lung and heart region. He reported that she also had been shot in the left shoulder and that there was evidence she had been strangled.

Scratches and bruises on the body and the disarray of Miss Bogart's blue jeans and underclothing led officers to speculate that she was killed while resisting sexual advances.

The sheriff said a friend of the girl, Carol Bishop, related Miss Bogart and Stefanich had been dating for about two years.

King Moves In

NICE, France—King Sisavang Vong of Laos, a Communist-invaded Indo-China state, arrived from Marseille Tuesday and moved into the Villa Trianon at Saint-Jean Cap Ferat which he bought last year. He was accompanied by his queen.

Kay Starr Recovering

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Singer Kay Starr who underwent surgery last Sunday was reported in "very good" condition Tuesday at Good Samaritan Hospital. Nature of the surgery was not disclosed.

Injury Suit Settled

A $500 lump sum settlement to Harold Clark of Lincoln from Capital Steel Co., for a hand injury suffered Oct. 29, 1953, when steel plates dropped on his hand and fingers during employment, has been approved by the Lancaster District Court.

New Claims Cripple Blue Water Supply

Demand for water by irrigators pumping from the Big Blue River and Shell Creek has been so great that complaints of shortage have been received from some farmers with early priorities.

Dan S. Jones, director of the bureau of irrigation, said Tuesday that he will make an investigation to determine whether some of the water is being improperly withdrawn from the stream.

Some of the complaints have come from around Harvard and Lushton and near Shell Creek. The state is being asked by some farmers with older rights to shut off others with newer water claims.

North Platte Rites For James Karis

Funeral services and burial for James Karis, 67, of North Platte, will be held in North Platte.

Mr. Karis, a native of Greece, died here Monday. Surviving is his wife, Eva.

Opinion Unchanged

LONDON (INS) — Lady Astor, the American-born noblewoman, fired a new volley Tuesday night in the battle of the sexes. She told a radio audience that when she became the first female member of Parliament in 1919 "women had far more vision than men, politically, morally and spiritually." She added: "I think they still have."

Air Guardsmen Training In Cool Wyoming Weather

Lincoln Star Special

CASPER, Wyo.—Nebraska Air National Guardsmen now beginning their two-week summer training activities at Casper, Wyo., are likely congratulating themselves on being so lucky.

While Nebraskans sizzle in the broiling heat the Air Guard is located at the base of a mountain range. The humidity is low, the air clear and the nights are cool.

The main body of the unit arrived last Saturday and spent the weekend setting up for operations and getting acquainted with the locale. An advance echelon under the command of Capt. John C. DePutron had arrived earlier to ready the base.

The area, rich in oil, abounds with places for fishing. In addition to the mountain streams near Casper, there are well-stocked lakes behind Pathfinder, Seninole, and Alcova dams.

The serious business of training gets under way at the Natrona County Airport early this week.

Education Group Confines Backing To Objectives Only

Steering committee of the Governor's Conference on Education decided Tuesday to confine recommendations to a platform of objectives rather than specific legislative bills.

The second session of the conference will be held some time this fall before the next session of the Legislature.

Archer Burnham of the Nebraska State Education Association pointed out that legislative enactments involve many technical details which it is hard for a large working group to prepare.

Charles Marshall, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, explained that legislation always involves compromises and that modification of bills is often necessary to get them introduced, let alone passed.

Rev. Carroll Lemon said some conference members might ask for something more specific, but State Supt. F. B. Decker said certain groups might oppose certain specific items and leave the impression of dissension on the entire question.

Davis Praised For Interior Dept. Work

. . . Committee Okays Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Interior Committee members praised Clarence A. Davis of Lincoln, Neb., before unanimously approving Tuesday his nomination by President Eisenhower to be Under Secretary of the Interior.

Democrats and Republicans alike expressed their high opinion of Davis' work as the Interior Department Solicitor since early 1952. Eisenhower nominated Davis Friday to succeed Ralph A. Tudor, who resigned.

Davis, flanked by Nebraska's Republican Sens. Bowring and Reynolds, sat smiling as one senator after another complimented him.

Chairman Gordon (R-Ore) said he had found that Davis had an understanding of practical problems as well as a firm grasp of the laws affecting matters under the Interior Department.

Sen. Daniel (D-Tex) said he felt Davis' had been one of the "outstanding appointments" made in this administration. Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo) agreed, saying

"If he makes as good an under secretary, as he was a solicitor, we will all be happy."

Reynolds said Nebraskans had long known Davis and held him in high regard and that he was not surprised that senators from other states also thought well of him.

The nomination now goes to the Senate. Confirmation is deemed certain.

Bloomfield Woman Dead, Five Others Injured In Auto Crash

YANKTON, S. D. (AP)—Mrs. John Johnson, about 52, of Bloomfield, Neb., was killed and five other persons were injured in a car-truck collision on Highway 81, about one mile south of the Yankton Bridge in Cedar County, Neb.

Mrs. Johnson's husband suffered broken ribs and shock. Lael Hanson, 11, a Bloomfield girl, suffered fractures of both legs. The other passengers in the Johnson car were the Johnsons' son, Chris, 9, Norvin Hanson, 13, and Jerry Evans, 11, also of Bloomfield. None was injured seriously.

Sheriff Ralph Clements said the Johnson auto was going south and a truck driven by Ira Thomas, Kansas City, was traveling north. Thomas, with a load of reinforcement steel for the Gavins Point project, had started to turn onto the road leading to Gavins Point when the accident occurred.

Thomas was not injured.

The death raised Nebraska's traffic accident fatality total for the year to 159, compared with 143 at this time in 1953.

HIT-HAPPY BEARS BEAT CHIEFS 11-8

Pritts' Subdues Lincoln's Uprising; Bush Tries Next

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

A one-man detonation squadron named Harry D. Pritts Tuesday night cut the fuse from a Lincoln explosion and piloted the booming Denver Bears to an 11-8 victory in a rousing slugfest at Sherman Field.

A crowd of 1,337 stared unbelievingly as the Chiefs battled back from a 5-0 deficit in the first inning to knot the count at 8-8 in the fifth.

Amidst the uprising, Skipper Andy Cohen replaced starter Clarence Churn with Pritts, who finally snuffed out the fire with the bases loaded. He fanned Mel Rue and lured Johnny Jones into an outfield fly for the last two outs.

Pritts set the Chiefs down in order during the final four innings, striking out the side in the eighth and ninth.

"Pritts was the story for us this evening," smiled a happy Cohen in the dressing room. "His relief job was one of our best of the year, but we needed those runs in the late innings. Of course, our 20 hits helped plenty."

Andy Bush (13-5), the newest Admiral in Nebraska's Navy, will be on the mound for the Chiefs' tonight against Denver's Dick Grilling (8-8), a righthander, in the series finale.

"We've got to win this one," moaned a discouraged Wietelmann.

While Pritts' southpaw slants were nipping the corners, his mates pounced on Manager Whitey Wietelmann, who had relieved Brown, for single runs in the sixth and eighth.

Rocky Ippolito toured on an error, a wild pitch, an infield out and Dusty Rice's single with Roger Wright hurling in the ninth.

As tension mounted in the late innings, a scrap loomed between Red McQuillen of the Chiefs and Pitcher Bob Garber of Denver, who had been riding Red from the bench. Cohen stepped between the antagonists, and prevented a possible fisticuffs as the players were leaving the field.

Denver landed a five-run broadside on Norm Brown in the first on Reno DeBenedetti's homer, doubles by Ippolito and Browne and singles by Bob Prescott, Brookey and Churn.

Lincoln countered with four runs in the first on singles by Billy Smith, Charley Grant and But Greenstein, a double by Walt Linden and a hit batsman.

The Bears picked up an unearned run in the fourth when singles by Browne and Don Dahlke were tainted with an error.

Lincoln finally passed the 60,000 mark in attendance. With 29 dates remaining the Chiefs have drawn 61,066.

Wigwam notes. . .Grant contributed a pair of magic catches in the seventh, hauling down Prescott's towering foul near the stands and stabbing Ippolito's searing liner. . .It was Andy Bush night with Governor Bob Crosby making the Kentucky Colonel an admiral in the Nebraska Navy. . .Asked Andy to the governor: "Will this help my parking tickets?". . .Vance Carlson, acting for the players, presented Andy an envelope full of folding green and the Lincoln Baseball Club contributed a nice hunk of luggage. . .McQuillen and DeBenedetti are now tied for the league lead in doubles, each with 26. . .Johnny Krieger, a never-miss fan, was back on the premises after a trip to El Paso, where Cohen's brother manages the team. . .Says Cohen: "Jones of Lincoln and Vern Morgan of Denver are the two most underrated players in the league" . . . A 22-mile north wind arrived miraculously to cool off the field and greatly aid the hitting. . . Denver led 5-0 after nine minutes. . .Pritts once again proved what a sharpshooting southpaw can do to the Chiefs.

Stanky Suspended Five Days For Part In Riot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A repentant Eddie Stanky, acknowledging he is unpopular with St. Louis fans, promised to reform after drawing a suspension and fine Tuesday for his conduct in a game that developed into a general free-for-all Sunday.

The peppery St. Louis Cardinal manager was suspended for five days and fined $100 for his conduct in the game by Warren Giles, National League president who held a hearing here Tuesday on the matter.

No penalty was given to Manager Terry Moore of the Philadelphia Phils, who persuaded Giles that he was trying to restore peace when he was downed by a tackle by Stanky as Cardinal and Phils players battled.

Eyes Opened

Stanky said he was aware he had embarrassed and hurt St. Louis fans, baseball nationally, the Cardinals and his own reputation as a baseball man and "this affair Sunday has opened my eyes."

He added he knows a lot of people will say "Eddie Stanky won't do it." Then, speaking with feeling, he said: "However, I consider this challenge the biggest of my baseball career. I will win."

General Manager Dick Meyer of the Cardinals said "Eddie is the type of fellow who will lick any problem he recognizes and when a man will recognize his own makeup and offers, you might say, a public apology, he has gone a long way."

"I cannot help feel it is a turning point," Meyer said, "not only with the fans but with the ball club. It takes a tremendous amount of fortitude to make the type of statement Eddie made unsolicited."

Forfeiture Upheld

Giles also upheld forfeiture by Umpire Babe Pinelli of the riotous second game of the doubleheader here Sunday to the Phils because of stalling by Stanky.

"We will not condone unreasonable delays in games," Giles said in a statement released through his assistant, Fred G. Fleig.

Catcher Sal Yvars of the Cardinals and first baseman Earl Torgeson, the first to exchange blows Sunday in an uprising that involved Stanky and Manager Terry Moore of the Phils as well as most of the players, also drew suspensions.

Other Suspensions

Yvars was suspended for three days and Torgeson for two.

Stanky later publicly apologized for his actions Sunday.

Stanky added he was aware fans here have been booing him and that he was hurt by booing which greeted the forfeit to the Phils. He said he has been accepting challenges all his life and "I consider this challenge the biggest of my baseball career."

Stanky said his wife and friends had been telling him there was a difference between being a player and a manager.

'Both Guilty'

The league president said both Yvars and Torgeson were guilty "but Yvars, by dropping his glove and mask, ready to fight, contributed to a delay of the game which already had been delayed too much."

All of the suspensions were effective Tuesday.

The Cardinals announced that Coach John Riddle will be in charge of the club during Stanky's suspension, which continues through Sunday.

"The manager of a club must be held responsible for the conduct of his team and, while there is no evidence that Manager Stanky issued specific instructions to delay the game, the tactics employed in the game were palpably designed to delay the game," Giles said.

The league president added the suspension and fine against Stanky were "for his actions and the actions of Cardinals players."

Deal Escapes

Pitcher Ellis (Cot) Deal of the Cardinals, who had been suspended temporarily with Stanky, Yvars and Torgeson pending the hearing Tuesday, escaped further action.

The Sunday brawl broke out in the first half of the fifth inning of the second game. Stanky downed Moore, whom he fired as a Cardinal coach in 1952, with a tackle around the neck as players of the two clubs pummeled and wrestled each other.

The Firing Line

by Norris Anderson
SPORTS EDITOR, THE STAR

Nick (The Bull) Adduci, the Chicago alderman formerly at fullback duty for the Cornhuskers, now owns a limousine.

As befits such a huge car, it uses a lot of gas and oil. When Nick pulls into a station, he asks the attendant to "fill it up with oil and check the gas."

"Even then it uses so much gas that I don't dare leave the motor running while the guy is putting in more gas," says Alderman Adduci. "If I left the motor running, it would take hours to fill the tank. It burns up the juice that fast."

Nick Adduci

Does Nick have a chauffeur? Not yet. He's trying to sign up his body guard and ex-Husker mate, Joe Ponsiego, as pilot of the limousine.

"Trouble is Joe is always trying to race those traffic cops," says Nick, present alderman and future mayor of Chicago.

Can the Chiefs reach that 120,000 season attendance that has been listed as necessary to keep Western League baseball in Lincoln?

The goal will require an average of something like 2,000 per night from here on in. Surely, several Elk's Night-size crowds of 3,000 and up will be needed to bolster that average.

Labor Night, which drew over 3,000 last year, is coming up and General Manager Bill Herring, who hustles, will be having other attractions.

They found themselves in the last game against the Indians but folded again before Denver's power.

Very important in recent games has been the work of Burt Greenstein at second base. When Freddy Hancock left to join the semi-pros, the Chiefs' infield seemed to lose its spark.

Greenstein has brought back Hancock's dash and then some. He moves around faster than Freddy and is quicker on the pivot.

First time Greenstein appeared at Sherman Field, Bill King, the capable sportscaster, kept scratching his head. He knew he had seen the guy somewhere before.

Turned out he had. Burt had played in the Three-Eye league under the name of Burt Stone. King, formerly of the Peoria mike in that loop, remembered him as a fine hand at second base.

That was quite a reunion put together at the Lincoln Country Club the other day between Jerry Bush, present Cornhusker basketball coach; Harry Sorensen, Husker mainstay of the mid-thirties and a teammate of Bush's in the pro ranks, and Harry Browne, the former Cornhusker cagemaster.

Basketball was mulled over under a 103-degree thermometer and Brownie had a chance to talk to his old pupil, Sorensen, now a Firestone executive at Akron, O.

If this fellow Bush doesn't watch out, he's going to find himself the most popular guy in the state.

Jerry has a magnetic personality. He can charm the birds out of the trees (even in this heat) and, best of all, his magic is working on the outstate preppers.

"I've just met Mr. Bush once, but he's the coach I want to play for in college," one future Husker told your flinger.

The late Cy Sherman, who saw them all, often listed Clair Sloan as one of Nebraska's "top two or three" halfbacks.

"Clair could run with about any of them," Cy used to say.

Now a bit over his Husker playing weight, but still the same zippy guy Clair is doing some graduate work at the university this summer.

He is now located in North Platte and, knowing Clair, North Platte is bound to benefit.

'Little Mo' Hurt; Out Of Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Tennis Queen Maureen Connolly was so seriously injured when she was crushed against a big cement truck while riding her horse here Tuesday that she will be unable to defend her national title next month at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Surgery and X-rays determined that the small bone in her lower right leg was broken and that muscles and tendons of the calf were damaged by a deep gash.

This definitely ended her hope for winning the U. S. championship for the fourth straight time.

She will hardly be able to get around, doctors said, by the start of the tournament, Aug. 28.

"Little Mo," who will be 20 Sept. 17, was wheeled into surgery within an hour after reaching the hospital.

She was conscious when she arrived and told Nelson Fisher, San Diego Union sports writer and close friend, that she was riding her thoroughbred Merryboy on a road near Mission Valley polo grounds.

When the mix-in-transit cement truck came along the road, the horse became frightened and reared, pinning her leg against the truck.

She was dragged or thrown from the horse.

There were several others in the riding party. They said someone, not identified, put a tourniquet on Miss Connolly's leg to check the loss of blood.

Miss Connolly returned only Monday after defending her European and English titles. She holds most of the world's championships.

HIT-HAPPY BEARS BEAT CHIEFS 11-8

Pritts' Subdues Lincoln's Uprising; Bush Tries Next

By NORRIS ANDERSON
Sports Editor, The Star

A one-man detonation squadron named Harry D. Pritts Tuesday night cut the fuse from a Lincoln explosion and piloted the booming Denver Bears to an 11-8 victory in a rousing slugfest at Sherman Field.

A crowd of 1,337 stared unbelievingly as the Chiefs battled back from a 5-0 deficit in the first inning to knot the count at 8-8 in the fifth.

Amidst the uprising, Skipper Andy Cohen replaced starter Clarence Churn with Pritts, who finally snuffed out the fire with the bases loaded. He fanned Mel Rue and lured Johnny Jones into an outfield fly for the last two outs.

Pritts set the Chiefs down in order during the final four innings, striking out the side in the eighth and ninth.

"Pritts was the story for us this evening," smiled a happy Cohen in the dressing room. "His relief job was one of our best of the year, but we needed those runs in the late innings. Of course, our 20 hits helped plenty."

Andy Bush (13-5), the newest Admiral in Nebraska's Navy, will be on the mound for the Chiefs' tonight against Denver's Dick Grilling (8-8), a righthander, in the series finale.

Through The Gate

Present attendance: 61,066.
Dates left: 29.
Season goal: 120,000.

"We've got to win this one," moaned a discouraged Wietelmann.

While Pritts' southpaw slants were nipping the corners, his mates pounced on Manager Whitey Wietelmann, who had relieved Brown, for single runs in the sixth and eighth.

Pidge Brown homered over rightfield wall in the sixth and Don Dahlke walked and was booted home by Mel Brookey's double in the in the eighth.

Rocky Ippolito toured on an error, a wild pitch, an infield out and Dusty Rice's single with Roger Wright hurling in the ninth.

As tension mounted in the late innings, a scrap loomed between Red McQuillen of the Chiefs and Pitcher Bob Garber of Denver, who had been riding Red from the bench. Cohen stepped between the antagonists, and prevented a possible fisticuffs as the players were leaving the field.

Denver landed a five-run broadside on Norm Brown in the first on Reno DeBenedetti's homer, doubles by Ippolito and Browne and singles by Bob Prescott, Brookey and Churn.

Lincoln countered with four runs in the first on singles by Billy Smith, Charley Grant and But Greenstein, a double by Walt Linden and a hit batsman.

Billy Smith's double, followed by Johnny Jones single, allowed a Lincoln run in the second.

The Chief's spurt in the fifth started with Linden's single, gained momentum with Andy Anderson's double, a pair of walks and Billy Smith's single.

For additional Sports news, see Page 16.

Three runs trickled home before Pritts' magic asserted itself.

The Bears picked up an unearned run in the fourth when singles by Browne and Don Dahlke were tainted with an error.

Lincoln finally passed the 60,000 mark in attendance. With 29 dates remaining, the Chiefs have drawn 61,066.

Wigwam notes. . .Grant contributed a pair of magic catches in the seventh, hauling down Prescott's towering foul near the stands and stabbing Ippolito's searing liner. . .It was Andy Bush night with Governor Bob Crosby making the Kentucky Colonel an admiral in the Nebraska Navy. . .Asked Andy to the governor: "Will this help my parking tickets?". . .Vance Carlson, acting for the players, presented Andy an envelope full of folding green and the Lincoln Baseball Club contributed a nice hunk of luggage. . .McQuillen and DeBenedetti are now tied for the league lead in doubles, each with 26. . .Johnny Krieger, a never-miss fan, was back on the premises after a trip to El Paso, where Cohen's brother manages the team. . .Says Cohen: "Jones of Lincoln and Vern Morgan of Denver are the two most underrated players in the league" . . . A 22-mile north wind arrived miraculously to cool off the field and greatly aid the hitting. . . Denver led 5-0 after nine minutes. . .Pritts once again proved what a sharpshooting southpaw can do to the Chiefs.

Stanky Suspended Five Days For Part In Riot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A repentant Eddie Stanky, acknowledging he is unpopular with St. Louis fans, promised to reform after drawing a suspension and fine Tuesday for his conduct in a game that developed into a general free-for-all Sunday.

The peppery St. Louis Cardinal manager was suspended for five days and fined $100 for his conduct in the game by Warren Giles, National League president who held a hearing here Tuesday on the matter.

No penalty was given to Manager Terry Moore of the Philadelphia Phils, who persuaded Giles that he was trying to restore peace when he was downed by a tackle by Stanky as Cardinal and Phils players battled.

Eyes Opened

Stanky said he was aware he had embarrassed and hurt St. Louis fans, baseball nationally, the Cardinals and his own reputation as a baseball man and "this affair Sunday has opened my eyes."

He added he knows a lot of people will say "Eddie Stanky won't do it." Then, speaking with feeling, he said: "However, I consider this challenge the biggest of my baseball career. I will win."

General Manager Dick Meyer of the Cardinals said "Eddie is the type of fellow who will lick any problem he recognizes and when a man will recognize his own makeup and offers, you might say, a public apology, he has gone a long way."

"I cannot help feel it is a turning point," Meyer said, "not only with the fans but with the ball club. It takes a tremendous amount of fortitude to make the type of statement Eddie made unsolicited."

Forfeiture Upheld

Giles also upheld forfeiture by Umpire Babe Pinelli of the riotous second game of the doubleheader here Sunday to the Phils because of stalling by Stanky.

"We will not condone unreasonable delays in games," Giles said in a statement released through his assistant, Fred G. Fleig.

Catcher Sal Yvars of the Cardinals and first baseman Earl Torgeson, the first to exchange blows Sunday in an uprising that involved Stanky and Manager Terry Moore of the Phils as well as most of the players, also drew suspensions.

Other Suspensions

Yvars was suspended for three days and Torgeson for two.

Stanky later publicly apologized for his actions Sunday.

Stanky added he was aware fans here have been booing him and that he was hurt by booing which greeted the forfeit to the Phils. He said he has been accepting challenges all his life and "I consider this challenge the biggest of my baseball career."

Stanky said his wife and friends had been telling him there was a difference between being a player and a manager.

'Both Guilty'

The league president said both Yvars and Torgeson were guilty "but Yvars, by dropping his glove and mask, ready to fight, contributed to a delay of the game which already had been delayed too much."

All of the suspensions were effective Tuesday.

The Cardinals announced that Coach John Riddle will be in charge of the club during Stanky's suspension, which continues through Sunday.

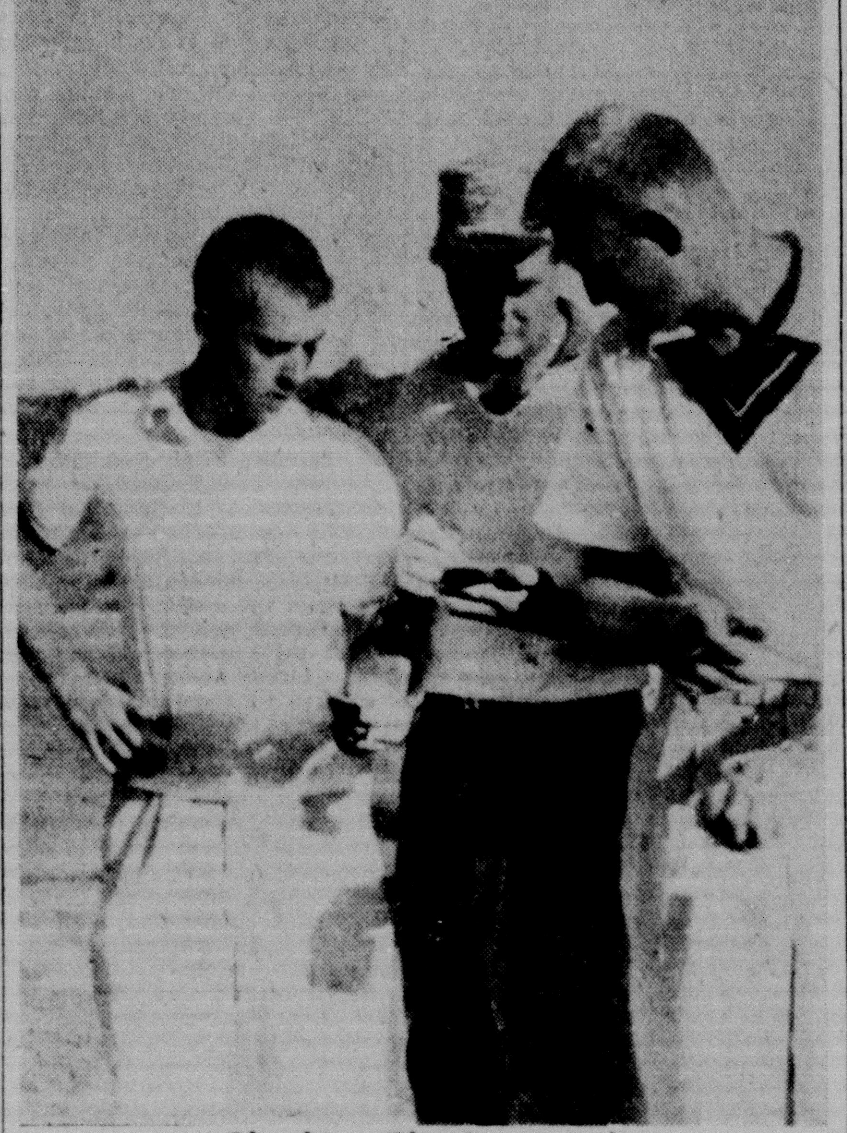
"The manager of a club must be held responsible for the conduct of his team and, while there is no evidence that Manager Stanky issued specific instructions to delay the game, the tactics employed in the game were palpably designed to delay the game," Giles said.

The league president added the suspension and fine against Stanky were "for his actions and the actions of Cardinals players."

Deal Escapes

Pitcher Ellis (Cot) Deal of the Cardinals, who had been suspended temporarily with Stanky, Yvars and Torgeson pending the hearing Tuesday, escaped further action.

The Sunday brawl broke out in the first half of the fifth inning of the second game. Stanky downed Moore, whom he fired as a Cardinal coach in 1952, with a tackle around the neck as players of the two clubs pummeled and wrestled each other.



Checking The Scorecards

Bud Williamson (center), Lincoln Country Club pro, checks the scorecards of amateurs Dick Spangler Jr., (left) and Roy Wythers Jr. during the Men's State tourney at Omaha Happy Hollow. Spangler, from Lincoln, had a 71 while Wythers, now of Omaha and formerly a Lincolnite, had a 74 in the qualifying. Williamson shot a 71 in the pro-amateur. (AP Wirephoto)

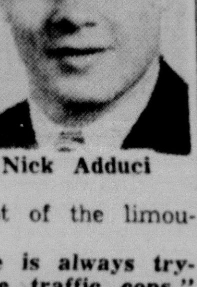
Nick (The Bull) Adduci, the Chicago alderman formerly at fullback duty for the Cornhuskers, now owns a limousine.

As befits such a huge car, it uses a lot of gas and oil. When Nick pulls into a station, he asks the attendant to "fill it up with oil and check the gas."

"Even then it uses so much gas that I don't dare leave the motor running while the guy is putting in more gas," says Alderman Adduci. "If I left the motor running, it would take hours to fill the tank. It burns up the juice that fast."



Nick Adduci

Does Nick have a chauffeur? Not yet.

He's trying to sign up his body guard and ex-Husker mate, Joe Ponsiego, as pilot of the limousine.

"Trouble is Joe is always trying to race those traffic cops," says Nick, present alderman and future mayor of Chicago.

Can the Chiefs reach that 120,000 season attendance that has been listed as necessary to keep Western League baseball in Lincoln? The goal will require an average of something like 2,000 per night from here on in. Surely, several Elk's Night-size crowds of 3,000 and up will be needed to bolster that average.

Labor Night, which drew over 3,000 last year, is coming up and General Manager Bill Herring, who hustles, will be having other attractions.

Of course, there's no substitute for bringing out the fans like a contender. Up to the Wichita series, the Chiefs looked like a surging crew.

They found themselves in the last game against the Indians but folded again before Denver's power.

Very important in recent games has been the work of Burt Greenstein at second base. When Freddy Hancock left to join the semipros, the Chiefs' infield seemed to lose its spark.

Greenstein has brought back Hancock's dash and then some. He moves around faster than Freddy and is quicker on the pivot.

First time Greenstein appeared at Sherman Field, Bill King, the capable sportscaster, kept scratching his head. He knew he had seen the guy somewhere before.

Turned out he had. Burt had played in the Three-Eye league under the name of Burt Stone. King, formerly of the Peoria mike in that loop, remembered him as a fine hand at second base.

That was quite a reunion put together at the Lincoln Country Club the other day between Jerry Bush, present Cornhusker basketball coach; Harry Sorensen, Husker mainstay of the mid-thirties and a teammate of Bush's in the pro ranks, and Harry Browne, the former Cornhusker cagemaster.

Basketball was mulled over under a 103-degree thermometer and Brownie had a chance to talk to his old pupil, Sorensen, now a Firestone executive at Akron, O.

If this fellow Bush doesn't watch out, he's going to find himself the most popular guy in the state.

Jerry has a magnetic personality. He can charm the birds out of the trees (even in this heat) and, best of all, his magic is working on the outstate preppers.

"I've just met Mr. Bush once, but he's the coach I want to play for in college," one future Husker told your flinger.

The late Cy Sherman, who saw them all, often listed Clair Sloan as one of Nebraska's "top two or three" halfbacks.

"Clair could run with about any of them," Cy used to say.

Now a bit over his Husker playing weight, but still the same zippy guy Clair is doing some graduate work at the university this summer.

He is now located in North Platte and, knowing Clair, North Platte is bound to benefit.

'Little Mo' Hurt; Out Of Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Tennis Queen Maureen Connolly was so seriously injured when she was crushed against a big cement truck while riding her horse here Tuesday that she will be unable to defend her national title next month at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Surgery and X-rays determined that the small bone in her lower right leg was broken and that muscles and tendons of the calf were damaged by a deep gash.

This definitely ended her hope for winning the U. S. championship for the fourth straight time.

She will hardly be able to get around, doctors said, by the start of the tournament, Aug. 28.

"Little Mo," who will be 20 Sept. 17, was wheeled into surgery within an hour after reaching the hospital.

She was conscious when she arrived and told Nelson Fisher, San Diego Union sports writer and close friend, that she was riding her thoroughbred Merryboy on a road near Mission Valley polo grounds.

When the mix-in-transit cement truck came along the road, the horse became frightened and reared, pinning her leg against the truck.

She was dragged or thrown from the horse.

There were several others in the riding party. They said someone, not identified, put a tourniquet on Miss Connolly's leg to check the loss of blood.

Miss Connolly returned only Monday after defending her European and English titles. She holds most of the world's championships.

Stubborn Redlegs Fall 2-1 As Giants Strengthen Lead In National League

CINCINNATI, (AP) — The Cincinnati Redleg defense sagged twice in the 13th inning Tuesday and the New York Giants pushed over the run that gave them a 2-1 victory. A single, two errors and Whitey Lockman's long fly accounted for the winning tally.

Lockman's fly scored Joe Amalfitino from third. Amalfitino had gone in to run for Bobby Hofman after Hofman had singled and gone to second on Jim Greengrass' error. He moved to third when Rocky Bridges booted Johnny Antonelli's bounder.

The victory gave the Giants an even split in the four-game series here.

The game also was the second straight extra-inning game and the third straight tight pitching duel.

Antonelli's 14th

Johnny Antonelli, pitching all the way for the Giants, scored his 14th triumph of the season against only two defeats and he struck out 10 Redlegs in the process.

The only run he allowed was a fifth-inning homer by Ted Kluszewski and until the eighth it looked as if that was going to be enough for Art Fowler, the Reds' starting pitcher.

The Giants knotted the score in the eighth on Don Mueller's double and successive singles by Willie Mays and pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes.

The league leaders finally drove Fowler out in the 10th when they loaded the bases with one out. Frank Smith came in to stifle the threat and then held the Giants in check until his support failed him.

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Jim Hughes' fumble of a toss at first base for the third out in the 10th inning enabled Gene Baker, who doubled, to score the winning run as the Chicago Cubs defeated Brooklyn 3-2 Tuesday.

Yanks Beat Sox 4 To 1

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees put on a fine defensive display to back up an excellent clutch pitching performance by Whitey Ford here as they whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-1.

It was the 13th straight night victory for the world champions.

Three fast double plays and five strikeouts by Ford kept the White Sox in check as the Yanks handed Bob Keegan his fifth defeat against a dozen victories.

Ford scored two of the Yankee runs, coming across in the third inning with the first run, scored on a bunt, a sacrifice, an infield out and an infield hit by Mickey Mantle.

He scored again in the fifth when the Yankees drove over three runs.

Tribe Tied By Boston

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox dropped Cleveland into a virtual tie for the American League lead by tieing the Indians, 5-5, in a pulsating 4 hour, 26 minute, 16-inning battle called at 12:57 a.m. EDT Wednesday due to the league curfew law.

The Indians still hold to first place by four percentage points.

Left-handed reliefer Don Mossi of the Indians pitched three-hit shutout ball over the left seven innings to hold the tie after Cleveland's Bobby Avila hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning to deadlock the issue.

The game, which will have to be replayed, was called under a loop ruling which says no inning can begin after 12:50 a.m.

Boston got brilliant relief work from Ellis Kinder and Sid Hudson who gave up but one safety in the extra innings.

Senators Defeat Baltimore, 9 To 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy Sievers blasted his 15th home run and Eddie Yost slammed a bases-loaded triple as Washington routed Joe Coleman and breezed to a 9-1 victory over Baltimore Tuesday behind the eight-hit pitching of Johnny Schmitz.

The Senators erupted for four runs in the second inning, when Ed Fitz Gerald and Johnny Pesky both singled across two runs. They staged another four-run inning in the sixth when Sievers homered and Yost unloaded his three-run triple.

Haddix Wins 14th; Phils Dropped 4-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bunching four runs in the first inning—two of them on Ray Jablonski's triple—the St. Louis Cardinals backed up Harvey Haddix's hurling for a 4-2 victory Tuesday over the Philadelphia Phils. Gerry Staley had to put down a ninth-inning Phillie threat to protect Haddix's 14th triumph of the year, tops in the majors.

Stan The Man Unperturbed, Like Hubbell

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The blow-by-blow account of the brawl game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Phils Sunday failed to mention one of our favorite athletes. Poor Stan Musial. All he does is play baseball better than just about anyone else we can think of offhand.

We don't know, not having been there, but we have the idea that while several acres of ball players were tussling about the field "The Man" was observing the action with detached interest.

Not that Stan couldn't take care of himself under any circumstances. It's just that he "ain't mad at nobody," as they say, and for that reason his behavior undoubtedly was like that of another nice guy who took a spectator role in another similar battle in the St. Louis park.

Seeking Sixth Straight

He was Carl Hubbell, a pretty fair pitcher in his day. In fact, on this day in question, a bright May afternoon in 1937, he was trying to rack up his sixth straight victory of the season for the New York Giants, and his 22nd straight over a two-year stretch. Did, too, by a 4-1 score.

Hubbell's mound opponent that date was the uninhibited Dizzy Dean, and things hadn't been going so well for Diz that afternoon. For one thing, a balk had been called on him which resulted in the Giants' winning three-run rally.

Anyway, Diz was fuming. Maybe he wasn't dusting off the batters, but if there had been any dust on them it certainly would have disappeared.

In the ninth inning, Jimmy Ripple, Giant centerfielder, dropped to the dirt to avoid a pitch. He arose slowly, his eyes on the Giant bench

Whether or not he received a silent signal from Manager Bill Terry we wouldn't know, but on the next pitch Ripple bunted toward first, and if Dizzy had to cover the bag, imagine Ripple's surprise!

The pitcher and batter reached the base almost simultaneously, and quicker than you can say Dizzy Dean, were rolling on the ground in close embrace.

Players of both teams, wanting a piece of this private fight, swarmed all over the field, swinging haymakers indiscriminately and leaping on the nearest enemy back in carefree abandon.

While all this was going on, Hubble stood quietly on the dugout steps, surveying the riot with mild interest. When all the confusion was over, with the minimum of damage usually inflicted in ball players' brawls, he came back serenely to pitch the last of the ninth and insure his victory.

Tempers were as bubbling that day as they were last Sunday. In fact, Frankie Frisch, the Cardinals manager, was still so hot the following day that he was thumbed off the lot before a ball had been pitched.

Dizzy and Ripple were let off with $50 fines for their part in the ruckus, a modest assessment considering the turmoil they had instigated.

Stubborn Redlegs Fall 2-1 As Giants Strengthen Lead In National League

CINCINNATI, (AP) — The Cincinnati Redleg defense sagged twice in the 13th inning Tuesday and the New York Giants pushed over the run that gave them a 2-1 victory. A single, two errors and Whitey Lockman's long fly accounted for the winning tally.

Lockman's fly scored Joe Amalfitino from third. Amalfitino had gone in to run for Bobby Hofman after Hofman had singled and gone to second on Jim Greengrass' error. He moved to third when Rocky Bridges booted Johnny Antonelli's bounder.

The victory gave the Giants an even split in the four-game series here.

The game also was the second straight extra-inning game and the third straight tight pitching duel.

Antonelli's 14th

Johnny Antonelli, pitching all the way for the Giants, scored his 14th triumph of the season against only two defeats and he struck out 10 Redlegs in the process.

The only run he allowed was a fifth-inning homer by Ted Kluszewski and until the eighth it looked as if that was going to be enough for Art Fowler, the Reds' starting pitcher.

The Giants knotted the score in the eighth on Don Mueller's double and successive singles by Willie Mays and pinch hitter Dusty Rhodes.

The league leaders finally drove Fowler out in the 10th when they loaded the bases with one out. Frank Smith came in to stifle the threat and then held the Giants in check until his support failed him.

Cubs Defeat Brooks In 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Jim Hughes' fumble of a toss at first base for the third out in the 10th inning enabled Gene Baker, who doubled, to score the winning run as the Chicago Cubs defeated Brooklyn 3-2 Tuesday.

The victory gave the Cubs a 2-1 series edge as Paul Minner, posting his eighth victory, became the third southpaw to beat the Brooks this season.

Yanks Beat Sox 4 To 1

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees put on a fine defensive display to back up an excellent clutch pitching performance by Whitey Ford here as they whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-1.

It was the 13th straight night victory for the world champions.

Three fast double plays and five strikeouts by Ford kept the White Sox in check as the Yanks handed Bob Keegan his fifth defeat against a dozen victories.

Ford scored two of the Yankee runs, coming across in the third inning with the first run, scored on a bunt, a sacrifice, an infield out and an infield hit by Mickey Mantle.

He scored again in the fifth when the Yankees drove over three runs.

Tribe Tied By Boston

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox dropped Cleveland into a virtual tie for the American League ilead by tieing the Indians, 5-5, in a pulsating 4 hour, 26 minute, 16-inning battle called at 12:57 a.m. EDT Wednesday due to the league curfew law.

The Indians still hold to first place by four percentage points.

Left-handed reliefer Don Mossi of the Indians pitched three-hit shutout ball over the left seven innings to hold the tie after Cleveland's Bobby Avila hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning to deadlock the issue.

The game, which will have to be replayed, was called under a loop ruling which says no inning can begin after 12:50 a.m.

Boston got brilliant relief work from Ellis Kinder and Sid Hudson who gave up but one safety in the extra innings.

Senators Defeat Baltimore, 9 To 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy Sievers blasted his 15th home run and Eddie Yost slammed a bases-loaded triple as Washington routed Joe Coleman and breezed to a 9-1 victory over Baltimore Tuesday behind the eight-hit pitching of Johnny Schmitz.

The Senators erupted for four runs in the second inning, when Ed Fitz Gerald and Johnny Pesky both singled across two runs. They staged another four-run inning in the sixth when Sievers homered and Yost unloaded his three-run triple.

Stan The Man Unperturbed, Like Hubbell

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The blow-by-blow account of the brawl game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Phils Sunday failed to mention one of our favorite athletes. Poor Stan Musial. All he does is play base-better than just about anyone else we can think of offhand.

We don't know, not having been there, but we have the idea that while several acres of ball players were tussling about the field "The Man" was observing the action with detached interest.

Not that Stan couldn't take care of himself under any circumstances. It's just that he "ain't mad at nobody," as they say, and for that reason his behavior undoubtedly was like that of another nice guy who took a spectator role in another similar battle in the St. Louis park.

Seeking Sixth Straight

He was Carl Hubbell, a pretty fair pitcher in his day. In fact, on this day in question, a bright May afternoon in 1937, he was trying to rack up his sixth straight victory of the season for the New York Giants, and his 22nd straight over a two-year stretch. Did, too, by a 4-1 score.

Hubbell's mound opponent that date was the uninhibited Dizzy Dean, and things hadn't been going so well for Diz that afternoon. For one thing, a balk had been called on him which resulted in the Giants' winning three-run rally.

Anyway, Diz was fuming. Maybe he wasn't dusting off the batters, but if there had been any dust on them it certainly would have disappeared.

In the ninth inning, Jimmy Ripple, Giant centerfielder, dropped to the dirt to avoid a pitch. He arose slowly, his eyes on the Giant bench.

Whether or not he received a silent signal from Manager Bill Terry we wouldn't know, but on the next pitch Ripple bunted toward first, and if Dizzy had to cover the bag, imagine Ripple's surprise!

The pitcher and batter reached the base almost simultaneously, and quicker than you can say Dizzy Dean, were rolling on the ground in close embrace.

Players of both teams, wanting a piece of this private fight, swarmed all over the field, swinging haymakers indiscriminately and leaping on the nearest enemy back in carefree abandon.

While all this was going on, Hubble stood quietly on the dugout steps, surveying the riot with mild interest. When all the confusion was over, with the minimum of damage usually inflicted in ball players' brawls, he came back serenely to pitch the last of the ninth and insure his victory.

Tempers were as bubbling that day as they were last Sunday. In fact, Frankie Frisch, the Cardinals manager, was still so hot the following day that he was thumbed off the lot before a ball had been pitched.

Dizzy and Ripple were let off with $50 fines for their part in the ruckus, a modest assessment considering the turmoil they had instigated.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

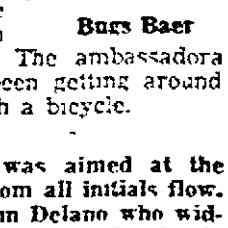
BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS

By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

(Distributed By International News Service)

The two worms meeting in the apple decided it was a small world after all.

Charming Clare Boothe Luce invented a word tree-ripened for eating. Globaloney.



Bugs Baer

Since then Clare Luce Boots has dined heartily on her contribution to the bright lexicon of wordology. The ambassadora to Italy has been getting around like a boy with a bicycle.

Globaloney was aimed at the FDR from whom all initials flow. It was Franklin Delano who widened our horizons until the elastic snapped.

☆ ☆ ☆

Looking into the hell-box of battered columns we find this stack of dependent aberrations was [illegible] with Clare around 1939. Fifteen years ago in a brilliant [illegible] the prophecy was headed for a No-News-From-Europe Week.

You know the rest in the books you have read how the British soldiers fired and fled. In less than two years we had a milk route to the stars.

We were not only global-minded by global-footed. We were committed to more things than the old lady with the affirmative palsy at the auction sale.

☆ ☆ ☆

If consistency is the bugaboo of small minds, you keep the hat and I'll wear the box. I find that through the years I've been on more sides than the government meat stamp.

☆ ☆ ☆

Today Americans split a globe of the world for breakfast. They follow international gimmicks closer than polka dots.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, Clare now is hep that the world is around as cuff-links. And that we have added the Seven Seas as auxiliary ponds to our hatcheries at the five Great Lakes.

☆ ☆ ☆

Rally Salvages Stock Price Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices in the stock market were forced down Tuesday by moderate selling pressure, but a general recovery movement was under way before the close and salvaged a good portion of the loss.

The fall came while the final stages of peace in Indochina were being negotiated in Geneva. That created an air of uncertainty in Wall Street.

Then, too, the market was in a tight spot technically. On average it hit a new high last Thursday and declined Monday.

Wall Street has been accustomed to short periods of consolidation. A more protracted period, it was felt, might uncover weakness in key areas and start a flood of selling culminating in a major correction.

Therefore, when the market sold off Tuesday, there was more than the usual amount of caution present.

Aircrafts were under fire from the start of trading because of their recent strength in the face of general declines in other sections of the market. Profit-taking was in vogue. In the late rally, the aircrafts shook off a lot of their loss and some made good progress at higher prices.

Airlines came to life in the final hour and showed a lot of strength. Some steels also were strong as well as a long list of individual issues. Responding to good earnings reports or forecasts of such good news.

The fall went to between one and three points, but the final strength in the market accounted for gains just as large.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 70 cents, the stiffest loss of the past three weeks, and ended at $120.50, just $1.50 under the best level the average has reached since Oct. 22, 1929.

The industrial component of the average declined 90 cents, the railroads were off $1.00, and the utilities fell 10 cents.

Volume built up to 2,580,000 shares as compared with 2,370,000 shares traded Monday.

Lancaster Polio Chapter To Hold Emergency Drive

Lancaster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will conduct an emergency fund appeal the last two weeks in August in cooperation with the national organization, Morris Siegel, local chairman, announced.

The drive will be conducted by presenting facts to the people of the county through a mail appeal directed to each home, he said.

Minimum nation-wide needs were increased by about $26,500,000, because of the heavy additional costs connected with polio prevention. These included $19,000,000 for gamma globulin and $7,500,000 for field trials of the test vaccine.

National receipts from the 1954 March of Dimes were $20,000,000 short of the anticipated minimum needs for this year, Siegel said.

"It is now entirely evident," he said, "that the additional $20,000,000 must be raised if both the polio prevention and patient aid programs are not to grind to a tragic halt."

Siegel said local chapter officers believe the chapter and the community are morally obligated to cooperate in meeting the emergency.

The Lancaster County Chapter has been able to repay only $5,000 of advances totaling more than $59,000 requisitioned before 1953 for local emergency needs. The production of polio trial vaccine given to the second graders in the county cost more than $16,000 in March of Dimes money, he said.

Soyas Still Rise With Heat Wave

CHICAGO (AP) — The weather continued hot and dry and soybeans continued to boil higher and higher on the Board of Trade Tuesday for the second straight day they went as high as they can go in one session—up 10 cents.

The rest of the grain market, however, had a very spotty appearance. Corn closed strong after opening higher, selling below the previous close around mid-day and coming back again in the closing hour. Wheat and oats worked lower.

Wheat closed ⅝-1⅞ lower, corn 1¼ to 3 cents higher, oats unchanged to 1¼ lower, rye ¼ lower to ½ higher, soybeans 10 cents higher and lard 15 cents lower to 35 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Rally Salvages Stock Price Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices in the stock market were forced down Tuesday by moderate selling pressure, but a general recovery movement was under way before the close and salvaged a good portion of the loss.

The fall came while the final stages of peace in Indochina were being negotiated in Geneva. That created an air of uncertainty in Wall Street.

Then, too, the market was in a tight spot technically. On average it hit a new high last Thursday and declined Monday.

Wall Street has been accustomed to short periods of consolidation. A more protracted period, it was felt, might uncover weakness in key areas and start a flood of selling culminating in a major correction.

Therefore, when the market sold off Tuesday, there was more than the usual amount of caution present.

Aircrafts were under fire from the start of trading because of their recent strength in the face of general declines in other sections of the market. Profit-taking was in vogue. In the late rally, the aircrafts shook off a lot of their loss and some made good progress at higher prices.

Airlines came to life in the final hour and showed a lot of strength. Some steels also were strong as well as a long list of individual issues. Responding to good earnings reports or forecasts of such good news.

The fall went to between one and three points, but the final strength in the market accounted for gains just as large.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 70 cents, the stiffest loss of the past three weeks, and ended at $129.50, just $1.50 under the best level the average has reached since Oct. 22, 1929.

The industrial component of the average declined 90 cents, the railroads were off $1.00, and the utilities fell 10 cents.

Volume buit up to 2,580,000 shares as compared with 2,370,000 shares traded Monday.

Lancaster Polio Chapter To Hold Emergency Drive

Lancaster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will conduct an emergency fund appeal the last two weeks in August in cooperation with the national organization, Morris Siegel, local chairman, announced.

The drive will be conducted by presenting facts to the people of the county through a mail appeal directed to each home, he said.

Minimum nation-wide needs were increased by about $26,500,000, because of the heavy additional costs connected with polio prevention. These included $19,000,000 for gamma globulin and $7,500,000 for field trials of the test vaccine.

National receipts from the 1954 March of Dimes were $20,000,000 short of the anticipated minimum needs for this year, Siegel said.

"It is now entirely evident," he said, "that the additional $20,000,000 must be raised if both the polio prevention and patient aid programs are not to grind to a tragic halt."

Siegel said local chapter officers believe the chapter and the community are morally obligated to cooperate in meeting the emergency.

The Lancaster County Chapter has been able to repay only $5,000 of advances totaling more than $59,000 requisitioned before 1953 for local emergency needs. The production of polio trial vaccine given to the second graders in the county cost more than $16,000 in March of Dimes money, he said.

Soyas Still Rise With Heat Wave

CHICAGO (AP) — The weather continued hot and dry and soybeans continued to boil higher and higher on the Board of Trade Tuesday for the second straight day they went as high as they can go in one session—up 10 cents.

The rest of the grain market, however, had a very spotty appearance. Corn closed strong after opening higher, selling below the previous close around mid-day and coming back again in the closing hour. Wheat and oats worked lower.

Wheat closed ⅜-1⅜ lower, corn 1¼ to 3 cents higher, oats unchanged to 1¼ lower, rye ¼ lower to ½ higher, soybeans 10 cents higher and lard 15 cents lower to 35 cents a hundred pounds higher.

U.S., Britain Complete Collective Asia Defense Plans

Truce Line Defense Hit By Wilson

WASHINGTON (INS) — The State Department said Tuesday the United States and Britain have completed a preliminary blueprint for collective action to defend Southeast Asia from further Red aggression in the wake of an Indochinese cease-fire.

A department spokesman said the discussions between high military and diplomatic officials concluded Saturday and that their recommendations have been submitted to both governments. The secret talks stemmed from the recent Washington conference between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill.

An hour before the announcement, Defense Secretary Charles E Wilson told a news conference he is not enthusiastic about defending a truce line in Indochina "but it seems to be the best answer at the moment."

Wilson emphasized that the United States is in no position to guarantee the truce line alone. He added "We might join in an alliance. It's up to those who reach the agreement to defend the line."

Less Severe

The defense chief refused to speculate on the effects of a truce giving the Communists new territory in Indochina but noted that he is recommending that budget cuts planned for the armed forces be less severe than initially programmed.

Wilson also told newsmen:

1. Two U. S. carriers and four destroyers are "maneuvering" off the Philippines but there are no plans for evacuating Americans from Indochina and no indication such a step will become necessary.

2. The danger of World War III today is "not much different" from what it has been recently and "it might be a little less."

3. "Creeping Communism" rather than outright military action is Russia's main device for conquest. He defined "creeping Communism" as the use of economic pressures and propaganda.

Freeman Cabin Goes For Ride

The Freeman log cabin at ment was moved Tuesday to a new site about a block from the former location. The move was necessary because of the cabin's proximity to the new road and bridge recently completed by the state and which passed within a few feet of the cabin. The new site is on the south bank of Cub Creek but is considered out of danger of flooding. The Freeman homstead was the first in the U. S. (Star Staff Photo)

Thief Flees On Bike

CHICAGO (INS)—A thief who apparently can't afford a getaway car robbed a Chicago baker of $42 Tuesday. The thief described as about 17, poked "something that felt like a gun" into the back of Charles Hoss 52, when Hoss opened his bakery. The boy grabbed the money from the cash register, rushed outside, leaped aboard a bicycle and escaped.

Briefs In Fair Trade Suit Filed

The McGraw Electric Co, maker of automatic toasters, filed briefs with the Supreme Court Tuesday in support of its appeal from the Douglas County District Court in a fair trade act suit.

The firm brought the action originally against the Lewis and Smith Drug Co, Omaha, charging that the drug company had sold automatic toasters below the so-called fair trade price.

District Judges Jackson B Chase and James M Patton, who heard the case at Omaha, ruled that Nebraska's Fair Trade Act, under which the action was brought, is unconstitutional. McGraw then appealed to the Supreme Court.

The documents filed by the McGraw attorneys with the high court Tuesday included a 214-page brief and a 75-page appendix.

State Restaurant Group Protests Insurance Plan

The Nebraska Restaurant Association has filed a protest with Thomas R. Pansing, state director of insurance, and Gov. Robert Crosby against a National Council of Compensation Insurance proposal.

The proposal would require restaurant operators to pay compensation premiums on an arbitrary amount of gratuities for waiters or waitresses.

The Nebraska group said the proposal was "discriminatory against restaurant operators, contrary to the letter and spirit of he insurance laws of the state and inconsistent with good business practice."

'High' Spending By Anderson Hit

Jesse Polson, speaking at a Wagener for governor luncheon, attacked the "exhorbitant spending" of Victor Anderson, Wagener's opponent, in his campaign for Republican nomination for governor.

"I have been amazed," Polson said, "at the advertising Anderson has been doing. Anderson's expenses for his campaign will surely run into thousands and thousands of dollars."

Polson, Lancaster County committee chairman for Wagener, asked the group, "What will Anderson get for his $100,000? Where is the money coming from and what will Anderson give in return?"

U.S., Britain Complete Collective Asia Defense Plans

Truce Line Defense Hit By Wilson

WASHINGTON (INS) — The State Department said Tuesday the United States and Britain have completed a preliminary blueprint for collective action to defend Southeast Asia from further Red aggression in the wake of an Indochinese cease-fire.

A department spokesman said the discussions between high military and diplomatic officials concluded Saturday and that their recommendations have been submitted to both governments. The secret talks stemmed from the recent Washington conference between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill.

An hour before the announcement, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson told a news conference he is not enthusiastic about defending a truce line in Indochina "but it seems to be the best answer at the moment."

Wilson emphasized that the United States is in no position to guarantee the truce line alone. He added: "We might join in an alliance. It's up to those who reach the agreement to defend the line."

Less Severe

The defense chief refused to speculate on the effects of a truce giving the Communists new territory in Indochina but noted that he is recommending that budget cuts planned for the armed forces be less severe than initially programmed.

Wilson also told newsmen:

1. Two U. S. carriers and four destroyers are "maneuvering" off the Philippines but there are no plans for evacuating Americans from Indochina and no indication such a step will become necessary.

2. The danger of World War III today is "not much different" from what it has been recently and "it might be a little less."

3. "Creeping Communism" rather than outright military action is Russia's main device for conquest. He defined "creeping Communism" as the use of economic pressures and propaganda.
